SUMMARY.

The feature of the day's war news is the success of the French offensive around Verdun.

The German offensive which had been suspended since the 22nd, was resumed on Monday with redoubled violence.

The enemy delivered a massed attack on a front, hardly a kilometre in extent, between Avocourt and Malancourt.

The French infantry and light artillery poured in a terrific fire, the enemy's lines being broken again and again.

At nightfall the German commanders recognised the futility of the attacks and retreated leaving large numbers of dead and wounded.

The German wireless news ignores the French offensive, and states:—"Our troops, with little loss, stormed the French position."

The Paris "Temps" states that General von Haeseler has quitted Verdun, and has gone into retirement.

Between the Oise and the Aisne the French artillery dispersed important convoys north-east of Moulin-sans-Touvent.

A neutral observer gives an interesting description of the British General Headquarters in France.

He pays a tribute to the wonderful organisation, and adds that there is spirit plus the brains required for efficiency.

According to Greek newspapers the Allies are taking drastic steps in Crete to root out any depots established on the island.

It is stated that an allied squadron has initiated a blockade.

A communique says fierce, desperate fighting has occurred in the last 48 hours north-west of Gorizia.

An Athens message says the Bulgars have bombarded the Greek village of Karaiaina (near Janitza).

French troops drove out the Germans, who entered Greek territory at various points.

In the region west of Lake Lavoca the Russians dislodged the enemy from part of the forests near Mobritza.

A Rome newspaper states that the Russian offensive alarmed Vienna and Budapest, where thousands of wounded have arrived.

The Allied Conference at Paris has closed.

It is understood that the British members of the conference consider the results will be immediate and far-reaching.

Mr. Hughes's temperature on Wednesday was normal. The doctors hope for steady progress, but point out that care is necessary.

Mr. Walter Long has made a statement in the House of Commons regarding the recruiting situation.

He said the Government had taken drastic steps, including the cancellation of the exemptions for single men under 30.

Mr. T. J. Macnamara says Australia is responsible for the sale of wheat to Italian and Spanish ports in requisitioned steamers.

He added that the Admiralty had not requisitioned these steamers.

An epidemic of marriages has occurred among convalescent Australian soldiers.

Several men who applied to the Agents-General are being granted assisted passages for their wives.

Victoria's proposal for the bulk handling of wheat has received much attention in commercial circles in London.

A Peking message says rebels captured the town of Pengshuh. Another rebel force is seven miles from Luchow.

An appeal has been issued from the National Committee for Belgian Relief for further contributions.

Representatives of the Assembly and Council conferred last night regarding amendments to the Eight Hours Bill.

No agreement was arrived at, after several hours' discussion, and the conference was adjourned till this afternoon.

The French Consul, Mons. Chayet, has received a cable from the Premier of France regarding the Paris Conference.

M. Briand's message contains the resolutions passed with a view to obtaining unity of action for the common cause.

The Acting Prime Minister referred yesterday to Mr. Joseph Cook's remarks regarding Mr. Hughes's speeches.

Senator Pearce dissents from the allegation that any of the speeches may be said to interfere with the Imperial Government.

Among the bills to be introduced next session is an amendment to the Prisoners' Detention Act, 1908.

The amendment will give greater power to detain prisoners suffering from certain contagious diseases.

Mr. Kavanagh, secretary of the Labour Council, at a meeting of that body last night had something to say about strikes.

"Much of the recent industrial trouble," he said, "would have been avoided if the men had gone about things in the proper way."

Serious differences have arisen between highly-placed officers in the administration of the Northern Territory.

The Federal Ministry has decided to appoint a judicial officer, who will look into the matter.

A Federal proclamation has been issued prohibiting the exportation of goods to China (not including Hongkong) and Siam.

Senator Pearce says a statement is to be prepared showing the assets and liabilities of all enemy firms.

Mr. Joseph Cook referred yesterday to what he termed the unsatisfactory recruiting figures.

"We must get a move on," he said, "and the Government must be the prime mover."

A Domain orator was convicted at the Central Police Court on a charge of using abusive language respecting the Lord Mayor.

Judgment was delivered in the case in which railway officials claimed increases which had been suspended owing to the war.

Mr. Justice Edmunds ordered that the suspension be removed, and that the provisions of the awards in question come into operation.

The Lord Mayor is in sympathy with the proposal to alter the name of Grosvenor-street to Shearston-street.

A Sussex-street firm has decided to ask the Commodities Commission for permission to advance the price of cheese.

Butter production in New South Wales is steadily declining, but there are still ample supplies to fulfil requirements.

The Baking Employees' Council has passed a further resolution condemning the proposed bread monopoly.

Two Chinese were fined yesterday for carrying on opium smoking in a house in Blackburn-street, Surry Hills.

The strike of fitters at Cockatoo Island Naval Dockyard has been settled and the men are returning to work.

The height of the water in Cataract reservoir is now 125.02 feet.

The coopers in the employ of several firms have gone back to work after being on strike for the past 13 weeks.

Lady Helen Munro Ferguson attended the meeting of the New South Wales Red Cross executive yesterday.

It was mentioned that over 500 returned soldiers had been cared for in Red Cross convalescent homes in this State.

Preparations for Anzac Day are gradually getting into full swing.

Another contingent of sick and wounded soldiers is expected on Monday.

At Victoria Barracks yesterday 87 men offered their services, and of these 51 were accepted.

The District Commandant held an inspection of troops in the Outer Domain yesterday.

The Governor-General was present, and addressed the various units.

The prisoner who escaped from the Central Police Station on Sunday was recaptured yesterday in Surry Hills.

The 158th list of casualties was issued yesterday. Four men have been killed in action and 241 are reported as ill.

Forecast.—Fine and warmer generally, except for some thunder showers in northern border district.

SPORTS SUITS FOR WINTER MADE TO ORDER BY PEAPES'.

Whilst Sports Jackets are, in most instances, standardised as to the style of front, there is considerable variation in the favoured styles of back.

We are taking orders for these suits in our Economic Tailoring Department, and will incorporate any preferred style of back without extra charge.

The Sports Suit has no vest. None will be needed, even on cold days, because the materials are warm and the coat buttons in front.

For mountaineering at Easter; for all sports purposes; and for lounge wear, it is a serviceable and economical type of suit.

We have a very fine range of materials Scotch Tweeds, Homespuns, Irish Tweeds, and Flannels. These were secured by early contracts, and are now unique in value.

SPORTS SUITS TO ORDER,

55/. 65/. 70/.

We pay postage.

NEW ADELPHI THEATRE.

COMMENCING WEDNESDAY, APRIL 12th.

ALLAN WILKIE,

the masterly Shakespearian Actor, supported by MISS FRIDESWYDE HUNTER-WATTS and a brilliant company in a

SHAKESPEARIAN REPERTOIRE, commencing with Mr. Wilkie's superbly artistic interpretation of

"HAMLET."

"The surprise was not so much Mr. Allan Wilkie's intellectual and refined study of the Danish Prince, but the extraordinarily enthusiastic applause, mingled with cries of 'Bravo' and 'Well done' that came from all parts of the house during and at the end of each act, necessitating the raising of the curtain many times on the well-graced player, with whom must be associated Miss Hunter-Watts, who gave us the best Ophelia seen here for many years."—Melbourne "Argus."

THE RED KITE.

BY WILLIAM L. HENRY.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

CHAPTER XXIV.

The cab was slowly climbing the last hill which separated it from the Beechland's property. After a pause in the desultory conversation, Chetwood, with an impatient movement, put his head out of the window.

"Well, we're getting on, that's one thing," he remarked. "Or, rather, I ought to say we're crawling on. What a study in contrasts! Who would believe that this stuffy snail of a thing and the 'Red Kite' lived on the same earth!"

"In one sense, they don't, you know," objected Gardiner. "The 'Red Kite' is a creature of the air. And this old fly is a relic of one of man's very primitive attempts to abandon the use of his legs. At another time, Stanley, I suppose I couldn't have let that word fly past without improving the occasion. But I won't now; don't be alarmed."

Chetwood gave out a rather mirthless laugh, and for a time silence reigned in the gloomy interior of the fly. This was abruptly broken by Chetwood, who, without preface, gave words to his thoughts.

"I suppose there is no danger," he said, pondering. "Willis is a clever surgeon. He knows what he's about; I'd trust him for that. But, then, he's such an extraordinary optimist—when he wants to be! He has his own way of doing things. He's a perfect Jesuit—doesn't mind what he says so long as he thinks it will benefit the patient directly or indirectly. He'd tell a dying man he was in the best of health; yes, he would, he'd give him a thousand years to live without turning a hair, if he thought it would give him one dog's chance in a million of pulling through. Perhaps he's right."

"From what I've seen of him, I believe in Willis," said Gardiner. "Anyhow, we have to trust to him; there's no choice. There's no 'Red Kite' now to float us off like a magic carpet, and bring back a specialist from anywhere you like. We're spoilt in the way of locomotion. Still, we're as well off in that way as we were before we set eyes on the thing."

"Are we?" mused Chetwood. "I suppose we are. But it doesn't feel like it. There's a big gap—at least, it seems to me that there is."

Gardiner sighed.

"There is a gap; there's no getting away from it. And in more ways than one. I wish I'd said more to James Brand when I had the opportunity. He was a good fellow at heart, and a real plucked 'un, too. That affair of his brother's—well, it was agony to him. He must have been cut up—all to pieces. It would have been only decent to try and buck him up a bit. But there was the Lamb, and everything else. And then, the way he cleared out. Why, it was like a gun going off before you realised you'd touched the trigger."

"Oh, he knew," exclaimed Chetwood. "I had just those feelings myself, but I'm sure he knew. Mind you, he'd have liked to say more, too. But he didn't dare let himself go. I saw that, clearly. He felt it too much. Poor Brand. That's why he cleared off in such a deuce of a hurry. A good friend that, Allen, but what a hater."

The fly creaked on steadily through the night. At length the wheels crunched on the gravel of the Beechlands' drive. Then some soft, dim illumination shone through the darkness. The vehicle tottered to a standstill.

"Beechlands at last," exclaimed Chetwood, turning the handle and jumping down before the driver had time to descend from his box.

Beechlands house bulked dim and gloomy. The lantern in the porch appeared to maintain the dignity of its illumination with more difficulty than usual. Some more distant shafts of light which streamed from a window, here and there, served to reveal the misty vapours of the night. The cab-horse stamped upon the gravel with a disconsolate hoof; the driver, having uttered his thanks for more than his fare, was thrashing his body with his arms in the traditional way of drivers, and in the distance an owl emitted a long wailing hoot.

"Ugh!" muttered Chetwood, as he walked towards the bell, "Beechlands seems to have caught the prevailing complaint. I've never seen it look so much in the dumps."

As the lamps of the cab swung round and away, he pulled the bell. After a pause sounded the clang of bolts drawn back, and the jarring turn of heavy keys. Gardiner raised his eyebrows.

"They seem to be on the alert," he said. "That's the fifth bolt that's being undone now."

"It's Larnby's doing, I expect," replied Chetwood. "Dear old Larnby! He may not be able to prevent bombs from the sky, but he's not going to run any risks from a surprise attack on land!"

As he spoke the last word, one of the doors was slowly opened, and Larnby's figure stood clearly revealed against the soft light within. Chetwood followed by Gardiner, stepped into the lobby.

"I see you're looking after the ladies, Larnby," remarked Chetwood. "Quite right. You can't be too careful!"

At the sight of the two Larnby had fallen back, his mouth opened in amazement. Then, after a moment's hesitation, he hastened to the opened doorway, and peered out into the night. Chetwood observed his action with surprise.

"Shut the door, there's a good fellow!" he said. "It's as cold as charity."

Larnby closed the door, then turned a puzzled countenance to the new arrivals.

"And the others, sir?" he asked.

"There are no others, Larnby."

The old butler threw up his hands.

"You can't mean it, sir. And Master Wedderborne—not Master Wedderborne?"

"You needn't look as horrified as all that, Larnby," protested Chetwood. "Master Wedderbourne is in Tawmouth, wounded. He'll be up here in a day or two, I hope. Here, come to the fire! We three must have a consultation."

He rapidly sketched the events of the day for the old man's benefit. Larnby listened with a breathless interest, breaking in now and then with a startled ejaculation, for which he apologised with the set formula, "I beg your pardon, sir, thank you, sir." Only once did the formula vary, and that was when the story reached the point at which the Lamb was wounded. Then, with a stricken countenance, the butler added the words, "God bless my soul, sir!" Judging by the behaviour of the honoured chief of the below-stairs' world, the Lamb was popular in that region.

When Chetwood had concluded his quick recital, Larnby remained in thought for a moment.

"Then you don't think Mr. James Brand will return here, sir?" he asked.

"No, we don't," replied Chetwood.

"His room's all ready for him if he should," went on Larnby. "It's a queer go, that, sir. I wonder if he had an idea of what was before him when he left. He was very generous all round, before he started this morning."

"This morning!" exclaimed Chetwood. "Oh, I forgot; so it was. It seems ages ago since we started. And now, has anything occurred here since we've been away? Has anything happened to alarm you?"

"No, sir, nothing has happened in that way. There's been none of those bothering Germans, flying or afoot. Otherwise, let me see—Sir William Trewston called. He said he'd come and see you again, sir, about the turf for the new bowling club. And the ladies ate very little for lunch, very little, indeed. I think that's all, sir."

"Very well," said Chetwood, "that seems to dispose of everything here as far as we have gone. Now we have to decide about our present plan of action."

"You see," Gardiner explained to Larnby, "we have to break the news to Miss Wedderborne and Mrs. Arthur Brand."

"That won't be so easy, sir," suggested Larnby, thoughtfully.

"No, confound it!" exclaimed the soldier. "We seem to have reached a point where nothing is easy. In fact, every mortal thing seems infernally difficult just now!"

"We must leave Mrs. Arthur Brand till later," said Chetwood. "I'd better go and see Constance at once."

"Wait a moment!" interjected Gardiner. "Look here! Don't you think that women are much better at these things than we are? Supposing we asked Helen to go and see her first, and tell her about it quietly?"

Chetwood gazed in indecision from Gardiner to Larnby.

"I think the Captain's right, sir," said the latter, catching his eye. "I think Miss Helen would be just the one to do it."

"Would she?" said Chetwood. "I suppose she would. And yet—it's difficult to explain it. You see, the responsibility is mine. It's mine—and—well, I claim it."

"I see what you're getting at, old boy," said Gardiner. "You've got your own burden, and you don't want anybody else's shoulder underneath it. That's it, isn't it? But it seems to me that there's more than that to be considered. When it's a question of shock—women can cry together, can't they? A man and a woman can't do that very well."

At the back of his gloomy thoughts, some tiny spark of humour insisted on flashing the wonder on Chetwood's mind as to how much right the few days of Gardiner's engagement gave him to assume this new and oracular attitude towards women. Nevertheless, he gave in, reluctantly.

"All right," he said, "I suppose you know best. But I must see Constance as soon as possible. I was in special charge of the Lamb. I've got to justify my stewardship—my God! So far as I can. As I feel now, I wish I'd never set eyes on the 'Red Kite.'"

LAW REPORT.

HIGH COURT.

(Before the Chief Justice, Sir Samuel Griffith, Mr. Justice Barton, Mr. Justice Duffy, and Mr. Justice Rich.)

APPEAL AGAINST LAND BOARD.

Everingham v Minister for Lands.

Mr. Rolin, K.C., and Mr. Coffey, instructed by Messrs. A. J. M'Donald and Kemmis (agents for Messrs. M'Guren and Pollack, of Grafton), appeared on behalf of Leslie Everingham to appeal against a majority judgment of the New South Wales Full Court, which allowed an appeal on a special case stated by the Land Appeal Court. Mr. Canaway, K.C., and Mr. Hanbury Davies, instructed by Mr. J. V. Tillett, Crown Solicitor, appeared for the Minister for Lands.

Appellant Everingham was, on and before December 5, 1913, the holder of an original conditional purchase and a conditional lease in the land district of Grafton, for which he had applied in 1908. In 1911 Cyrus Everingham (a cousin) applied for an o.c.p. and for a conditional lease, in virtue therefore, in the same land district, which were subsequently confirmed by the local land board. On December 5, 1913, Cyrus Everingham transferred these lands to Otho Everingham. In 1914 appellant proposed to transfer, by way of sale, to John James Timbs, who already held 320 acres of freehold land, both his c.p. and c.l. lands. The Minister referred the matter to the local land board as to whether this area, together with that already held by Timbs, would not exceed a home maintenance area. The local land board held that a home maintenance area would thereby be exceeded, and recommended that the application for permission to transfer be refused. Against this decision Everingham appealed to the Land Appeal Court, which on April 21, 1915, sustained the appeal, holding that the lands were transferable without the Minister's consent. The Court, however, gave no decision of the point as to whether or not the combined areas would exceed a home maintenance area. At the request of the Minister, the Land Appeal Court stated a case for the Supreme Court as to whether the leases ceased to be subject to section 272 of the Act, which prevents transference to one already holding a home maintenance area, and as to whether the Minister's consent was necessary. The stated case was heard before Sir William Cullen C.J., Mr. Justice Pring and Mr. Justice Gordon, who held, by majority (Mr. Justice Pring dissenting), that the appeal of the Minister should be allowed. Against this majority decision the appeal was made to the High Court.

After hearing argument, Sir Samuel Griffith said that, with all respect to the majority decision of the learned Judges of the Supreme Court, the case seemed to him to be free of any substantial doubt. "I entirely agree," he said, "with the judgment of Mr. Justice Pring and the reasons he expressed for it."

Mr. Justice Barton, Mr. Justice Duffy, and Mr. Justice Rich concurred, and the appeal by Everingham was allowed, with costs against the Minister.

DISPUTE OVER GRAZING PROPERTY.

Campbell v Campbell.

Mr. Bignold and Dr. Waddell, instructed by Mr. E. W. Warren, appeared on behalf of Percy Campbell (son of Alexander Campbell, senior), to appeal against a judgment given by Mr. Justice Harvey in the Equity jurisdiction of the New South Wales Supreme Court in a case over the sale of certain interests in the grazing property known as Tomulla station, in the Muswellbrook district. Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. Bethune, instructed by Messrs. Fitzgerald and Co., of Muswellbrook, appeared for a number of respondents, members of the family (James, George, Malcolm, Alexander, junior, and James Campbell, junior), George Francis Cobb, and the Bank of Australasia.

In June, 1893, and for some time previously, Alexander Campbell, senior, was carrying on the business of grazing in partnership with his brothers, John, Donald, and James, at Tomulla. Alexander Campbell was in financial difficulty, and his brothers, John and James, had guaranteed his overdraft at the bank, as security for which Alexander Campbell mortgaged his interest in the property to his brothers. A further mortgage was given to James Campbell to secure moneys due to him. In June, 1893, Alexander Campbell was convicted on a charge of obtaining money by false pretences, and was sentenced to three years' imprisonment. In August, 1893, he sequestrated his estate, showing his brother James as his principal creditor to whom he owed £2570. In March, 1894, James Campbell advertised his brother Alexander's one-fifth interest in the estate for sale. Only one bid was made for the interest, viz., £3000, made by George Campbell, a son of James Campbell, the mortgagee. A deposit of £50 was paid to the auctioneer. Five weeks afterwards James Campbell told the official assignee of his brother's estate, under examination, that the value of the whole estate was £30,000. He, however, considered £3000 a fair value for Alexander's one-fifth share, in view of depreciation and of the fact that the sale was well advertised. In fact, as Mr. Justice Harvey found, George Campbell never paid any more than the original £50 deposit, and in August, 1895, he retransferred the one-fifth interest to his father, James Campbell. Then James Campbell mortgaged the whole of the two-fifths interest in the estate to the Bank of Australasia as security for an overdraft of £10,000. In October, 1895, Alexander Campbell was released from prison, and at the end of 1901 set about getting his estate released from bankruptcy. He secured releases of their debts from all proved creditors, to the amount of over £2000, no dividend having ever been paid to any of them. He stated in his affidavit that the whole of his debt to his brother James had been paid in full when his one-fifth interest in the estate had been sold, but stated that he thought his interest should have brought more money—about £5000, he thought. The bankrupt's application for release was refused by the Registrar in 1904.

In March, 1911, the official assignee, with the consent of the bankrupt, assigned all of Alexander Campbell's right and title to his son, Percy Campbell, the appellant. On May 24, 1911, Percy Campbell filed a statement of claim, alleging that the sale of his father's interest had been improperly effected, and a fair realisation of its value prejudiced by the mortgagee. Mr. Justice Harvey said that there were many circumstances, including the lapse of time—19 years—which prevented him ascertaining what the real facts of the case were. He, however, found that the sale in 1894 was properly advertised and conducted, and there was no evidence of any attempt on the part of James Campbell to keep people away from the sale. His Honor said he believed there had been a promise by James to retransfer to Alexander his one-fifth interest whenever his affairs were straightened out. His Honor did not think, however, that he would be justified in holding that a case had been made out of attempting to defraud, and he dismissed the case, but declined to allow costs. It was against this decision that the appeal to the High Court was made.

The case stands part heard.

The action Booth v Municipal Council of Sydney, arising out of a resumption, is still part heard.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

A WORKMAN'S CLAIM.

Ashe v the Commonwealth.

Mr. Watt and Mr. Tighe, instructed by Messrs. Cecil A. Coghlan and Company, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Pickburn, instructed by the Commonwealth Crown Solicitor, for the defendant. This was an action brought by Frederick Arthur Ashe against the Commonwealth of Australia to recover compensation for injuries sustained by him while working at Cockatoo Island on June 26 at a timber-cutting machine. The case on both sides has already been stated. Upon the termination of the evidence an important point was raised by Mr. Pickburn, who contended that, apart from the question of the liability of the Commonwealth at common law, it was not bound by the local statutes applicable to the case, and the only liability was under the Workmen's Compensation Act, passed by the Commonwealth Parliament. He also submitted that the joiner's shop in which the accident occurred was not a factory within the meaning of the Factories and Shop Act, and, further, that the Commonwealth was not the occupier within the meaning of that Act, nor was plaintiff a workman in its employment, as alleged. Reading the words of the definition section in the ordinary way, it was clear that the Commonwealth was not a "person, company, or association," especially when it was remembered that the Act was a re-enactment of an Act passed before the Commonwealth was in existence at all. He also contended that the Commonwealth was not bound by the Employers' Liability Act, and if he was correct in his argument the only question that could go on to the jury was whether negligence had been established at common law.

Mr. Watt, on the other hand, argued that the Commonwealth was bound by the Factories and Shops Act, and also the Employers' Liability Act. This was clear from the 79th section of the Judiciary Act, and also the decision of the Full Court on the King v Bamford, 4, State Reports (1911), page 337, which the High Court recognised as correctly laying down the law. There was no question that the Commonwealth was the occupier of this shop, and was also the employer of the plaintiff.

His Honor decided that neither Act referred to applied to the Commonwealth, and therefore the only question to go to the jury was whether the defendant had been guilty of negligence at common law.

The jury found for plaintiff on the count for common law negligence, with damages £500. On the application of Mr. Pickburn a stay of proceedings was granted.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson and a jury of four.)

FELL INTO AN EXCAVATION.

Lutwych v Water and Sewerage Board.

Mr. Austin, instructed by Mr. J. W. Abigail, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Curlewis, K.C., and Mr. Thomson, instructed by Mr. H. S. Williams, for the defendant board. This was an action brought by Maria Lutwych, wife of Alfred Lutwych, formerly of Mosman, to recover compensation for injuries received by a fall into a sewer excavation. She charged negligence against the defendant board's servants in leaving the trench unlighted and unprotected, and claimed £1000 damages and compensation. The defendant board pleaded not guilty.

The jury proceeded to Mosman to view the place where the accident occurred.

Evidence on behalf of the defendant board was to the effect that a guard-rail was placed round the sewer trench.

Counsel's addresses to the jury were concluded, and his Honor will sum up this morning.

IN EQUITY.

Before Mr. Justice Harvey.

MOUNT OXIDE MINES, LTD., v GOULD AND OTHERS.

Mr. Knox, K.C., addressed the Court on behalf of the plaintiff company. He said he had been asked, and he had no objection, to admit the fact of Hermann's bankruptcy.

His Honor: Is he an uncertificated bankrupt? Yes.

Continuing, Mr. Knox went into details of the actions of the defendant directors, whom, he contended, had been guilty of neglect of their duties. This neglect, he held, was especially shown in connection with the £20,000 obtained by Hermann, which should have come to the company. Counsel's address concluded at the rising of the Court. This morning Mr. Shand, K.C., will open his address on behalf of Sir Albert John Gould, one of the defendant directors.

DIVORCE COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

HAYDON v HAYDON.

Mr. R. W. Fraser appeared for the petitioner, Albert Edward Haydon, who sought a divorce from his wife, Isabella Ann Haydon (formerly Cleary) on the ground of her misconduct with one Bertie Wilberforce West, who was joined as co-respondent; and Mr. E. H. Gardner appeared for the respondent and co-respondent. Petitioner alleged that the misconduct charged took place on various dates. Respondent, in her answer, counter-charged misconduct against her husband, also desertion, and such wilful neglect or misconduct as conduced to the misconduct (if any).

Evidence, which had begun on the previous day, was continued.

His Honor said the petitioner had not made out his case, and the counter-charges by the respondent were not sustained. He dismissed the suit.

COOK v COOK.

Mr. Perry, instructed by Mr. J. W. Abigail, appeared for the petitioner, Hector Cook, junr; the respondent, Catherine Fanny Cook (formerly Williams), appeared in person; and Mr. P. K. White appeared for the co-respondents, Lindsay John Stanton and William Wilton. This was a suit for the dissolution of the marriage between petitioner and respondent, misconduct with the two co-respondents being the ground alleged; while the respondent's issue was that the misconduct (if any) alleged against her and Stanton had been condoned. The parties were married at East Moree on July 30, 1903, according to the rites of the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Perry, at the opening of the case, admitted that the misconduct, if any, by Stanton, had been condoned, and that there had been no revival as against him.

Mr. P. K. White said that the co-respondent Wilton had gone to the war, but his evidence had been taken de bene esse.

The respondent denied having misconducted herself with Wilton. In his de bene esse examination Wilton denied ever having misconducted himself with respondent.

The case stands part heard.

BANKRUPTCY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

QUESTION OF COSTS.

Re estate of Robert E. Rygate (deceased).

Mr. E. M. Mitchell, instructed by Messrs. Fisher and Macansh, appeared for the official assignee of the estate of Robert Edward Rygate, bankrupt (deceased); and Mr. Jordan, instructed by Messrs. McDonell and Moffitt, for the Public Trustee (Mr. T. W. Garrett). A few days ago an application was made to the Court on behalf of the official assignee for an order declaring that a policy of life insurance for £500 taken out by the bankrupt while he was uncertificated was the property of his official assignee. His Honor held that the policy was protected under the Life, Fire, and Marine Insurance Act, and dismissed the application, and the question now arose as to the costs of the proceedings.

His Honor said the question which occurred to him was whether he could, in bankruptcy, make an order binding an estate which the Public Trustee was administering for the benefit of the beneficiaries or sanction any compromise which the executors had entered into.

Mr. Jordan said he was instructed by the Public Trustee to say that he had no objection to the Court making an order that the costs of the proceedings should come out of the fund represented by the policy, but, of course, there was the question whether the beneficiaries would consent to the costs being paid out of the fund.

His Honor having heard argument, said he thought the agreement come to by the Public Trustee as to costs was a reasonable one, in the nature of a compromise, and the only question was whether he could give effect to it on this motion. On consideration he was of opinion that he could do so. The case of Fitzgerald v Fitzgerald decided that the beneficiaries of an estate must pay their share of liability for costs, and he thought the costs here fell within that category. The consent of the Public Trustee was a reasonable and proper one, and he therefore ordered the costs of the Public Trustee and official assignee to be paid out of the fund as between solicitor and client.

(Before the Registrar.)

CERTIFICATE APPLICATIONS.

Delph Singh, a bankrupt, yesterday applied for a certificate of discharge. His application was opposed by Mr. Mack, who was instructed by Mr. J. W. H. Houston. Mr. A. J. Grant appeared for the bankrupt. Mr. W. H. Palmer is the official assignee of the estate.

At the opening of the case the Registrar (Mr. F. H. Salusbury) said that he had received a letter from the bankrupt, making certain allegations against a solicitor.

Delph Singh, the bankrupt, was sworn. He stated that he had filed an affidavit on February 23, in which he made certain charges against J. W. H. Houston, who formerly acted as his solicitor.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mack, bankrupt said that he would not deny or admit that he had been convicted of fraud in connection with a gold albert.

Mr. Mack: Was it a fact that Mr. Justice Simpson, of the Equity Court, said that he did not believe a word you said?

Bankrupt made no reply.

Mr. Mack: Didn't you sue Mr. Houston and the Court dismissed the case? Yes; but Mrs. Singh paid him £84 for documents in Mr. Palmer's office—that's the sort of thing that's going on in this country.

Did you consent to an order dismissing the case with £21 costs? No; I know nothing about solicitors at all.

The Registrar: Is this what happened? The suit against Houston, for the deed, was dismissed by the Court with £21 costs, and all affidavits to be taken off the file?

Bankrupt: The affidavits were taken off, and I paid £84.

Mr. Mack: Do you remember entering into a deed on July 8 with Thomas Martin and his wife, Emily?—No; not by myself.

Any power of attorney? Look at the signature at the end of this document. Is it your signature?—I wont say no, I wont say yes.

The Registrar: There it is. Did you sign it at Houston's table?—I never signed this document on my own behalf. This is not the real document, which was signed by five other people. My signature is there by fraud.

Mr. Mack: You say you borrowed this money for the company?—Houston has the document. He won't give it up, and puts this forward as the real document.

Did you tell Martin, from whom you borrowed £600 and gave a power of attorney, that you had certain lands—14 acres?—I did not sign the power of attorney.

In the deed which you did sign you said that you were the registered proprietor?—Yes.

Mr. Mack (showing bankrupt a document): Is that your signature?—It looks like it, but I won't say one way or the other.

Were not Martin's transactions with you private transactions?—No. I never said so, and I repeat it now. The minute-book will show it. I did not tell Martin that the £600 would be repaid to him by the brick company.

Are both the power of attorney and the original of the document shown you by the Registrar forgeries?—Yes. It must be so.

You are not confusing one with the other?—No.

Bankrupt, when shown the document containing terms of settlement of Kays Kor's action against him, admitted his signature. This, he said, producing a paper from his pocket, is the true document.

His signature as director of the brick company, bankrupt added, was a forgery.

Mr. Mack: Who forged it?—Mr. Houston.

The Registrar: You signed the terms as a director?—Yes.

Did you sign more than one copy of it?—No. Only one paper of the sort on the same day.

Asked by Mr. Mack if he signed a certain document, bankrupt said: It may be my signature and may not be. I can't say.

Mr. Grant, bankrupt's solicitor, said that Delph Singh could not read English, and asked that matters should be fully explained to him.

Questioned by Mr. Mack as to a statement in his affidavit that "Demiskoff was on the high seas" when he purported to witness a document, bankrupt said that it might be that Demiskoff was in collusion. "I blame," he said, "my solicitor Houston; he misled me in every way."

Referring to the bankrupt's letter to the Registrar, mentioned above, the bankrupt said that it was written by a friend of his.

Mr. Mack: Why did you go to him when you had a solicitor?—He is a friend. All you solicitors do very funny business. You take me down, all of you.

DOMAIN ORATOR CONVICTED.

LORD MAYOR ABUSED.

In the Summons Division of the Central Police Court yesterday before Mr. Macfarlane, C.S.M., Vincent Spencer Pennington, a Domain orator, was proceeded against, at the instance of Detective O'Reilly, for having used abusive language respecting Mr. R. D. Meagher, the Lord Mayor of Sydney.

Detective O'Reilly stated that Pennington, in the course of an address to about 200 men and youths, in the Domain, on the 19th instant, referred to Mr. Meagher as "that big bulky loafer and conspirator and convicted criminal, Saint Richard Denis Meagher, now Lord Mayor of Sydney." At a later stage he referred to the number of white women employed in Chinese fruiterers' shops in Paddington, and said "You ask how that can be, when criminals can be Lord Mayors." Witness had previously cautioned defendant about his language, and he had toned down his remarks somewhat, until, on the date in question, he re-started his abuse.

Pennington, in his defence, denied having used the words complained of in the manner in which they appeared on the information. He admitted, however, that he had said "Saint Richard Denis Meagher, the self-convicted public liar and conspirator, who was convicted, got five years, and got out on a technical point, that they now have made Lord Mayor of Sydney."

His Worship said that public officials must be protected. Probably defendant was a crank; but otherwise he appeared to be a good citizen. He convicted Pennington, and ordered that he be bound over in recognisances to be of good behaviour for 12 months, in default, one month's hard labour.

Mr. Blackmore, of the Crown Law Office, appeared on behalf of the prosecution; and Mr. H. C. G. Moss, for the defence.

FURNITURE, ETC.

A LONG WAY AHEAD,
AND TRYING TO DO BETTER STILL.

The week has been a busy one with us. The war has not upset our prices, but prevented people taking full advantage of the ATTRACTIVE BARGAINS displayed in our FACTORY SHOWROOMS. The mails, too, have brought increased inquiries for orders; all full proof of the Quality and Saving at O. K. Elliott's. BUT STILL WE ARE NOT SATISFIED. We are DETERMINED TO DO EVEN BETTER in our Efforts to meet the demands, tastes, and pockets of people requiring furnishings.
SEE OUR COMPLETE £50 FURNISHING SCHEME. SET OUT IN ROOMS TO GIVE YOU AN IDEA HOW THINGS WILL LOOK WHEN IN YOUR OWN HOME. A SCHEME WHICH COULD NOT BE OBTAINED ELSEWHERE FOR LESS THAN £65. IS THE SAVE WORTH YOUR CONSIDERATION? The PRICE is TEMPTING, but wait until you VIEW the FURNISHINGS. The QUALITY is THERE, and so are the sizes. THESE ARE THE POINTS YOU HAVE TO CONSIDER. A BARE ADVERTISED PRICE CONVEYS NOTHING. We can quote you from ANY DESIGN OF FURNITURE and IN ANY QUANTITY, OTHER OUTFITS, £35 to £120.
Country Orders Booked Free. Delivery within 20 miles of Factory. Open until 10 p.m. FRIDAYS.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

STATE CATTLE STATION.

The decision of the Queensland Government to establish a State run has a wide interest, as it is likely to be the forerunner of similar holdings in various parts of the northern State as part of a scheme to control the supply of meat. The Queensland Government already has a State butchery in Brisbane, whence meat is sold over the block. The supplies were obtained from meat that had been prepared for the Imperial Government, and meat the produce of stock that were commandeered when endeavouring to cross the border into this State. It is now proposed to put the supplies of cattle on a more permanent basis, and this may be taken as an indication that the policy of State butcheries is to be widely extended throughout the northern State. Demands for such shops in various parts of Queensland have reached the Government, who, in each case, answered that it was awaiting the result of the first experiment. The property selected for the first cattle station is Dillalah holding, of 478 square miles, the lease of which has fallen in. The run is on the railway in the far west, between Charleville and Cunnamulla. This line will serve the holding on the eastern boundary; while the western extension to Tobermory will intersect the holding on the northern end. The property carries about 5000 head of cattle, for which the Government will probably negotiate as the basis for stocking up. The holding is in a splendid strategical position for carrying out the purpose that the Queensland Government has in view. It will be used largely as a depot—for fattening up stock and landing them at the works in the best condition. Dillalah is in the direct stock route for cattle brought from stations in the far west. As a rule, stock are travelled in a south-easterly direction, and as the Government will probably secure a number of other properties in the west, it will be able to bring the fat stock down to Dillalah for topping up before killing, and rail them from that point. Needless to say, the proposals of the Queensland Government are viewed with a good deal of scepticism owing to the difficulty of making a success in an undertaking of this sort so liable to the vagaries of the seasons. A large number of hard-headed and hard-working men have lost their all in cattle stations.

IMPORTED FRUIT.

THE GROWERS' STANDPOINT.

Mr. C. Churchill Tucker (president of the Fruit Growers' Association of New South Wales), speaking yesterday regarding Mr. Pat Duffy's letter to the "Herald" dealing with American fruit importations, said that Mr. Duffy dealt with the question of imported fruit from the standpoint of a merchant, and, of course, naturally was biassed in favour of an open market here for imported fruit. "No doubt if he were a provision merchant," said Mr. Tucker, "he would also advocate an open market for the produce of the dairy farmer and poultry farmer? Both these industries are heavily protected, as compared to the fruit industry. Mr. Duffy says that in North America the duty on lemons has been reduced one half to enable us to put them in at a price at which the working man can afford to buy them, and then he says that sales range from 20/ to 30/ per case, which can hardly be called a working man's price. Let me ask Mr. Duffy, if we have such a splendid market as he makes out the American market to be, how is it that we have so long neglected our opportunities? Where are our enterprising merchants of this side, who can collect and ship fruit in large quantities to the markets that he speaks of? Does not the truth lie in the fact that the States of New South Wales, Queensland, and Western Australia are barred entry into the Californian ports, on account of the prevalence of the fruit fly, which is only prohibition in another form?

"If Mr. Duffy cuts the ground from under the feet of those States which are in a position to supply early fruit by the introduction of American fruit into their markets, that are dumped here in order to relieve the congestion of their own markets, he cannot claim to be a benefactor to the fruit industry. We produce early fruit in this State, and we feel the competition of America very much more keenly than the southern States, for we not only have American fruit to contend with in our own local markets, but in those markets which hitherto used to draw their supplies principally from New South Wales. Mr. Duffy seems to forget that the climatic conditions are so varied in Australia that we can practically do without any imported fruit, and that unless equal protection is given us that the other industries of the soil are provided with, we cannot hope to make a success of the industry. The fact that there is less land under cultivation is sufficient proof that the open markets have been disastrous for the fruitgrower of this part of the Commonwealth, and that prospects are still less encouraging. America is only doing to the fruit industry now what New Zealand did in the early days before high protection put a stop to New Zealand products coming into the Commonwealth. Surely if we wanted an object-lesson on the value of protection here is one.

"Mr. Duffy hides from the public the fact," Mr. Tucker added, "that the duty on American imported lemons is only 6d per dozen, and that there is a prohibitive tariff on most fruits going from here to California or Vancouver, except on passionfruit. The reason why the trade in passionfruit has not developed to the extent that it should is because of the disease known as 'woodiness,' which seriously affects the passionfruit of the State, and for which our experts have not yet any remedy. The fruitgrowers of this State would be only too pleased to enter into reciprocal arrangements with America with regard to fruit imports and exports. Under present conditions, however, very little trade is being done, and in spite of what Mr. Duffy says, the prospects of business are not so satisfactory as to warrant orchardists exploiting the market with the lines mentioned in his letter. The statement that our own citrus fruits do not keep is not borne out by recent experiments conducted by myself, which went to prove conclusively that our citrus fruits can be kept in perfect condition for a number of months, and are equal to any imported."

SALE OF STATION.

At the Royal Exchange yesterday Byrimine Station, Cloncurry, Queensland, was submitted to public auction by Winchcombe, Carson, Ltd., acting conjointly with Mr. E. S. Sautelle. The property comprises some 346 square miles of country, and 11,000 head of cattle were included in the sale. There was a very good attendance of buyers, Queensland being particularly well represented. Bidding started at £45,000, and keen competition was displayed until £53,000 was reached. As the reserve price exceeded this figure, the station was withdrawn for private treaty, and during the afternoon the auctioneers succeeded in completing a sale on a walk-in walk-out basis to Messrs. Birt and Co., Ltd., as agents.

WHEAT-GROWING.

Mr. W. E. Abbott writes to the effect that, owing to increase in the area under wheat throughout the world, and the high shipping freights that will rule owing to destruction of so many ships, it looks as if it will be impossible to export wheat from Australia at a profit after the war. He adds, "the substitution of wheat-growing for grazing in all the good rainfall districts of New South Wales, combined with the depletion of stock by the last three years of drought, is certainly the cause of the extreme scarcity of mutton and beef in all the States, and unfortunately the shortage of stock will make it impossible for the large wheat-growers to go back to grazing for some years. Stock cannot be produced by an Act of Parliament."

PRODUCERS' UNION.

DAIRY FARMERS ORGANISING.

MILTON.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of farmers was held on Wednesday to consider the proposal of joining the proposed Primary Producers' Union. Mr. Meares, representing the Coastal Farmers' Co-operative Company, and Mr. Knox, representing the Berrima Company, were present. Mr. F. W. Cork, chairman of directors of the local butter factory, was voted to the chair, and expressed himself as strongly in favour of such a step as proposed. He emphasised the need amongst primary producers for uniting in self-defence against the encroachments upon the rights of the producer. Messrs. Meares and Knox and other local speakers spoke in a similar and emphatic strain. The following resolutions were carried unanimously:—"(1) That this representative meeting of farmers of the Ulladulla district, assembled at Milton, and engaged in the production of dairy produce, hereby decide to join the Primary Producers' Union for the protection and advancement of dairying and other farming interest." "(2) That it be a recommendation from this meeting that the butter and cheese factories of this district be empowered to deduct monthly a levy of not more than ¼ per cent. of the value of the output as a fighting fund."

SHEARING AND STATION WORK.

UNION LOG PREPARED.

SUBSTANTIAL INCREASES CLAIMED.

As the outcome of resolutions sent in from shearing sheds during the year, a conference of representatives of the pastoral section of the Australian Workers' Union drafted a set of claims on behalf of pastoral employees generally, which was submitted to the last annual convention of that organisation. The final result is a log, which is to be submitted to members at stations and shearing sheds for formal endorsement during the coming season. The claims will then be presented to the employers, and, if not conceded, will be lodged before the Commonwealth Arbitration Court for an award to replace the existing award, which expires this year. The new log includes claims for station hands, who are not covered by the current award. Substantial increases are claimed for shearing and general shed work, while an increase of 50 per cent. is claimed for cooks.

The principal demands are as follow:—

Shearing.—Flock sheep, £1/10/ per 100, stags and rams over six months, £3 per 100; stud ewes and lambs, £2 per 100. Comb and cutter allowance, 1/ per 100. Day rate for shearing stud ewes and lambs, £1 per day and found. In Tasmania and Western Australia the shearing rate claimed is 25/ per 100 and found.

Shed hands, £3 per week and found, with travelling fares; penners-up and yardmen, £3/10/, with same conditions.

Crutching Rates.—Crutching between the legs, 6/ per 100; crutching between the legs and over the tail, 7/6 per 100. Where men are found in food and accommodation, 1/ per 100 less. Wigging and ringing, in addition to crutching, 1/6 per 100 extra; wigging and ringing only, 6/ per 100, or 5/ per 100 where found. Day rates for crutching, £1 per day, employer to find food during lost time in wet weather.

Cooks to receive 6/ per man per week, employer to have sheep killed. Cooks for fewer than 10 men to be paid a minimum of £3 per week, owner making up that amount after shearers have paid award rate.

Hours of work for shearing-shed work have been fixed in the log at 44 hours per week, not more than eight hours to be worked per day and four on Saturday. Shearing is to be divided into two four-hour runs, to be worked between 8 a.m. and 5.30 p.m., with an interval from 12 to 1.30 p.m. for dinner.

General station hands, musterers, rabbit poisoners, pick and shovel men, £2/10/ per week and found. Boundary riders, £2 and found. Bullock drivers, horse drivers, camel drivers, mule and donkey drivers, £2 10/ per week and found; extra when on the road. Stockmen, £2/10/ and found; head stockman, £1 per week extra. Horsebreakers, 30/ per head and found. Sheep drovers, £2/10/ per week and found; cattle drovers, £3 per week and found.

Station cooks, £3 per week and found; gardener, £2/10/ and found; married couple, £150 per year and double rations.

THE WHEAT SCHEME.

MOLONG.—The Molong branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Association at its last meeting adopted the following resolution:—"That this branch emphatically protests against the Government selling wheat to millers at the reduced price of 4/9 per bushel, after stating that no wheat would be sold under London parity price; and this meeting considers that such action was a breach of faith with the farmers."

BATHURST FARM.

BATHURST.—Harvesting operations in the experiment farm orchard are being continued. Excellent returns have been obtained from plums, while the yield of apples has also given satisfaction. The farm will be the only fruit exporters from the district this year; last month 250 cases were sent away, while a further 200 cases were sent to the Red Cross Society in Sydney as a gift from the Agricultural Department. The inferior apples are being converted into pulp, and already orders for 20 tons of this material have been received. The prune crop has been good, and its processing has now been almost completed. At the State irrigation farm a new pumping plant of a capacity of 35,000 gallons per hour is being installed in substitution of the old plant, which had a capacity of 14,000 gallons.

FACTORY RETURNS.

BOMBALA.—During February the Cathcart Dairy Company manufactured 14,350lb of first-grade butter, which was sold for £825 3s 2d, and 705lb of second-grade, which realised £36 16s 10d. The total working expenses amounted to £103 11s 2d, leaving £758 8s 10d to be divided among the suppliers. The supply at the factory has increased considerably since the recent rains.

FREEZING WORKS AT BOMBALA.

BOMBALA.—The Bombala Freezing Works have commenced operations. Mr. Bradshaw, Government inspector, has stated that they are the most up-to-date yet erected in the State. Mr. C. E. Scandrett is the manager. The works are capable of packing and freezing up to 1500 crates of rabbits per week, and of storing about 6000 crates. Each crate contains 24 rabbits. When everything is in going order it is expected that somewhere about £500 per week will be paid out for wages and rabbits. Three motor lorries are to be used to bring the rabbits in from outside centres, such as Delegate, Cathcart, and Maharatta, and carry the crates of frozen rabbits to the railway station at Nimitybelle.

IRRIGATION COMMISSIONER.

LEETON.—The month within which the Premier promised that a resident Commissioner would be appointed expired to-day. Residents are greatly disappointed at the failure of Mr. Holman to keep his promise.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BATHURST.—Owing to the continued absence of rain the conditions throughout the district have become dry, and as well as inconveniencing the pastoralists, are interfering with the work of the farmers. The ground in many places is too hard for ploughing, though the period for seeding has commenced. There is the danger that the lack of rain will prevent early germination, from which the best results are invariably obtained in these parts. Good falls of rain would thus at the present juncture be decidedly welcome. The growth in the pastures promoted by the earlier showers has now been retarded, so the pastoral conditions for the winter are not as bright as they appeared a few weeks back. Good falls are now needed to bring along the rye and other autumn growths. Only in a few instances will satisfactory maize crops be harvested, the last rains having arrived too late. This also applies largely to the potato crops in the immediate vicinity of Bathurst.

DAPTO.—Continued dry weather is causing grave anxiety to farmers. The recent showers benefited the growing crops, but were not heavy enough to do the pastures much good. There is a dry belt along the coast from Wollongong to Shellharbour, and the soil needs a heavy downpour of rain. As the nights are getting cold there is little prospect of grass for the winter. Already dairy farmers are buying hay, chaff, and bran for their herds.

DUBBO.—The warm dry spell of weather is beginning to make itself felt in this district, and most farmers are refraining from ploughing until the soil is softened by a good downpour of rain. The stock routes are all eaten out, and hand-feeding on the holdings is now being resorted to.

WINGHAM.—There is a luxuriant growth of grass in some parts of the district. Stock are in the pink of condition, and dairy pastures are responsible for a very satisfactory cream flow to the various factories. However, some steady, soaking rain is absolutely essential in order to provide lasting grass for the winter months. In places it is already going off. On the Upper Manning there are some very promising maize crops, though the bulk of them are late.

YASS.—Farmers and pastoralists would welcome a couple of inches of rain, which would mean good autumn feed, with favourable lambing conditions and winter feed. As it is farmers are delaying ploughing, although in the old fallowed ground farmers prefer the dry conditions for seeding. A lot of barley for green feed is going in.

LATE MR. JOHN KENNEDY.

Mr. John Kennedy, who died recently at his residence, Durra, Cannon-street, Petersham, was one of the pioneers of the Temora goldfields. He was born in King's County, Ireland, 83 years ago, but left there when a young man. He leaves a widow, a married daughter, and two sons, both of the latter being on active service, one with the motor transport column in France, and the other with the 12th reinforcements of the 3rd Battalion, in Egypt.

WAGES IN WAR TIME.

RAILWAY OFFICIALS.

SUSPENDED BENEFITS GRANTED

In November, 1914, Mr. Justice Edmunds, in the Industrial Court, varied the award of the Government Railways No. 13 Board, under which the railway official and clerical staff worked, clause 5 being amended so as to provide for an advance in case of satisfactory service from the 7th class, minimum £140, to the 6th class, maximum £230, by annual increments. Clause 25 was also made to operate so as to put the officers who had reached the maximum of their class under the previous classification by the Chief Commissioner, at the maximum in the classification under the award, and others at a pro rata advance, such as to make their position at or above the minimum of the class under the award correspond with their position in this respect, as it stood under the previous classification. These benefits, although verbally expressed in the award as amended, were suspended because of the war. The Railway and Tramway Officers' Association had applied to the Court for the recission of the order, so as to give life to the provisions of the award; and Mr. Justice Edmunds, before whom the case was heard, delivered his reserved decision yesterday.

In the course of his judgment, his Honor said that the applicants claimed that circumstances have so changed that it was unfair that they should be singled out any longer for the exceptional treatment caused by the suspension. It was true that circumstances had so far changed that the losses in the Railway and Tramway services, which were feared in November, 1914, to be inevitable consequences of the war, had not been so great as was then apprehended.

"It is, however," continued his Honor, "the fact that the railway revenue has been seriously affected by the war, and though there are good signs of an improvement in this respect, the effects still continue to be very serious. But the unemployment in the service which was caused by the war, and which was one of the chief reasons for suspension in this case, has passed away, and the prospects of recovery of the railway and tramway revenue to normal conditions are probably brighter now than they have been since the war began. The total increases created by the award as amended were estimated at £20,000 per annum, but some of these increases—namely, the annual increments, and the advance to the minimum of the class, have already come into operation. It has not been made clear to me what further amount would be incurred by lifting the suspension in this case. Pro rata increases under clause 25, as amended, for the current financial year, have been estimated by the department at £5000, and from February 1, 1915, to the end of the financial year, at £1850. The amount represented by the abolition for pay purposes of the barrier between class 7 and class 6 has not been stated.

"On the principle of the judgment of February 22, 1915, these officers are entitled to show that the suspension is operating in a one-sided way, and is imposing exceptional treatment upon them, and it is open to the Court, if it thinks that that has been shown, to remove the suspension, even though doing so will impose increased expenditure upon the Chief Commissioner. Whether the Court will do that is a question in each case depending on the circumstances and the view taken under them by the Court. The first question for consideration, therefore, is whether the suspension in this case is exceptional treatment. On February 22, 1915, the application by the Chief Commissioner to suspend all provisions of service awards granting increases was dismissed, and the wages staff, coming within the operation of section 26 of the Act, has received such increases as have been made by awards in similar industries outside the service, and have also had the margin above the minimum wage, which had been granted for meritorious service, retained. The officers of the Public service, who for the time were refused increases during the war, have since had all the award increases granted to them, and the increases have in these cases been ante-dated, so that progress in the service has been restored as if the war and its consequences had never existed. It was contended on behalf of the Chief Commissioner that these recent improvements in conditions in the Public and Railway services were cases of allowing provisions of awards that had been in effect, and the benefit of which had been enjoyed but which had been suspended by reason of the war, to resume their operations, and that the present case was different from these, because the benefits here in question had never been enjoyed under the award, they having been suspended at the very moment of their creation. But I cannot see what difference in substance there is between the present case and one in which similar award provisions may have been in operation for a day or a week, or longer, and then suspended. If the suspension is to continue indefinitely, it will be better to strike these provisions out of the award altogether. This, I think, would do injustice. I therefore come to the conclusion that the officers in question are bearing an exceptional burden, and that in the circumstances of this case it is right that such special burden should be removed.

"The applicants claim further that they should get the advantage of one or other of the three following arrangements:—1. That the suspension should be so removed as to provide for payments under the award as if such suspension had never been ordered; or (2) back pay to March, 1913, the date of the order permitting application for increases to service boards should be granted; or (3) that the suspended provisions should now have effect given to them in respect of the status and salaries of the officers concerned, so as to establish their position at the present time, without, however, any payment in respect to the period covered by the suspension. I cannot accede to the first or second of these proposals, but I think the third is fair. To refuse to grant the third would be equivalent to the removal of the provisions of the award of April 6, 1914, and their insertion now for the first time. The suspension does not mean that these provisions are not in existence; it means that the benefits under them are not to be received while the order for suspension lasts. The removal of the suspension means, I think, that after such removal the position of the parties affected is to be made as far as possible as if the provisions had never been suspended. Any disturbance of seniority that may have been caused by the suspension should, I think, be corrected, which, as Mr. Cargill has informed me, may without difficulty be done. I therefore order that the suspension be removed, and that the provisions of the awards in question come into operation, in the manner indicated, at the end of the present month."

FAIR RENTS.

NO JURISDICTION.

The jurisdiction of the Fair Rents Court to deal with rents over the amount of £156 a year was tested yesterday morning. In the application of Edward Warren Bonwell, of 37 New Canterbury-road, Petersham, Mr. Pike, who appeared for the landlord, Mr. C. H. Crammond, raised a preliminary objection that the tenant was paying rent in excess of £156 a year. It was stated that in addition to the rent, which was £156 a year, the tenant had agreed to pay rates and taxes, which brought the rent over the amount specified in the Act.

The magistrate upheld the objection, and the case was struck out.

ESCAPEE RECAPTURED.

After being at large since Sunday afternoon, March 12, when he escaped from the exercise yard of the Central Police Station, Donald M'Pherson, aged 36 years, known under several aliases, was recaptured at about half-past 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

The escapee was caught in a house in Lower Campbell-street, Surry Hills. Here, at about 4.30 a.m., there arrived Detectives Vincent, Turbet, Mitchell, Anderson, Hooper, and Surridge. The place was quickly surrounded and entered. A thorough search was conducted, and M'Pherson was found behind some of the furniture. While at the police station, M'Pherson said he was anxious for a little exercise and asked to be put in the yard. His request was not granted.

GRAZIERS' WILLS.

For probate purposes the estate of the late Robert Laurie, of Gloucester district, was sworn at £46,681. Testator, who died on December 22, 1915, appointed his brothers, Joseph Laurie and Thomas Albert Laurie, his trustees and executors. He bequeathed to his widow an annuity of £150 while she remained unmarried. His estate was left to his children in equal shares.

Probate was granted of the will of Joseph Skinner Pengilley, late of Quirindi, grazier, who died on February 8, 1916. The net value of the estate was sworn at £16,496. Testator appointed as executors and trustees his sons, Arthur John, Walter James, and Frederick Skinner Pengilley. His widow was left £200, and the residue of the estate is devised to his sons and daughters.

THE APPEAL FOR BELGIUM.

The appeal which we print this morning puts the case for the people of Belgium in language to which Australians can make no answer except by giving on a scale even more generous than that which they have already adopted. The facts stated by a committee of representative men are sufficiently clear to demonstrate the need for immediate action and to answer any fears lest by attempting to help our Allies we should in any way relieve our enemy. The Belgian nation is totally dependent for its sustenance on supplies from oversea. Its own natural wealth and the fruits of its industries have been appropriated by our common enemy, in spite of an agreement binding all civilised peoples that private property shall not be confiscated either openly or under the disguise of a ransom. At present the funds from which supplies are obtained are inadequate to the needs of the Belgian people, and there is no doubt that unless they are substantially increased certain of these people will pass from want and misery to actual starvation. If their country had been occupied by an enemy responsive to the normal instincts of mankind, or even animated by a desire to conciliate his victims, the Belgians would be saved from utter destitution either by their own exertions or by the organisation of their conquerors. But the course of the war, and especially the fate of Poland, has taught us that there is no depth of cruelty from which the Germans will shrink; none of the inborn restraints which govern the citizens of other countries would prevent them from seeing starvation fall upon the whole Belgian people except upon those who are available for the latest form of slavery in the German mines. Fortunately there is one step which the German is restrained from taking by his sense of prudence. He will not interfere with the supplies sent from the outside world and distributed by neutral agents. There is a consensus of evidence accepted by the British Government that supplies from the outside world do reach the people for whom they are intended. Lord Robert Cecil gave his assurance to this effect in the House of Commons two months ago, and the signatures to this appeal are a testimony that the same state of things continues. The subscribers have an equally satisfactory certificate that their gifts lose nothing in the course of distribution. The expenses of administration are reduced to nothing, both in the purchase of goods and in their allotment. American citizens have earned everlasting credit for the efficiency with which they have superintended the relief of Belgium since the needs of the country were first revealed. Mr. Hoover, the head of the American staff, has retained the unwavering confidence of everyone associated with him. He has many highly qualified assistants, amongst whom the American Rhodes scholars have been prominent. Their task has not been easy in parts of Belgium in which the people they are sent to relieve have been inspired by the bitterest hatred against their present governors. But it has been carried out in such a way that every subscriber knows that his gift goes to relieve the distress of some victim of German oppression, who, without it, might have died of hunger.

The present appeal reminds us of the bounden duty of every citizen who for some reason or other is not on active service. Not having suffered from the physical hardships of the war he is bound to help those who have, to the utmost of his power. At present the limits of this country's power to give help have not been approached. There have been generous answers to other appeals. A striking proof of the generous inclinations of the Australian people was given on Belgian Day, and just at present every man who sympathises with the lives of our soldiers abroad is anxious to do his best for the Y.M.C.A. But as yet there is not a sign that the mass of the inhabitants have been compelled to spend less on luxuries or amusements or to deny themselves anything necessary to domestic comfort. While that is true there can be no answer except assent to an appeal to help keep people from starvation. The signatories to this appeal, however, can rely on a stronger ground than the contrast between the destitution of the Belgian people and our comparative affluence. Their resistance and their answers to German offers of peace made the first demonstration to the world that there is one element in human nature which German force and German terrorism cannot destroy. In suffering the first discharge of German brutality they became a sacrifice by which other European peoples, and especially the English, were taught the real nature of their enemy. The succeeding months have seen many instances of the alternate bullying and conciliation which is the German method of preserving order in an occupied territory. In the whole course of that 20 months he has not succeeded in making that separate peace by which he hoped to establish a bastion of neutral territory between the armies in Northern France and the whole. For this reason the initial obligation of the Allies has been increased considerably. But the recent course of the blockade has imposed special restrictions on all British subjects. The British Government has been compelled to stop goods going to and coming from Belgian ports as part of its general policy towards Germany. Sir Edward Grey did his utmost to induce the German Government to allow trade with Belgium which would give employment to the people and thereby enable them to earn money to buy food. The German Government has made no answer, and has shown by its conduct that it will seize and take everything needed for its own purposes. It is a necessary result that the blockade in all its completeness must be applied to Belgium, and that in consequence a loyal and friendly population must incur additional suffering for the common cause. In giving money for the Belgian Relief Fund we now know that besides obeying a just and humane instinct we are actively assisting the policy of the Allies. We are making it possible for Great Britain to carry on the blockade effectively without starving the Belgian people, and we are preventing Germany from gaining the services of workmen who would be released from military duty if the Belgians had to follow the example of the Poles and go into slavery for the remainder of the war.

RESPONSE IN RECRUITS.

When the Prime Minister of the Commonwealth announced just before leaving for England that he had offered another 50,000 troops, exclusive of the reinforcements required for our forces already at the front, he quite understood the seriousness of the task he was throwing upon us. In his absence, and without the stimulus of inspiring leadership, we were to find within less than six months as many men as had been recruited here in the first twelve months of the war, when the fires of enthusiasm had been just lighted. It is not suggested that the people of Australia have grown cold; but they have become used to the war, and what could have been easily accomplished at the outset requires now a much greater organisation and many special appeals. Mr. Hughes left just when his presence was most required, and as a consequence the work has become harder and the discouragements are correspondingly greater. Now, the contract was not only for 50,000 additional men but for 9500 men each month as well, and the final important figures were due to be made up by the end of March. Mr. Catts published a statement for this State last month and gave the totals of enlistments to prove his contention that all was well, and there was apparently little to cavil at. Yet critics who discussed the position were not satisfied even in this State, and the position in the other States was certainly very unsatisfactory. New South Wales was seemingly expected to provide not only her own quota but enough men in addition to make up for the failure of Victoria and Queensland; and as the weeks passed by the Prime Minister's hope and expectation were not likely to be fulfilled, failing an extraordinary effort on our part. It is as well to put the facts in this shape, because the Acting Prime Minister last week was able to assure us that there is now really nothing to worry about. The situation has suddenly eased, because the War Office in consequence of the retirement from Gallipoli does not need so many reinforcements. Our men have been recuperating in Egypt. It is quite possible, also, that lack of proper organisation there has led to misunderstandings as to the number of men actually available; and we should not be surprised to find that thousands of convalescents off the rolls have become well, or well enough to slip out of bounds, with a correspondingly unsuspected inflation of the strength of the Australian army. If this should prove to be the case there would be a recasting of the whole position; and not only would fewer reinforcements be required, but it would become much easier to reorganise for the new duties.

Senator Pearce, however, has nothing to say about this phase of the situation, and explained a modified and much easier outlook by the lack of casualties for the time being. On the new basis there is no reason why the requirements in recruits should not be easily satisfied. Provision is still being made for practically 300,000 men, but the time for completing the number has been extended. Already 58,000 have enlisted since Mr. Hughes announced his promise of an additional 50,000; and the latest returns show that Victoria is now beginning to respond more quickly and fully to the call to do her share. Last week Senator Gardiner announced that for every two men she had sent to the front New South Wales had sent three, and there was much indignation in the southern State in consequence. If this comparison has been the spur in Victoria's side it was well made; but we must take care not to let Senator Gardiner's reminder of what the mother State has already done tempt us to think we can begin to rest. We are justified in feeling satisfaction at the show New South Wales has made. Up to the middle of March she had recruited 107,000 men out of a total for the whole of Australia of 210,000, and against Victoria's 97,000. The Australian aggregate includes 150,000 already embarked, and the rest are in training, and this State has done well with both. But there is still much to be done. Even if the other States make a strong rally we are bound to keep going; for while the war is still being waged nothing can be said to be safe. Eventually the Commonwealth will have sent her 300,000 men to Europe, and reinforcements must be despatched regularly on the higher scale. Until peace is actually proclaimed we must spend and be spent for the victory without which all our fighting will have been wasted. The evacuation of Gallipoli and the resting of our troops has given us more breathing space, and has probably saved our face; but Anzac Day should be a reminder that nothing has really been altered. There is no great victory yet to warrant illuminations or a city dressed in the colours of exultation. Very seriously we must remember that the Prime Minister's offer still stands, that every man of fighting age and condition is wanted, and that no citizen can yet consider himself or herself free from the responsibilities of service in some shape or form.

QUEENSLAND'S PLIGHT.

In some respects Queensland is better off than New South Wales in that a Labour Government has only come into power with the war. The Northern State's finances under Liberal control had been carefully nursed, and surplus had followed surplus with monotonous regularity for a decade. When, therefore, Mr. Ryan and his friends came into power they could not look forward to "lashins and lavins" as Mr. Holman and the caucus did in this State five years ago. Here the Labour party has been spending millions of borrowed money right royally—or shall we say right democratically in a new fashion—and even now with the war upsetting all calculations it makes no stay in its rush to ruin. Meanwhile taxation has piled up; and with State and Federal income taxes coming together many of our citizens know only too well the meaning of Socialistic experiments and of the Socialist's lack of conscience. Queensland, on the other hand, has only just been launched upon a sea of trouble, with the world's money markets practically closed against her, and with her new Government to a large extent tied up by the general restriction. In this respect the upheaval of war has been a blessing in disguise. Her plight, however, is sufficiently serious. In our interview with Mr. Ryan, which appeared in yesterday's issue, there is a wonderful assurance in his recital of the enterprises now being started by the Government in Queensland. State butcheries and State public houses are mentioned quite casually; and the people's expression of a need is apparently taken to be proved when any section of the community applies for further extensions of State activity. A cattle station follows as a matter of course because meat is now being retailed by Government servants. Soon we shall hear, no doubt, of a State brewery, and distillery to keep the State public houses in countenance. But it is just this easy-going spirit of the Premier which gives emphasis in our mind to the thought of Queensland's plight. There is no reference to ways and means; and no thought as far as we can judge of the probable outcome of ventures which may pay under private and personal control, though the reverse has been known, yet which will cause serious loss if our own experience of State enterprises may count for anything. An army of State employees will be speedily created in the new order, and the pressure upon the Government will be an ever-increasing evil. Politics will enter into the smallest and the greatest things, and each new demand will be met to avoid the disaster of conflict with men and women who realise that Ministers may be coerced. In Queensland now the press is in double shackles. It is forbidden under Commonwealth law to publish unsigned political articles during a Federal election; but it can no longer make unsigned comment or give unsigned news bearing upon a State election. Taxation is being rapidly increased, and the most arbitrary things are being done as we know only too well in the matter of the seizure of cattle destined for the southern markets. What is the end of it all to be? In Queensland as in New South Wales Labour Governments are steadily but surely forcing the people to think of unification. Mr. Holman and Mr. Ryan are simply driving nails into the coffins of their States by their excesses. As servants of caucuses, whose first and last thought is to smash so-called capitalism and ring in Socialism along a score of avenues at once, they are making a double burden so crushing that directly State Governments and Parliaments will find their occupation gone.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor-General, accompanied by Brigadier-General Ramaciotti (State Commandant), and attended by Captain Haskett-Smith, A.D.C., took the salute at the march past of the troops in the Domain yesterday afternoon. His Excellency will review troops in the Domain this afternoon.

Her Excellency Lady Helen Munro Ferguson yesterday afternoon presided at a Red Cross meeting, held at No. 4 Bridge-street, city.

The Assistant Minister for Railways (Mr. Hoyle) will leave this morning for Murrurundi and Muswellbrook to inspect railway crossings, and on Sunday he leaves for Dubbo to attend the annual railway picnic.

Mr. C. J. W. Friend has been appointed president and Mr. W. Beavis honorary secretary of the New South Wales Institute of School Inspector for the current year.

Alderman Evan Jones was elected to the position of vice-president of the Water and Sewerage Board at the meeting of the board yesterday. Mr. W. J. Millner, president, welcomed back to the board Alderman Evan Jones, who had been absent through illness.

FAIR RENTS ACT.

INFLUENCE ON INVESTORS.

GOULBURN, Thursday.

The statement published in the "Herald" that a local investor who proposed spending £7000 on 12 new houses had abandoned the idea because of the Fair Rents Act was sent by the Rentpayers' Association to the Minister, who instituted inquiries to ascertain whether the statement was correct. Investigation was made locally, and established that the information was correct—that possibly the amount to be spent might have exceeded that stated. The intending investor, Mr. W. G. A. Matter, verifies the news, stating that his reason for not investing was the passing of the Fair Rents Act and uncertainty as to the future.

The local Labour League has been informed that its request for an extension of the Fair Rents Housing Act to Goulburn and other country centres will be favourably considered by the Minister. A local boot factory finds it impossible to retain some of its married employees, the men being unable to obtain residences.

Y.M.C.A.

FUNDS FOR FIELD SERVICE WANTED.

Three more £100 are needed to meet Mr. Harry Levy's offer to give £100 if nine others are given. The Sydney Y.M.C.A. is putting its equipment with secretaries in charge into three more camps within the next few days, making 12 camps in this State where the Y.M.C.A. is represented.

All contributions should be sent to the hon. treasurers, Y.M.C.A. Field Service Fund, 327 Pitt-street, Sydney.

The hon. treasurers, Mr. A. W. Meeks, M.L.C., and Mr. J. T. Tillock, acknowledge the following contributions:—

THE RAILWAYS.

SUGGESTED FEDERAL CONTROL.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The Federal conference of the Locomotive Engineers' Association concluded its sittings to-day. The following motion was agreed to,—That in the opinion of this conference, the time has arrived, and is opportune, while the Empire is at war, for the Federal Government to take over the State railways; and is of opinion that they should be owned and controlled by the Commonwealth in the interests of the people of Australia.

ENGLISH MAILS.

[illegible] English mails by the P. and O. Company's R.M.S. [illegible], dated London, February [illegible], are expected to reach Sydney in time for delivery from the G.P.O. on Monday, April 3.

"WE MUST DO MORE."

MR. COOK'S OPINION.

AUSTRALIA AND THE WAR.

Yesterday Mr. Joseph Cook, leader of the Federal Opposition, said:—

I have hesitated to say anything by way of criticism of the recruiting figures as they relate to the Prime Minister's promise in November last. I have conceived it to be my duty to make as little trouble for Ministers as possible, knowing how heavy are the responsibilities they carry. But the more I think over it, the more the conviction is forced home that we are falling sadly behind both the promise of the Prime Minister and the requirements of the situation. We have been doing a little better lately on both the Eastern and Western fronts, but we should be foolish to encourage any false optimism about the outlook. The Germans are still holding their positions in the Allies' country, and the way to Berlin is both long and difficult. To exert the maximum of pressure at the critical moment is of the very essence of successful fighting. And we should burn it into our minds, and never forget it, that if we had had another division in support our boys would have been right over the Gallipoli Peninsula on the first landing, and thousands of lives would have been saved.

The present rate of dribbling along is very far from satisfactory, and something will soon need to be done. Senator Pearce tells us that 150,000 men have gone. Of these we may count the odd 50,000 and a good deal more as war wastage, so that the 100,000 men I so strongly urged 15 months ago are not yet actually in the war theatres. Let us remember also that the 209,000 referred to by the Minister are a little more than one-twentieth of the forces raised at home, and the amount we shall spend this year will be nothing like one-thirtieth the amount spent by the Imperial authorities, while our population is one-ninth of theirs.

I am as proud as anyone can be at what has been done, but we can—we must—do more. Most certainly we ought to honour the promise of 300,000 troops made in the eyes of the world. If fewer reinforcements are needed than was bargained for before we left Gallipoli the balance should go to augment the total armies.

It is with the greatest reluctance that I speak in the way of criticism of the Government's defence activities, but I feel the danger of minimising the need and excusing the dribblets coming forward. The matter cannot rest where it is. We must get a move on, and the Government must be the prime mover. To quote the "Saturday Review"—"To beat the Germans this country has got to plug in with all its might at home as well as abroad."

INSPECTION OF TROOPS.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S ADDRESS.

The District Commandant, Brigadier-General Ramaciotti, held an inspection of troops in the Outer Domain yesterday afternoon. It was not a large body of men, and correspondingly the crowd lining the four sides of the parade ground was not as dense as usual. But the scene was a bright and inspiriting one, and the strains of martial music, supplied by the Liverpool Depot and the Engineers' bands, helped to make this a very bright function.

The troops on parade were made up of reinforcements for the infantry, miners' battalion (the Tunnelling Company) and the Australian Army Medical Corps. By 4 o'clock the men were drawn up in companies, and the District Commandant, accompanied by his orderly officer, Lieut. Frank Smith, 13th Battalion; Colonel Spain, O.C., Engineers; Major Warden, staff officer of Engineers; Major Sadler, general staff officer; and Captain Wallace, staff officer for reinforcements, Liverpool, made an inspection of the lines. At the conclusion of the inspection they returned to the saluting base at the northern end of the parade ground, and here received his Excellency the Governor-General, Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson, and his A.D.C., Captain Haskett-Smith, who had walked over from the Warrigal Club.

His Excellency's arrival was greeted with the National Anthem, and the march past promptly began, headed by the Tunnelling Company, who in turn were led by their mascot "Solar," a fine bulldog, presented to the company by Sapper Hunt. "Solar" bore on his back a silk Union Jack, made and presented to the company by the Mayoress of Gunnedah. The leading company also carried the colours of the corps which they intend to take to the front with them, and which had been presented to them prior to the inspection by their commanding officer, Colonel Spain. They were followed by the infantry and the field ambulance men. The whole parade was in charge of Captain Vincent, of the Tunnelling Company.

At the conclusion of the parade the various units were massed and addressed by his Excellency.

Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson, speaking to Captain Vincent and his command, said that the war was not over yet, and might continue for a long time, and therefore he was glad to see the continual stream of reinforcements leaving Australia to take their share in the great struggle. When in Melbourne recently he had seen the Miners' Battalion, and was satisfied that the corps, of which the Tunnelling Company formed an integral part, would well maintain the prestige of the Commonwealth.

"In the heart of this incomparable city," continued his Excellency, "standing on such a parade ground, it must strike us that, when we see the bearing and physique of the troops the country is despatching, nothing can stand between the British and the absolute destruction of tyranny. The Australian forces, in conjunction with the rest of his Majesty's forces, are taking their part in the great conflict and upholding the honour of the land which gave them birth in the finest spirit of Empire. I wish you a glorious victory and a speedy return." (Cheers.)

The parade ground was kept clear by a large number of the Garrison Military Police, under Sergeant-major Harber; civil police, under Inspector Brooks; and mounted troopers, under Inspector Mills.

REFORM.

NATIONAL ECONOMY URGED.

MUNICIPAL MOVEMENT.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

A conference of representatives of municipalities and district Progress Associations, convened by the Malvern Ratepayers' Defence Association, was held in the Melbourne Town Hall to-day.

The following motions were agreed to:—"That this conference views with grave concern the enormous and rapidly increasing cost of the Government systems of Federal and State Parliaments, and appeals to the people of the Commonwealth to organise for the purpose of conducting a campaign, as a public protest against the present extravagant system of Parliamentary Government; that the conference appoint a committee to draft a scheme of Parliamentary economic and municipal reform, and to report at an early date to a future meeting of the conference."

OUR WOUNDED.

RED CROSS MOTOR SERVICE.

Another contingent of sick and wounded soldiers is expected to disembark on Monday, April 3. Cars registered with the Red Cross, numbering from 13 to 77 inclusive, will be required to be at the No. 1 Wharf, Woolloomooloo, at 9 a.m. There are 130 men for this State.

EARLY CLOSING IN VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The Premier (Sir Alexander Peacock) stated to-day that there was no prospects of an early referendum on the question of the closing hours of hotels.

CAPTURING ENEMY TRADE.

THE MANCHESTER SCHOOL.

SUPPORT FOR "KEY" INDUSTRIES.

III.

Manchester is notoriously the home of freetrade. This being so, it is of particular interest to learn what Manchester, as represented by the local Chamber of Commerce, thinks of utilising the Customs-house as a post bellum weapon for capturing enemy trade. A memorandum was recently issued, embodying the views of the Manchester Chamber. It says that it is fully impressed with the desirability of making all possible preparations for the development of British trade after the war.

The proposals made by advocates of reform fall chiefly under two heads:—

1. The desirability of imposing protective import duties.

2. The overhauling and regulating of the conditions of competition of present enemy countries in the United Kingdom and the British Empire.

As to the first, the Manchester Chamber of Commerce adheres to the policy of freetrade—not a doctrinaire freetrade, but freetrade for the purpose of admitting imports at the lowest possible cost, especially raw materials and semi-manufactured articles, which are practically the raw materials of various trades, and resists proposals for protective tariffs, seeing that these tend to bolster up artificially inefficient industry at the expense of the community. The Manchester Chamber has always recognised, and still recognises, that under this policy of freetrade, British industries and British commerce have flourished; have assumed gigantic proportions, and have served to increase enormously the wealth of the country during the past half century.

While as anxious as any other body of traders that everything possible should be done to adapt our conditions of trade to the altered circumstances which will exist after the war, and while desirous also to render impossible a return to those pre-war conditions under which German influence in certain British trades was far too prevalent, the Manchester Chamber would require unmistakable proof of the absolute necessity of a change to a protective policy before agreeing to sacrifice the advantages of a fiscal policy which has been productive of such beneficial results. Such a change would mean turning our backs upon the policy of freetrade under which the country has prospered so much in the past, just at a time, too, when it is more than ever necessary to maintain these conditions in order to make good as promptly as possible the wastage of national assets resulting from the war. It would also mean embarking on a system beset with difficulties involving constant friction between conflicting interests and the ever-recurring necessity for readjustment.

The advocates of such a reversal of policy, whilst laying great stress on the altered financial and producing capacity of Great Britain after the war, do not appear to take into account the fact that similar altered conditions will also prevail in present enemy countries.

It is scarcely to be doubted that the change in these conditions (which will inevitably lead to a higher cost of production) will be felt even more in Germany and Austria than at home:—

1. Because the wealth of these countries at the outbreak of the war was inferior to the wealth of Great Britain.

2. Because their systems of banking facilities have been unduly inflated.

3. Because their loss in male population will be greater.

4. Because they have been unable during the war to continue their oversea trade, whereas, owing to the control of the seas by our navy, we have been enabled to continue our foreign trade, and have thereby secured a relatively stronger position in neutral countries.

It is obviously impossible at the present time to form any accurate idea as to the extent of the effect of the war, either on our trade and commerce, or on the trade and commerce of the Central Empires.

Therefore, the Manchester Chamber of Commerce considers it highly undesirable and premature at the present time to consider any such drastic change of national policy as would be involved in the reversion to any form of protective duties, as distinct from duties for revenue purposes only.

On the other hand, the Manchester Chamber is most strongly of opinion that it is not a day too soon to consider a close overhauling of the machinery and methods of our manufacturing and our commerce, with a view to removing as far as possible any "handicap" from which the British trader has suffered in the past; and to improving the system, the machinery, and the appliances in use hitherto.

Under this head are the following:—

1. Shipping: Here there is considerable room for improvement. Hitherto German steamship lines have enjoyed advantages not enjoyed by our competing British lines. It was obviously unfair, for example, that German liners were permitted to lie off our south coast embarking passengers, without paying the harbour dues which our own liners working in competition with them had to pay.

2. Patent Laws: There is no doubt that in the past these laws have operated greatly in favour of foreign countries, and to our own disadvantage.

3.—German Concerns in Great Britain: Restriction of the establishment in Great Britain of branches of German business firms or banks is desirable. The "peaceful" penetration of German firms in other countries, often by the assistance of subsidies or other form of assistance, with the object of obtaining an undue hold on manufacturing or finance in such countries, might well be considered.

4.—Control of Essential Products: It has come to light since the outbreak of the war that Germany, acting through syndicates or cartels, had acquired control of the whole supply of certain metals, even in our own colonies. A striking instance is afforded by the case of "spelter," of which the whole Australian production was bought for some years in advance by a syndicate having its headquarters in Frankfort. The Australian Government have met this case by passing a law to annul all such contracts. It is very desirable, and should be possible, to prevent a recurrence of such a situation.

5.—British Consuls: It is indisputable that our Consular service in foreign countries is still defective. In any scheme of re-organisation of our business methods it is of urgent importance that the appointment, status, and pay of our Consuls should receive the closest attention. Such an anomaly, for example, as a British Consul being a German, should be rendered impossible in future.

There are certain industries which have been called "key" industries, many of which are essential to our national safety, and which have fallen largely under the control of Germany. This has been proved to be a highly dangerous situation, and needs correction.

This Chamber is satisfied that the remedy does not lie in protective tariffs, but rather in an improvement in our scientific and technical training and methods, and their adaptation to commercial ends.

Instead of an appeal to the Government for assistance by keeping out competitors, it would seem much wiser to ask for their powerful aid in still further improving and developing our system of technical instruction, and in trying to find a means of applying such knowledge to our productive industries.

Where the Germans have hitherto excelled is in the application of science to manufacture. So far this has been our weak spot. Our technical education and our manufacturing have been too much in "water-tight" compartments. What we want to discover is a means of combining the two.

VERDUN.

FRENCH ATTACK.

THE EAST.

AUSTRIA'S HEAVY LOSSES.

The French have assumed the offensive in the vicinity of Verdun.

They vigorously attacked Avocourt Wood and captured the south-eastern horn of the wood to a depth of 300 metres; also an important small fort.

The German offensive, which had been suspended since the 22nd, was resumed on Tuesday with redoubled violence. The enemy delivered a massed attack on a front hardly a kilometre in extent.

At nightfall the German commanders recognised the futility of the attacks and retreated, leaving about a quarter of their effectives dead or wounded on the field.

Three successive German attacks on positions captured by the French in Avocourt Wood were completely repulsed.

A Rome message says the Russian offensive has caused alarm in Vienna and Budapest. Tens of thousands of wounded have arrived. A Bucharest despatch says the Austrian losses were colossal.

It is reported from Athens that the Bulgarians bombarded the Greek village of Karaisina (near Janitza). French troops drove out the Germans who entered Greek territory at various points.

RECRUITING.

DISCUSSION IN COMMONS.

LONDON, March 30.

In the House of Commons Mr. Walter Long, President of the Local Government Board, in response to the demand of the public for a full statement of the recruiting situation, explained that the Government had taken drastic steps including the cancellation of the exemptions for single men under 30.

He added that 1400 women were already engaged in agriculture, and 275,000 in other occupations.

Members of the House cheered the announcement that the Government is allotting moneys to the Pension Committee, who will make grants to necessitous married men to enable them to meet their liabilities, and it is intended to legislate to empower married men to break contracts and leases.

Some members of the House of Commons expressed a doubt as to whether they were adequate proposals.

Sir Edward Carson advocated the compulsion of every able-bodied married and single man.

Mr. G. J. Wardle (Labour) said that general compulsion would raise a storm and destroy the unity of the nation.

EAST AFRICAN FORCES.

PRETORIA, March 29.

An official explanation of the cessation of recruiting for the oversea infantry in order to concentrate on the recruiting for East Africa, states that 300,000 men have been raised for oversea and East Africa, but 90 per cent. of the recruits are offering for oversea.

Thus, the oversea reinforcements are more than twice the requirements, whereas the reinforcements for East Africa are short.

THE AUSTRALIANS.

EPIDEMIC OF MARRIAGES.

LONDON, March 29.

An epidemic of marriages has occurred among convalescent Australian soldiers, Five marriages were celebrated from Abbeywood depot this week. A Western Australian officer married a girl who had nursed him in Wandsworth hospital. Some Australians have applied for passages for their wives to Australia out of their deferred pay. Mr. Fisher (High Commissioner for Australia) has cabled to Melbourne upon the subject, but has received no reply.

Several men who applied to the Agents-General are being granted assisted passages for their wives.

While military officers hesitate to interfere with the rights of these heroes, a feeling is growing that some marriages are hastily arranged and lightly considered.

HONOURED BY FRANCE.

LONDON, March 30.

President Poincare has conferred the following honours:—

Chevalier of the Legion of Honour: Brigadier-General George Richardson (New Zealand); Staff-Lieutenant Robert Chirnside (Australia).

French War Cross: Major Sir Walter Barttelot (who was military secretary to Lord Denman, ex Governor-General of Australia).

WESTERN FRONT.

VERDUN.

FRENCH OFFENSIVE.

GERMAN ASSAULTS RESUMED.

BRILLIANTLY REPULSED.

PARIS, March 29.

The feature of the day's war news is the success of the French offensive. Not content with repulsing the enemy, the heroes of Verdun assaulted a strong Avocourt redoubt which was the centre of the most recent attack.

A semi-official review of the operations shows that the German offensive, which had been suspended since the 22nd, was resumed on Tuesday with redoubled violence. The enemy, in order to conceal his designs, deluged the entire Verdun front with shellfire for six days without interruption. The weight of the infantry onslaught was delivered on a front hardly a kilometre in extent, between Avocourt and Malancourt.

German masses, a division strong, leaped to the assault over ground which had been ploughed up by their own heavy shells. They thought the ground could be easily crossed, but they reckoned without our infantry and light artillery which the orgy of steel had not destroyed.

Lying flat, the infantry poured in a terrific fire, and our field pieces cut down men in swathes. The enemy's line was again and again broken. They failed to drive us out of the village of Malancourt, where they already occupied the surrounding hills. Their losses were so heavy that the German commanders at nightfall recognised the futility of the attacks and retreated, leaving about a quarter of their effectives dead or wounded on the field.

The German tactics of butting forward in fits and starts show the enemy is weakening, either from lack of will or lack of means. If he proposes to march towards Verdun, via Malancourt, he must cover 12 kilometres.

FRENCH REPORT.

A French communique states: Our troops, after an intense artillery preparation, vigorously attacked Avocourt Wood. They captured the south-eastern horn of the wood to a depth of 300 metres, also an important small fort which the Germans had fortified. A violent German counter attack, with recently-arrived troops, was completely repulsed with heavy losses. Another French attack was delivered in conjunction with the foregoing attack, and we progressed north of Avocourt, capturing the enemy's cross trenches.

Between the Oise and the Aisne our artillery dispersed important convoys north-east of Moulin-Sous-Touvent.

Three successive enemy counter-attacks on positions captured by us in Avocourt Wood were completely repulsed. During an attack of great strength on the village of Malancourt the Germans gained an advanced work north of Malancourt and captured two houses in the village. Our fire stopped further advances.

GERMAN VERSION.

The German wireless ignores the French offensive and states:—Our troops, with little loss, stormed the French position north of Malancourt over a depth of several lines, extending on a front of 2000 yards. We also penetrated the north-western portion at Malancourt. The French left 12 officers, 486 unwounded men, and five guns.

GENERAL LARGEAU KILLED.

General Largeau, one of the youngest generals in the French army, who commanded the conquest of the German Cameroons, was killed at Verdun. He only recently returned, and immediately asked to be sent to the front.

GERMAN GENERAL RETIRES.

PARIS, March 29.

The "Temps" states that General von Haesler has quitted Verdun, and has gone into retirement because he disagreed with the German Emperor on tactical and other questions.

It is said that von Haesler strongly protested against the careless sacrifice of lives, especially in massed attacks, to which the German Emperor was partial.

THE SUBMARINES.

MORE VESSELS SUNK.

LONDON, March 30.

The steamers Kelbride Lavinia Westoll (3131 tons) and the Dutch steamer Dueveland were sunk. The crews were saved.

SUSSEX AND TUBANTIA.

The captain of the Sussex states that if the passengers had obeyed orders none would have been drowned. He assured them that the vessel would not sink.

The "Daily News" correspondent at Paris says it is reported in Swiss diplomatic circles that the Austrians torpedoed the Tubantia and the Sussex. Germany, not wishing to further outrage American opinion, induced Austria to send submarines into the Channel and the North Sea.

THE MINNEAPOLIS.

EIGHTEEN OF CREW MISSING.

MALTA, March 30.

The steamer Minneapolis was torpedoed without warning on the morning of the 23rd. She floated for some time. A futile attempt was made to tow her. Eighteen of the crew are missing.

AN INTRUDER.

SCENE IN THE COMMONS.

LONDON, March 29.

An extraordinary scene occurred in the House of Commons to-day. An army medical lieutenant leapt from the distinguished strangers gallery and dropped 25 feet to the floor. He fell on his face, and springing up made a wild rush for the treasury table shouting "protect the heads of soldiers from shrapnel." Members and attendants quickly surrounded and removed him.

The intruder gave the name of Lieutenant Turnbull. He was clad in khaki, and suddenly climbed out of the gallery, scrambling along the railing, to the astonishment of the crowded House. Members watched him spell-bound, until he suddenly dropped. The Sergeant-at-Arms and assistants seized him, but he was a powerful fellow, and struggled amid the excitement, shouting "Mr. Speaker."

Later he was medically examined and released.

EASTERN FRONT.

"VIENNA ALARMED."

"AUSTRIAN LOSSES COLOSSAL."

PETROGRAD, March 29.

A communique states:—In the region west of Lake Narocz we dislodged the enemy from the southern part of the forest near the village of Mohritza. We forced enemy entanglements in the Oghinsky Canal region, near the village of Somino and drove the enemy out of the trenches. He then fled across the canal. There is thaw all along the front. All the marsh and lake ground is flooded.

The "Idea Nazionale" (Rome) says the Russian offensive has alarmed Vienna and Budapest, where tens of thousands of wounded have arrived.

A Bucharest despatch states that the Austrian losses on the Dniester were colossal.

THE CAUCASUS.

The Turks directed desperate counter-attacks on our positions on the heights on the left bank of the Oghendere. The Turks suffered enormous losses, and retreated.

RUSSIA.

WAR MINISTER RESIGNS.

PETROGRAD, March 30.

General Polivanoff, at his own request, has resigned the position of Minister for War. General Chouvaieff (head of the Commissariat Department) will succeed him.

BULGARIANS.

ENTER GREEK TERRITORY.

DRIVEN OFF BY FRENCH.

ATHENS, March 30.

The Bulgars bombarded the Greek village of Karaisina (near Janitza). French troops drove out the Germans who entered Greek territory at various points.

CRETE.

BLOCKADED BY ALLIES.

BRITISH CONSUL IMPRISONED.

ATHENS, March 29.

The "Hestia" says that two British cruisers filled with troops have arrived at Suda, in the north of the Island of Crete. The officers landed and visited the Consul at Canea. Ten more Allied warships were sighted off Canea.

The paper adds:—"The Allies are preparing to land troops."

Other reports from Canea state that a personage attached to the British Consular service visited the German Consul, and pretended to be a Germanophile. He offered to revictual the German submarines. The German Consul perceived the ruse, and denounced the visitor to the Greek authorities, who imprisoned him. Five of the Allied warships arrived at Canea on Sunday and demanded his release, also the surrender of the German Consul. The Prefect, after communicating with the Government, refused the request. The Allied squadron has initiated a blockade.

An Athens message says Entente Ministers have addressed a Note to the Government requesting explanations of certain measures by Greece in northern Epirus since December, 1915.

ITALIAN CAMPAIGN.

SANGUINARY FIGHTING.

ROME, March 29.

A communique states:—Fierce, desperate fighting has occurred in the last 48 hours north-west of Gorizia. The enemy on the 26th concentrated an intense artillery fire on our trenches at Grafenberg, and launched the most violent attacks, to which our centre yielded. We counter-attacked next evening, and recaptured the position after repeated sanguinary charges. We captured 300 prisoners.

MUNITION WORKERS.

STRIKERS FINED.

LONDON, March 29.

Thirty engineers on the Clyde were charged in the police court with partaking in a strike at W. Beardmore and Co.'s (Ltd.), and other important works.

Accused created scenes in court by demanding an adjournment because their leaders had been kidnapped. They finally left the court in a body as a protest against the Government not releasing the deported leaders.

Twenty-two were each fined £5.

GERMAN STEAMERS.

REQUISITIONED BY ITALY.

LONDON, March 29.

Lord Robert Cecil (Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs) announced in the House of Commons to-day that Italy had requisitioned German vessels.

GERMAN LINER ADELAIDE.

LOANDA, March 29.

There is a possibility that the German liner Adelaide (which sheltered at Loanda, Portuguese South Africa, on August 13, 1914) will be sent to Australia, but definite information is not obtainable.

[The Adelaide left Hamburg on July 4, 1914, for Melbourne, Sydney, Newcastle, and Townsville, called at Antwerp on July 11, and was off Capetown on July 31.

The External Affairs Department has received a message from the High Commissioner's office intimating that steps have been taken to have the Adelaide examined at Loanda, and to obtain a report by telegram as to her condition, as it was reported that the German authorities had removed part of the machinery. The message also states that the High Commissioner has interviewed the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs (Sir Edward Grey) in connection with the matter, and that the latter was urging the authorities at Lisbon to facilitate the release of the vessel.]

LAND FOR SOLDIERS.

LONDON, March 30.

The British South Africa Co. proposes to grant 500,000 acres of free land to selected soldiers and settlers from oversea.

IN FRANCE.

AT BRITISH BASE.

"SPIRIT PLUS BRAINS."

NEUTRAL OBSERVER'S IMPRESSIONS.

LONDON, March 30.

A neutral observer thus describes a visit to British General Headquarters in France: Endless rooms, hundreds of busy clerks, both men and women, scores of filing cabinets, each filled with thousands of cards neatly indexed, messengers hurrying to and fro, their hands full of pink, blue, white, or green slips; through the window warehouse upon warehouse, factory upon factory, railroad yards, roundhouses, continual shunting of long trains of freight cars, and a never-ending procession of great motor lorries, all blending into a huge industrial city. One of Britain's army supply bases, somewhere in France. Here is the heart of the wonderful war machine which England, with the aid of her loyal colonies, has built up in little more than a year— built with the utmost care and thoroughness in spite of incalculable difficulties, but it has been built, and there it is complete, a monument to the same spirit which has put millions of British subjects into the firing lines. Nobody could look on at the workings of this organisation and accuse England of being slow. The marvel is how it possibly could have been done in so short a time. The Germans have been "out-Germaned" when it comes to thoroughness and efficiency. And now, after so many months' preparation, the power has been instilled which is designed to help in pushing the gigantic British steam roller over German opposition.

When I say that the Germans have been beaten at their own game I mean that the British have all the power and organisation which the enemy has plus facilities for obtaining certain supplies not available to Germany. There is no shortage of rubber or wheat, flour or sugar, at British bases. There is no shortage of anything, and, more than that, there are millions of pounds' worth of reserve supplies which are never touched, and are only held against emergency. Into and out of this maze of storehouses trains come and go as clockwork. Hitches are things of the past. The loading crews train hands, and men who man the motor lorries at the railhead near the lines work as a unit of a splendid, well-oiled machine. It is in this branch of the service that the Australian Motor Transport Division shines. Day after day mammoth trucks, operated and manned by boys from overseas, grind their way from platforms at railhead laden with food, clothing, ammunition, to keep "Tommy" going.

PRAISE FOR AUSTRALIANS.

"Australians are the best of the lot on the lorries" an officer told me to-day. "They have a remarkable capacity for hard work, and seem to possess excellent judgment where it is required in dealing with problems that arise frequently. They have the qualities which are going to win this war—courage, judgment, and ability."

Watching them at work brought home the truth of the statement.

They go about everything systematically. "Team work" stands out above all else. I timed the dispatching of some of their lorries from the receiving station. There would be less than a minute's difference between the time consumed by one machine and another, even when there was considerable variance in the nature of the supplies handled. A shell-swept road has no terrors for them. They jolt through deep ruts and shell holes with the same equanimity that they would roll over an asphalt pavement, and physically they have no superiors in the British Army. Certainly the Australians are popular with the commandants of the supply departments. The colonials have made a deep impression on the people at Headquarters. Up in the trenches the Canadians are among the most aggressive fighters now on the lines. They are never satisfied to lie idle in their shelter. If the Germans show a disposition to do so the Canadians pester them with hand grenades and choice rhetoric until they are stung into action. Looking on as a rank outsider and a neutral it is impossible to feel that the war is any where near an end. In every branch of the services the British preparations are going forward at top speed on a tremendous scale. Hospital facilities are being multiplied, also various establishments are specialising. All injuries of a like nature go to one place for treatment. Evidently the authorities do not expect to close their hospitals for a long time, for they have made elaborate preparations and conduct them on what in civilian terms would be called a "paying basis." Every possible step has been taken to economise, and in some instances expensive apparatus has been installed with the expectation that it will pay for itself in money saved; for example, in one hospital there is a complete tinsmith's shop running in full blast. There empty biscuit tins are remade into tin plates, pans, and drinking cups. Even the solder is melted down and used a second time. In fact, the commandant told me they were able to make all the utensils needed and still had enough material left to supply other bases. A few months ago I had an opportunity of seeing what German efficiency was like. I was much impressed, but my tour of the British base and lines in France made a ten times' greater impression. There is spirit plus the brains, and I am convinced that spirit is what will give the Allies their long-sought advantage.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LONDON, March 30.

King George, in thanking President Poincare for the message in which the French President asked his Majesty to convey to New South Wales France's profound gratitude for the contributions to assist French victims in invaded territory, added that he had hastened to inform New South Wales of the President's great appreciation of the donation, and entirely shared in all President Poincare's wishes.

THE BELGIANS

STIRRING APPEAL.

GERMANY'S CONTINUED INHUMANITY.

The following message, on behalf of the Belgians, has been cabled to us by Alderman Sir Charles Wakefield (Lord Mayor of London):—

LONDON, March 29.

A striking indictment of Germany's continued inhumanity to Belgium and a powerful plea on behalf of millions who, although destitute, remain loyal in that far outraged country, are contained in the following appeal signed by the Lord Mayor of London (as chairman of the National Committee for Relief in Belgium), by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Cardinal Bourne, the Moderator of the Church of Scotland, the president of the Free Church Council, the chief Rabbi, the Duke of Norfolk, Lord Lansdowne, Lord Rosebery, Lord Bryce, Mr. Arthur Henderson (Minister for Education), and Mr. John Redmond.

The appeal begins:—Eleven months ago we formed a national committee for relief in Belgium, and appealed to our fellow subjects throughout the British Empire on behalf of 1,500,000 Belgians, oppressed and threatened with starvation in their own outraged country. The number of destitute Belgians in Belgium to-day exceeds three millions, most of these being women and children. Since we made the previous appeal it has been conclusively proved that the Germans, contrary to every civilised precedent, will adhere to their "openly expressed intention not to support the Belgian population or supply them with food."

CALCULATED CRUELTY.

The words quoted are those used by Lord Robert Cecil on behalf of the Government in the House of Commons on January 28. That Lord Robert Cecil does not overestimate the calculated cruelty of the German intention is shown by the fact that in Poland, where there is no neutral channel for the distribution of relief, the civilian population have been allowed to die like flies, and over 200,000 able-bodied Polish men have been driven into Germany, there to work in the mines and industries, thus freeing 300,000 Germans to go to the fighting front. The same thing would undoubtedly happen in Belgium but for the food which reaches the Belgians through the Allies. It has also been definitely ascertained that food sent into Belgium does not reach or benefit the Germans. Lord Robert Cecil on February 21 stated in the House of Commons that the "Government are satisfied with the manner in which the Relief Commission has carried on its work, and have exacted guarantees from German authorities who might otherwise have taken advantage of the supplies." The confidential evidence of Belgians of repute, allowed out of Belgium, and of reliable neutrals permitted into Belgium confirms this official declaration. The Neutral Relief Commission, of which Mr. Herbert Hoover is chairman, and which is conducted under the supervision of the American and Spanish diplomatic representatives, has been accurately described by Earl Curzon as "an absolute miracle of scientific organisation synonymous with economy and efficiency." Combined receipts from the 2700 Belgian communes show that every ton of food imported in Belgium has been faithfully distributed by the Belgians to Belgians under the close supervision of this commission and its self-sacrificing American workers. The British National Committee, with the approval of the British and Belgian Governments, hands all its funds, without any deduction, to Mr. Hoover's commission to be expended in food in the conviction that the methods of distribution of relief in Belgium render it practically impossible for any appreciable quantity of food to get into German hands, and, with evidence to justify this conviction, we do not hesitate again urgently to appeal to the British nation for further contributions.

COURAGEOUS RESISTANCE.

Our original appeal up to date has brought in over £1,500,000, but this is almost £1,000,000 short of what is required from British benevolent sources to enable the destitute in Belgium to maintain life, with loyalty. Of the total so far received more than £1,000,000 has come from Australia and New Zealand. Over seven million defenceless civilians in Belgium for more than 18 months have suffered a tyranny almost inconceivable to those in our own uninvaded land. Nevertheless they have maintained a resistance none the less courageous because it must be passive, and, with almost negligible exceptions, have refused to work for the Germans. Practically half of the whole of this population in Belgium, through no fault of their own, are now destitute and live on a pitiful ration. Is there any debt of honour more pressing or any work of humanity with a stronger claim than that of helping to keep body and soul together in the men, women, and children in Belgium, who, in spite of misery and privation, endure all things and loyally await the coming of the Allies?

Donations and regular subscriptions, for which we most earnestly ask, should be sent to the Commonwealth or State committees, or to the National Committee for Relief in Belgium, Trafalgar-buildings, London.

Signed on behalf of the National Committee:—

THE ALLIES.

UNITY OF ACTION

FOR THE WAR.

FRENCH PREMIER'S MESSAGE.

PARIS CONFERENCE.

The Consul-General for France (M. Chayet) forwards the following translation of a cable message received from the Premier of France regarding the Paris Conference:—

PARIS, March 29.

"The conference held at Paris at France's instigation and which was attended by representatives of all the allied Governments began the day before yesterday under the most favourable conditions at the very time when the French troops were resisting heroically a formidable German attack, and closed yesterday.

The conference unanimously adopted the following resolutions:—

"1. The representatives of the allied Governments meeting at Paris on the 27th and 28th March, 1916, affirm the complete community of views of the Allies, and confirm the steps taken to obtain unity of action. That is to say, unity of military action, which is assured by the understanding existing amongst the General Staffs, the unity of economic action, of which the present conference has just regulated the organisation, and unity of diplomatic action, guaranteed by the steadfast will to carry on the war until victory is assured for the common cause.

"2. The allied Governments decide to put into practice in the domain of economics the solidarity of their views and interests. The Economic Conference, which is to be held shortly at Paris, will be asked to propose the proper steps to be taken to assure this solidarity.

"3. With a view of strengthening, co-ordinating, and unifying the economic action to be taken to prevent supplies reaching the enemy, the conference decided to establish a permanent committee at Paris, on which all the Allies will be represented.

"4. The conference decided: (a) To arrange freights from a central international bureau at London; (b) to examine together and at the earliest possible date the best practical methods to be adopted with a view of equitably sharing amongst the allied nations the burden of maritime transports and checking the rise in freights.

(Signed) BRIAND."

COMMON ACTION.

PARIS, March 29.

The Allied conference has closed.

It is understood that the British members of the conference consider the results will be immediate and far-reaching, especially as regards common action.

Mr. Asquith will now go to Rome.

FRENCH PRESS COMMENT.

The "Temps," commenting on the conference, says the exchange of ideas between the Allies shows that none sought to change into a protectionist movement the perfectly legitimate campaign against Germany's commercial encroachments. The conference expressed the opinion that the destruction of German commerce during the war should be succeeded by a state of things which would prevent the enemy pursuing a disloyal economic struggle.

FREIGHT PROBLEM.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT.

FOR ITALY AND SPAIN.

LONDON, March 29.

Mr. T. J. Macnamara, Financial Secretary to the Admiralty, in reply to a question in the House of Commons today, said that Australia was responsible for the sale and delivery of Australian wheat to Italian and Spanish ports in requisitioned steamers. He added: "The Admiralty has not requisitioned these steamers."

Mr. R. P. Houston asked why wheat had been sent to Spain when it was so badly wanted here.

Mr. Macnamara replied that the question must not be addressed to him.

BULK-HANDLING PROPOSAL.

Victoria's proposal for the bulk-handling of wheat has received much attention in commercial circles. The Canadian office in London states that the experience of Canada is that grain is not only handled cheaply and expeditiously, and readily financed. The certificates of the Government graders being held in the highest repute facilitate sales in the United Kingdom and the Continent. Authorities on the Baltic Exchange consider wheat in bulk would hardly realise the same price as bagged wheat. They point out that the bulk of the maize from the River Plate is sold below that which is bagged. Elevator ports at which there are elevators by which discharge is possible are limited to about six. Millers there welcome bulk shipments, but distribution to inland mills is impossible without bagging. Shipowners do not think that a substantial reduction in freight is probable, as the cost of shifting boards and dunnage would be about £1200 for a 6500-ton steamer, but quickness in loading counterbalances this.

RED CROSS.

CARE OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS.

Lady Helen Munro Ferguson, president of the Australian Branch of the Red Cross Society, attended the meeting of the New South Wales Red Cross executive yesterday afternoon, at which Mr. J. O. Fairfax presided. Her Excellency offered her congratulations on the work of the society in New South Wales.

It was reported that the home at Roselle for nerve cases had been visited by representatives of the State War Council, who expressed high appreciation of the provision made by the Red Cross Society for returned soldiers whose nerves had been seriously affected.

A discussion on the supply of artificial limbs was concluded by a vote of thanks to Sir Thomas Anderson Stuart for his report. Sir Thomas was requested to continue his honorary services in this department in conjunction with Sir Alexander MacCormick, as consulting surgeon, on behalf of the military.

In regard to the home for lung troubles, which was to have been established at Wellington, it was announced that another locality might be selected a little later.

It was mentioned that over 500 returned soldiers had already been cared for in the Red Cross convalescent homes in this State.

WAR NOTES.

THE VERDUN SALIENT.

None of the later attacks which the Germans have launched at intervals against the French defences at Verdun have equalled in strength or sustained effort the two first great attempts. Most of them, though indeed heavy, and carried out with a great mass of men behind them, have been short, sudden and directed against a very narrow bit of front. A Paris cable this morning, referring to these tactics, shows that French newspaper opinion interprets them as a proof that the enemy is weakening, either from lack of will or lack of means. This may very well be the correct view; but at the same time it needs to be remembered that attacks diminishing in strength do not necessarily mean that the enemy is weakening. He may be simply using them as a cover for the preparation of an extreme effort. Owing to the grandiloquent fashion in which the Germans advertised their Verdun offensive, there has always been an impression that before giving up the struggle they would make at least one tremendous attempt to snatch victory from the jaws of defeat. Time alone can prove if such an impression is to be verified; but we can now look with greater confidence than ever upon the French defence of the salient, whatever the future tactics of the enemy may be. These smaller assaults that have followed the two first great onslaughts have, by reason of the tremendous weight behind their spear-like thrusts, put successive portions of the French line to critical local tests, and the manner in which each succeeding one has been shattered is the very happiest augury for the stability of the line as a whole.

"THE FRENCH OFFENSIVE."

In the meantime we note that the unofficial reports from Paris lay great stress upon what they describe as the "French offensive." They have been moved to use this term because the French attacked in the Avocourt region, west of the Meuse, and succeeded in capturing portion of a wood to a depth of 300 metres. As a matter of fact, however, we can hardly regard this move as anything more than a counter-attack, aimed at regaining portion of the ground which the French have been compelled to evacuate in previous engagements. The retreat of our Allies west of Malancourt, down towards Avocourt, has resulted in a very awkward curvature of their line, a curvature which leaves that portion in the neighbourhood of Malancourt and Dead Man's Hill a marked salient. This salient would become increasingly difficult to defend if the Germans made further progress southward towards Avocourt. It was to relieve the position in the salient that the French made their attack from the westward extremity of it. Thus, the attack was a very necessary one from a purely defensive point of view, and the making of it by no means indicates that the French are about to wrest the initiative from the Germans in the Verdun sector generally. They have achieved such excellent results so far by allowing the Germans to continue their offensive that they are likely to remain still generally on the defensive until it is clear that the enemy is about to relinquish his efforts to win Verdun.

GREECE AND THE ENTENTE.

It would be interesting to know exactly what is behind one Athens cable this morning. "The Entente Ministers," we are told, "have addressed a note to the Greek Government requesting explanations in regard to certain measures taken by Greece in northern Epirus since December, 1915." Epirus is a tract of country on the western coast of the Balkan peninsula, forming the north-western corner of Greece, as well as the southern corner of Albania. The island of Corfu—which came into prominence in connection with the Allies anti-submarine campaign, and again by reason of the concentration there of the remains of the Servian army—lies just off this coast. What we would like to know is, what are the "certain measures" which the Entente Powers are objecting to. In view of the equivocal position in which Greece has placed herself, there naturally arises a suspicion that the measures may possibly have some military character aimed at co-operation with the Bulgars and the Austrians in Albania. The position of the Italian force at Valona, in Southern Albania, crops up in this connection. But having regard to the war position as a whole to-day, it appears a little less than probable that Greece is tending towards active hostilities against the Entente.

PENETRATION OF ALBANIA?

Greece has always wished to extend her territory north-westward, so as to embrace the whole of Epirus, and it may be that she has seized the opportunity which presented itself after the collapse of the Servian campaign at the end of last year to commence quietly a policy of penetration into Albania. For her to enter upon such a move as an independent State while the war is in progress would complicate matters considerably for the Entente, seeing the interest Italy and Servia have in Albania. Thus it would naturally call for "explanations." If this be the case, it depends upon what form her penetration is taking, and to what extent she is prepared to stick to her policy, whether serious trouble is likely to arise or not. Just at present, by the way, Greece should be either very angry with the Allies, or very complaisant in regard to them, for the events of the past few days have made it clear that they are determined not to allow too many formalities to stand in the way in their effort to root out the supply depots for enemy submarines, which are evidently dotted all around the Greek coast.

THE WORK OF THE DRIFTERS.

A regular contributor to the "Naval and Military Record" enters a timely plea for recognition of the fine anti-submarine work done by the steam drifters in the war. "The other day," he says, "a lecture was given at a London theatre on the subject of 'Trawlers and Mine-sweeping in War Time.' I did not hear it, but the title, familiar as it is nowadays, is suggestive of the extent to which the country misunderstands the composition and the work of the enormous number of small auxiliary craft now attached to the regular service. Anything small that is employed on what, for some reason or another, are generally called auxiliary duties is usually set down at once by the public as a trawler, not because of any desire to overlook the work of other and not less useful craft, but out of ignorance of it. What I have particularly in mind at the moment are the drifters. These vessels received what I believe is their first official 'mention' in Sir Reginald Bacon's recent despatch covering the operations off the Belgian coast in the late summer and early autumn of last year, where the Vice-Admiral reports as follows:—'It is to the excellent work done by the destroyers, under Commodore C. D. Johnson, and the drifters under Captain Frederic Bird, that I ascribe our immunity from loss by submarine attack. The mine-sweepers, under Commander W. G. Rigg, R.N., have indefatigably carried out their dangerous duties.' Here is a very definite line drawn between the mine-sweeping trawler and the drifter, which, in its primary role, is an anti-submarine craft. Trawlers, as we know, have far from a blank record where submarines are concerned; but there is certain work that is the drifter's special work, and she carries a specially-trained crew for the purpose; and as for the results which they achieve, I know myself of one boat that has to her credit a record, which is—well, very good indeed. When for certain reasons their special role has to be temporarily abandoned, they are turned on to other duties hardly less important, with the result that there is probably no section of the auxiliary fleet that is more hard worked."

ENEMY FIRMS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The Acting Prime Minister (Senator Pearce) said to-day that a communication had been received from Mr. Bonar Law (Secretary of State for the Colonies) on the subject of the liquidation of enemy firms, and it had been referred to the Attorney-General's Department. As a preliminary step, Senator Pearce said, a statement would be prepared showing the assets and liabilities of all enemy firms.

THE ANTARCTIC.

SHACKLETON EXPEDITION.

COMMANDER EVANS' VIEWS.

LONDON, March 2[illegible]

Commander Evans, who has been interviewed, said that probably Lieutenant Stenhouse selected the Aurora's winter quarters northward of Cape Evans, where it is most sheltered from southerly winds. Captain Macintosh would not return there immediately, as he would prepare to succour Sir Ernest Shackleton, and had probably made two sledging journeys to the Bluff. It was not likely he would return to Hut Point until late in March. The weather would prevent him going southward after April 1. Therefore he would remain at Hut Point until probably the middle of May, when he would possibly go to Cape Evans. He would then find the Aurora had gone. He may have remained at Hut Point otherwise. The entire party, including the four scientists, were probably comfortably housed at Cape Evans. A shortage of clothing was the more serious aspect. The relief ship ought to leave Australian waters in December for McMurdo Sound.

Details from the Endurance were necessary to guide the date of the departure of the relief ship for the Weddell Sea. If it were found necessary, there ought to be no difficulty regarding finance and personnel for the relief expeditions. The chief problem was woollen clothing and equipment, owing to the unprecedented war demand.

MR. HUGHES.

TEMPERATURE NORMAL.

LONDON, March 28.

Hundreds of messages of sympathy are reaching Mr. Hughes.

To-day, the Private Secretary to the King, (Lord Stamfordham) expressed his Majesty's regret, and inquired after Mr. Hughes's progress. The King was gratified to learn that his condition was improving.

March 29.

Mr. Hughes has received a message from the Governor-General of Australia, Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson, hoping for his speedy recovery.

His Majesty the King makes inquiries daily.

As the result of the Commonwealth Government's cable to Mr Hughes to use his own discretion as to when he will return his departure will probably be delayed to early in May. His engagements have been cancelled till April 8, but he is now able to give brief attention to a few of the most important matters with which Mr. Shepherd has been dealing. He hopes to discuss next week the question of metals with Sir T. H. Robinson (Agent-General for Queensland). It is believed a scheme has been devised which will possibly lead to a settlement.

The wheat question is still unsatisfactory, but Mr. Shepherd has made a further communication of Mr. Hughes's views to Mr. Bonar Law, Secretary of State for the Colonies.

The freedom of Manchester will be presented to Mr. Hughes on April 17, the freedom of Glasgow on April 14, and the freedom of Edinburgh on April 13. The cloth workers are also making him a freeman.

Mr. Hughes's temperature is normal. The doctors hope for steady progress, but point out that care is necessary to prevent the bitter London weather affecting his lungs when he leaves his bed. Next week he will spend a few days resting in the country.

Mr. Hughes developed a cough on Wednesday night, which became worse during the day. The doctors are of opinion that he will be unable to work for three weeks, and declare he needs rest for the brain as well as for the body. His temperature is 100, showing he is slightly better.

Cough is a frequent accompaniment of influenza, and it is not anticipated complications will follow. His condition is not regarded with any greater seriousness, but the new development will necessitate longer complete rest and quiet.

The callers to-day included Lord Brassey, the Duke of Norfolk, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Mr. A. J. Balfour, Lord Kitchener, Sir F. E. Smith, and Mr. Perley (Canada).

Many messages of sympathy were received from friends in Australia.

To-night's bulletin states that Mr. Hughes is progressing favourably, but the influenza has caused a troublesome throat cough. His temperature is rather lower.

Several publishers intend to publish a book on Mr. Hughes's life. Pearson's are now collecting material, and hope to issue a book without delay. Hutchinson's are also considering the publication of his biography.

French newspapers pay a tribute to Mr. Hughes's vigorous onslaught on German influence in trade, and say:—"This energetic statesman should speak to the people of France, and we hope he will come to Paris before he returns."

Liverpool is conferring the freedom of the city on Mr. Hughes.

TRAINS IN COLLISION.

30 KILLED: 40 INJURED.

NEW YORK, March 29.

The Twentieth Century Limited express during a fog collided with a passenger train which had previously been wrecked in another collision on the Lakeshore railroad.

Thirty passengers were killed and 40 injured.

WEATHER IN ENGLAND.

STORMS AND BLIZZARDS.

LOSS OF LIFE.

LONDON, March 29.

After redoubling in intensity throughout the night, the blizzard exhausted itself this morning, after doing severe damage in all parts of Great Britain. Nine men and boys were found dead in the snow in the mountains of South Wales.

There is widespread railway disorganisation in England. Some parts of the north were cut off from London for 14 hours. The services are improving, but they are slow owing to the widespread damage to signalling wires.

Five sailing ships have been lost in the Bristol Channel. Serious floods are threatened in the Thames Valley. Much damage was been done in London, where the worst storm was experienced since 1881.

Many expresses were again lost to-day. The officials in London admit they do not know their whereabouts in the absence of telegraph and telephone communication. Some of yesterday's trains are arriving to-day. Some lines in South Wales are covered with seven feet of snow.

GOODS FOR CHINA.

FEDERAL EMBARGO.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

A proclamation was issued by the Federal Government to-day prohibiting the exportation of any goods to China (not including Hongkong) and Siam without the consent of Mr. Tudor (Minister for Trade and Customs). At the same time a list of about 1300 names was published in the "Commonwealth Gazette" as those of persons to whom goods might be sent with the Minister's approval. In a second proclamation, the exportation of waste paper from the Commonwealth was prohibited.

STATE SESSION.

HOUSES CONFER.

EIGHT HOURS BILL.

MR. HALL'S CHARGE.

Representatives of the Legislative Assembly and Council conferred last night respecting amendments inserted by the Council in the Eight Hours Bill, which the lower House disagreed to.

No agreement was arrived at after several hours' discussion, and the conference was adjourned till this afternoon.

CIVIL SERVANTS' LEAVE.

The Premier stated, in reply to Mr. Fitzpatrick, that the granting of recreation leave to officers employed by the Government, with the exception of the railway and tramway services, had been suspended since December last. This step was taken with a view to obviating the expense of engaging additional assistance in place of men who had enlisted for active service, as considerable cost to the Government was involved in the payment to officers of the difference between their State and military emoluments in accordance with the Cabinet's decision. The question of restoring this leave was now under consideration. Approximately 14,000 civil servants were affected.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING.

Mr. Cusack asked if the Premier would discourage the practice of newspaper men encroaching upon the Government Printing Office staff's time, particularly during the busy period while the rolls were being printed, by requisitioning linotypes of members' speeches.

Mr. Holman said the concession had been made to members to aid them in the discharge of their public duties, but whether it ought to be extended to cases where it was made use of for purely business purposes would be considered.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BILL.

In reply to Mr. Gardiner, Mr. Estell stated that it was not his intention to have the Workmen's Compensation Bill passed this session. His object in introducing the bill was to get it tabled so that members could consider it. It was proposed to go on with the measure as early as possible next session.

ADVANCES TO FARMERS.

The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Grahame, stated, in reply to Mr. Fitzpatrick, that the State was responsible for the whole of the money that was advanced to farmers in connection with the wheat pool. A portion of the money had been borrowed from the Federal Government.

CONFLICTING AUTHORITIES.

Mr. Levy asked a question to draw attention to the alleged injustice and hardship caused to keepers of butchers' shops and restaurants through the conflict of authority of the City Council inspectors and inspectors under the Pure Foods Act.

The Attorney-General, Mr. Hall, promised to consult with the Chief Secretary on the matter.

FLOUR RATIONS.

Mr. Ball asked if it was a fact that regulations had been issued limiting the amount of wheat to be gristed for farmers to 300lb per year for each employee. This worked out at about 6lb per week, whereas the ordinary station rations were about 10lb.

Mr. Hall said he did not know what the allowance was, but 6lb was more than the military got, or than prisoners in the gaols got.

Mr. Ball: You don't put prisoners on the same plane as station hands?

Mr. Hall: They get all they can eat, and so do the military.

FAIR RENTS COURT.

The Fair Rents Court was the subject of a number of questions.

The Attorney-General, in reply to Mr. Osborne, said he had heard of no landlord threatening tenants, nor was he aware that there was any great congestion. He understood, however, that when the Court was first established the applications came in slowly, but since decisions had been given in a number of cases the applications for reductions in rent had come in more freely. In regard to the absence of the Government valuer, the Attorney-General stated that the officer at first appointed to assist the Court had to be taken off to carry out certain duties at Daceyville, but arrangements were being made to have an officer always available. Whether a tenant applied to the Court for a reduction in rent or a landlord for an increase, the Government Architect made a valuation, and was available to assist the Court.

Mr. Ball wished to know if the Court was being conducted at a cost of £15 or £16 a day, as stated in the press, and would the Attorney-General fix some time in which to give the experiment a fair trial, and then determine whether the benefits of the Court are worth the cost.

Mr. Hall replied that he would be surprised to think the Fair Rents Court was costing £15 or £16 a day. He would undertake to see that it would be conducted as economically as efficiency would permit.

Mr. Waddell wished to know if any provision would be made for bricklayers and carpenters who are likely to be thrown out of employment as a consequence of the way in which the operations of the Fair Rents Act were likely to affect the building trade.

Mr. Hall replied that until such conditions as Mr. Waddell suggested did arise he did not intend to take any action.

BILLS RECEIVED.

The following bills were received from the Legislative Council:—Liquor Referendum (with amendments), Metropolitan Water and Sewerage (with an amendment), Department of Agriculture Building (without amendment), Wardell-road to Darling Island Tunnel (without amendment), Industrial Arbitration Act Amendment (with an amendment). A message was received from his Excellency the Governor assenting to the Oaths Amendment Bill.

STATE CHILDREN.

A message was received from the Legislative Council, asking that leave be granted to Mr. Griffith, Minister for Public Instruction, to attend and give evidence before a select committee which had been appointed to inquire into the administration of the State Children's Relief Department.

On the motion of the Premier, leave was granted.

STATE BAKERY.

Mr. Haynes moved the adjournment of the House to enable members to discuss deals in wheat, flour, and bread by the State Bakery and certain persons. In view of pending legislation, there were facts in connection with the management of the State Bakery, he said, which should be placed before the House, and then investigated.

Mr. Haynes was speaking when the House adjourned for a conference with representatives of the Council on the Eight Hours Bill.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

The Attorney-General's reply was characterised by a violent attack on Mr. Haynes. Whether the State Bakery had justified itself or not would be shown by the Auditor-General's report when that was tabled. The whole cost of the purchase and equipment had been cleared in profit in two years. The statement that the bakery had exchanged 50 tons of superior flour, made from Manitoba wheat, with Mr. White, for 50 tons of inferior flour, was a lie. When there was a flour shortage Mr. White had been called upon to sell not merely 50 tons to the State Bakery, but to sell to other firms his surplus stock of flour. He had nothing to thank the Government for in this. Subsequently Mr. White bought flour from the Government. The statement that Mr. White sent his stale bread to Mr. Boss for distribution in Government institutions was as silly as it was false.

As to Mr. Haynes' motives, the fact was that in the last few months the hon. member had been disappointed himself with regard to a transaction with Mr. White. He went to Mr. White with two pages of his newspaper, headed, "The First Baker in Australia," the article saying what a magnificent baker and what a fine man Mr. White was. It was proposed that this article should be inserted as news, the only proviso being that Mr. White should pay up £50. If Mr. White had been prepared to submit to this blackmailing expedition, he would have been free from attack. Mr. Haynes had told Mr. White afterwards that he would make it hot for him, and to-night they had seen it "made hot" for Mr. White.

MR. COHEN'S VERSION.

Mr. Cohen said that the Minister was not justified in saying that the member for Willoughby had told a lie in saying that Mr. Boss, of the State Bakery, had exchanged flour in large quantities with Mr. William White. He (Mr. Cohen) had it on the authority of a gentleman who had been in conversation with the manager of the State Bakery, that Mr. Boss admitted having exchanged flour with Mr. White. The words, which were used by Mr. Boss, were: "This is 50 tons of flour I swapped with Willie White." Many of the reports which were going round about the State Bakery and the price of flour could be traced to Mr. Boss, who had allowed his tongue to wag too freely.

Captain Toombs said he was not surprised to hear Mr. Cohen backing up the old woman's yarns and the unfounded statements of the member for Willoughby.

ATTACKING THE DEFENCELESS.

Mr. Bruntnell expressed regret that men who were not able to defend themselves were attacked in Parliament. At the same time he did not think that Mr. William White needed the heated defence which had been made on his behalf by the Attorney-General, who had not shown the same readiness to defend other men who had been attacked in Parliament.

Mr. Edden said he thought the fact that Mr. Hall was prepared to say outside the House what he had said in it, ended the matter.

Mr. Ball said something further should be done to prove the incorrectness or correctness of the allegations made by Mr. Haynes.

Mr. Haynes, in reply, said he was going to simply smash the Attorney-General's attack, in a few minutes. Mr. Hall had invented a deliberate lie, and he would track it to its source. It had been said that he produced his pages of printed matter to show Mr. White. But Mr. Haynes asserted that he could bring forward every man in his office, and not one had set up a single line of any such article. "I have never seen Mr. White for ten years, so help me, God," declared Mr. Haynes. "If Mr. White walked into the Chamber now I would not know him."

Mr. Haynes went on to say that he was never more surprised than when Mr. Hall said where he got his evidence from. It was ten years ago since he saw Mr. White on a purely business matter, and that was when he was out of Parliament. What, he asked, did the House think of a man standing up in Parliament and making such a statement.

Mr. Edden: If he cannot prove it he is a scoundrel.

Mr. Haynes said he could call on his Maker and say that the statement made was untrue. The Attorney-General had said that his charge referred to something that took place recently. He challenged the Attorney-General to send detectives down to his office in the morning, and see if they could find a line of the alleged article about Mr. White. He described Mr. Hall as a "cowering spectre of a man," adding, in conclusion, "I've got you beaten."

The motion for adjournment was then formally negatived.

Subsequently, when the adjournment of the House was moved, Mr. Haynes rose to make a personal explanation. He had learned that while he was speaking previously Mr. White was in the House, and had afterwards sent word round that the Minister had made a blunder in stating that Mr. Haynes had recently shown him two pages of advertisements and demanded £50. Mr. White had said he had not seen Mr. Haynes for 10 or 12 years.

Mr. Hall: He said nothing of the kind. Who did he say it to? I will produce a statutory declaration from Mr. White to-night.

Mr. Bruntnell rose to state that during the progress of the previous discussion he had gone round to Mr. White, and had a conversation with him. Mr. White had assured him that the Attorney-General had erred. It was many years ago that the event happened.

Mr. Hall said he would produce a statement from Mr. White next night. The allegation that the incident occurred 10 years ago was about as wrong as Mr. Haynes' other statements.

Mr. Haynes (excitedly): You are an impostor and a liar.

At 3.15 a.m. the House adjourned till this afternoon.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

THIRD READINGS.

The Liquor Referendum Bill, Wardell-road to Darling Island Deviation (Tunnels) Bill, Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Amendment Bill, and Department of Agriculture Building Bill were read the third time.

INDUSTRIAL ARBITRATION ACT.

A message was sent to the Assembly stating that the Council had agreed to the amendment made by the Assembly in schedule one of the Industrial Arbitration Act, 1912, with certain amendments, in which the Council asked the other House to concur.

SUPERANNUATION BILL.

The House went into committee for further consideration of this bill.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council (Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald) said the measure was before the committee in August last, when several objections were raised to it. The Government intended to pass the bill if it could, and it was his duty, on behalf of the party which gave a pledge in regard to the bill at the last election, to ask the committee to give a decision upon it.

Mr. Garland said it was quite easy to understand the Vice-President's anxiety to press on the bill. Perhaps it was in the hope that it would be rejected. Then political capital might be made out of it. If the Vice-President insisted upon going on he intended to move an amendment that the Act should not come into operation before July 1, 1916, providing that the Governor might, by proclamation, pursuant to the resolutions of both Houses of Parliament, postpone the date of the commencement of the Act.

Sir Joseph Carruthers said it was not a proper thing at such a critical time, when the nation was engaged in a tremendous war, and our people were being taxed in regard to it, to propose such an important measure. It was not a time for the Civil Service to ask the general community to saddle itself with this additional burden.

Progress was reported on account of the time for the conference on the Eight Hours Bill having arrived.

The Council reassembled at 10.20 p.m.

ADDITIONAL SITTING DAY.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council moved by leave that Friday be an additional sitting day for the remainder of the session, Government business to take precedence.

The motion was agreed to.

FREE CONFERENCE REPORT.

Mr. Garland brought up the report of the Council's managers at the free conference with the Legislative Assembly on the Eight Hours Bill. It had not been able to arrive at a resolution, but asked leave to sit again on Friday.

Leave was given.

The Council at 25 minutes past 10 o'clock adjourned till half-past 4 o'clock this afternoon.

RECRUITING.

At Victoria Barracks yesterday 87 men offered their services; and of these 52 were accepted.

The work of the staff in the enrolling office, Victoria Barracks, was hardly strenuous yesterday; but, at the same time a number of useful men were passed.

Among these were a boxmaker, a farmer from Thuddungra, two butchers, and a baker—the class of men required for the Army Service Corps—a milk deliverer, a surveyor, a carpenter, and two miners, the first from Coledale Colliery and the second from West Maitland. Several men who had been engaged in the motor industry as engineers, mechanics, and drivers offered their services: four shearers—one from Queensland—a typist, a braceman from the Public Works Department; a station overseer, and a drover from Queensland; a military staff clerk from the barracks, a moulder, and a grazier. Two members of the Professional Musicians' Union, and a couple of actors and an employee of a picture theatre company, made a break in the run of ordinary professions and trades, and were in turn followed by a mercer, the cellarman from a brewery, a knight's coachman, a metal worker, and a hammerer. There was also a coachdriver from Wentworth Falls, a man of independent means from Rooty Hill, and a boiler-scaler.

IN OTHER STATES.

ADELAIDE, Thursday.

To-day 41 men volunteered at Adelaide for active service, and 39 were accepted.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In Victoria to-day 103 recruits were obtained from 168 volunteers.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

In Queensland to-day out of 50 volunteers, 42 were accepted.

Lieutenant William Buchan, B.A., third son of the Rev. James Buchan, M.A., prior to leaving for the front, was presented with a gold wristlet watch by his fellow-officers in the Registrar-General's Department, and with other presents by friends in the church and Sunday-school. His youngest brother, Lance-corporal J. Rutherford Buchan, was at the landing at the Dardanelles, where he was wounded, and on recovering returned to the fighting line, and remained until the evacuation.

PAYMENT FOR NOT WORKING

Some time ago the rockchoppers in the employ of the Water and Sewerage Board approached the board with a request that the members of the Rockchoppers and Sewer Miners' Union, who did not work on December 28, 1915, should be paid, and those who did work on that day should be paid at double rates.

The President, Mr. W. J. Milliner, explained that on December 28 170 rockchoppers did work, while 32 did not. These men who declined to work on that day had demanded payment, and the board at a previous meeting had carefully considered the request, and unanimously declined to entertain it. These men then, through the union secretary, approached the Minister with a similar request for payment. The Minister had referred the matter back to the board. In his, the president's opinion the board had been justified in refusing the payment for non-work on that day, and he was of that opinion still.

It was unanimously decided to adhere to the original decision.

MESSAGE FROM THE AURORA.

SLOW PROGRESS OF VESSEL.

WIRELESS MESSAGE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Thursday.

To-day the Prime Minister, Mr. Massey, received the following message from Commander J. R. Stenhouse, R.N.R., of the Aurora, by wireless:—"March 29, 1916. Position Aurora, 8 p.m., latitude 49.40, longitude 164; making north-east course; speed 2½ knots."—(Signed) Stenhouse."

CHINA.

MONARCHY CANCELLED.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Mr. Tseng Tsung Kien, the Consul-General for China, has received the mandate from Yuan Shi-Kai authorising him to state that the monarchy has been cancelled, and that the present year will be known as the fifth year of the Republic.

RAILWAY SYSTEM.

RADICAL IMPROVEMENTS.

£1,192,000 SPENT.

A new railway line, somewhat of the shape of a big letter U, six or seven miles wide and laid across the main suburban line and the Parramatta-road, represents an important addition to the railway system of the State. It is designed to relieve the goods traffic which has grown enormously of late, the view of the Commissioners regarding the new line being that, without it, the congestion of recent years could not be obviated.

The big U carries, so to speak, several embellishments along its course in the form of two flourishes at one extremity, the first flourish going round the saleyards and the other round the new abattoirs at Homebush Bay, while at the other extremity of the relief line, where it impinges upon Rozelle Bay and Darling Harbour, there is a bifurcation, one prong of the catapult forming a swelling oval. This oval, which does not look particularly formidable when seen on a map scaled one inch to the mile, nevertheless stands for no less than 20 miles of a series of short parallel sidings, all working one into the other, when reckoned in connection with marshalling lines to the south of Rozelle Bay.

This end of the line will bring the whole of the railways of the State into intimate touch with the oversea railway front. It is here that the surplus grain harvest will find its way into the ships' holds.

Yesterday afternoon a party representing the Sydney Chamber of Commerce accompanied the Premier, the Assistant Minister for Railways, and the Deputy Chief Commissioner for Railways on a visit of inspection over the greater part of the new line, and at Rozelle Bay they saw wheat being loaded by the elevators by the bag system, which, according to a legislative proposal, is destined soon to disappear in favour of the more expeditious bulk handling scheme.

MARSHALLING YARDS.

But perhaps the most interesting sight of all was the busy scene at the Enfield marshalling yards that are now being brought into being. There are to be 26½ miles of sidings here. This is the point where the freight cars will be sorted out and given their order of precedence for despatch into or out of the metropolis. A convulsion of nature can hardly be imagined as changing the face of things terrestrially so completely as a number of railway construction camps. The navvies swarm like bees, and it must have made the heart of any politician benevolently disposed towards the day labour system rejoice at the vim the gangs were putting into their efforts.

The whole scene impressed the visitors with the immensity of the work that is proceeding apace just a few miles out of Sydney, and which few know of, but the officials concerned, with its progress. The cost to date has been £1,192,000.

Approaching the Rozelle Bay end, the train was stopped till a blast was exploded. Hereabouts the electric drillers could be heard and seen at work. The Wianamatta shale that made fairly easy cuttings around Flemington and Enfield, had been left behind, and the cuttings in portions of Leichhardt lay through solid rock that must have made the work very expensive. The line all through is a double one, and the decision to have this in preference to the single track first determined upon has caused the total cost of this undertaking to be substantially increased.

The Deputy Chief Commissioner (Mr. J. Fraser) explained that the object of the visit was to enable Sydney business men to see what was being done to prevent the arteries of traffic being choked up. His views may be summarised as follows:—"The new system of goods lines now being constructed will give the maximum facilities for interchange of goods business between the northern, southern, and western systems, and the Illawarra and Botany railways, without physical contact or grade crossings at any points other than necessary junctions. The scheme is one which, when fully completed and in operation, will remove all difficulties and inconveniences now suffered by traders, whether in the city or country, in connection with the handling of their goods. The first great auxiliary is the new marshalling yard at Enfield, where land has been secured for a gravity marshalling yard, on principles similar to the best of such yards in America and England, and on a scale little, if any, less than the most capacious now existing. This yard will accommodate gross 4835 waggons.

"The yard at Rozelle will," said Mr. Fraser, "take the place of very inadequate accommodation now existing in Darling Harbour and Darling Island yards for the reception of goods trains. This yard will contain over 21½ miles of sidings, and will accommodate at one time 2829 waggons. The provision of sidings near Tempe for transfer of business between the Illawarra and Suburban lines is important in providing for the most economical handling of the business."

Among those present were Mr. P. A. Parkes, (president of the Chamber of Commerce), Mr. W. Brookes (president of the New South Wales Employers' Federation), and Mr. R. W. Dalton (Imperial Trade Commissioner).

ANZAC DAY.

Anzac Day—April 25—needs no words to commend it to a spirit of generosity and self-sacrifice. Preparations are gradually getting into full swing. The returned soldiers are taking eager interest in the movement. All is activity at the offices at the corner of Elizabeth and King streets. The men there are willing at all times to offer explanations or make suggestions. The thing they insist on is that the celebration this time is to be of an entirely serious character. Anzac Day is to be set aside simply and solely for commemoration and recruiting. The men are busily organising their forces. Of returned soldiers alone 5000 will take part in Sydney. Whatever funds are raised will go to the avowed objects of the day.

"We want to get going now," said the secretary of the Returned Soldiers' Association when seen last night. "We really want Anzac Day to be a memorable national event. It will comfort all of us to see the boys who have died fittingly remembered. And it will cheer us more than I can say if we can make the big recruiting rally at night what we want it to be."

If citizens with suggestions to make as to the conduct of Anzac Day will call and talk to the men on duty at the office, corner of Elizabeth and King streets, much time and trouble will be saved.

The Premier (Mr. Holman) has made the necessary arrangements for all men who are returned soldiers now residing in the country to obtain free passes to the city, thus allowing them to take part in the celebrations. It is requested that they write to the secretary of the R.S.A. making application with the least possible delay.

INSPECTIONS OF TROOPS.

The District Commandant, Brigadier-General Ramaciotti, stated yesterday that the inspection of reinforcements leaving for the front, which was to have been held to-morrow, has been postponed until Tuesday. The Governor-General would take the salute as previously arranged. Another inspection will also be held in the Outer Domain at 4 o'clock this afternoon, when his Excellency will take the salute as the troops march past.

COCKATOO STRIKE SETTLED.

The strike of fitters at Cockatoo Island Naval Dockyard has been satisfactorily settled, and the men will return to work this morning.

MR. HUGHES'S SPEECHES.

DEFENDED BY SENATOR PEARCE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Replying to Mr. Joseph Cook's rebuke of Mr. Hughes, the Acting Prime Minister (Senator Pearce) said:—

"I altogether dissent from Mr. Cook's allegation that any of Mr. Hughes's speeches may be said to interfere with or to hamper the Imperial Government. I take the view that Mr. Hughes has a perfect right, as representative of one of the dominions, to put the view of a dominion on various vital questions now before the people of the Empire. These questions are not merely questions for the British Government to settle; they affect us, and we have a perfect right to express our views. Mr. Hughes is no more interfering than would a British Minister who expresses his views on these matters, which are of importance to all parts of the Empire.

"However, when Mr. Cook gets away from that and comes to questions he says should be dealt with here, he stated that during the short reign of the Liberal Government we formulated a workable and feasible plan for making the railways in Australia national and useful for war. Well, I cannot find that plan. The only plan of the kind I can find is that of the formation of a War Railway Council, which, unfortunately for Mr. Cook, was not originated by him, but by myself.

"Then he refers to the Murray Waters agreement. Mr. Cook's memory must surely be failing when he says that it is 18 months since that agreement was decided upon, and that nothing has yet been done. Does he not remember that the Labour Government took up this question and passed the necessary legislation, making the Commonwealth liable for a million of money, and giving assent to the scheme which makes the Commonwealth partner with three States in the matter."

SOLDIERS' WIVES.

AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Thursday.

The Defence Minister (Mr. Allen) and the Commonwealth Defence Minister (Senator Pearce) have concluded a reciprocal agreement for the payment of separation allowances for wives of soldiers on active service.

ARCHDEACON BOYCE'S SIX REASONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In the "Herald," 28/3/16, Archdeacon Boyce gives six reasons why hotel bars should be closed at 6 o'clock:—

(1) "Bars should close the same as other businesses. Shops shut at 6 o'clock. There is no sufficient reason for favouring bars with longer hours." The answer to that is that there is no analogy between hotels and ordinary shops. Hotels and their bars have been licensed under the law of the country as places of public convenience and as recreative resorts. To close them at an hour which precludes the workers from using them is an infringement of the democratic principles under which such public institutions were founded.

(2) "Late hours lead to excessive drinking and other ills. It is after dark that most of the drunken brawls and wife-beating are. The last hours of the traffic in intoxicants are ever the most dangerous and the worst." This statement cannot be reconciled with experience. In many places where there are no restrictions as to the hours during which liquor may be sold by licensed vendors there are less drunkenness and brawls and wife-beating. Archdeacon Boyce does not say where the drunken brawls and wife-beating take place. If they occur in the homes, then they may be considered as the result of the larger quantities of liquor consumed there. To close the hotel bars at 6 o'clock would be a direct incentive for people to lay in larger stocks of liquor for home consumption, and bring about those untoward domestic conditions which Archdeacon Boyce declares are due to late closing of the liquor bars.

(3) "The lure of the bar is specially great in spare time—in the idle hours of men. The shorter hours of labour have been playing into the hands of the publicans all the time. This early closing should have come when shops were made to shut at 6."

The publican is licensed by law to keep his premises open for the convenience of the public. The law provides that he shall conduct his premises in the interests of sobriety. To permit drunkenness on his licensed premises is an offence against that law. It is, therefore, the duty of the authorities to see that the licensee does not abuse the conditional rights the law allows him. There is no evidence that the shorter hours of labour "have been playing into the hands of the publican."

4. "The time for immorality is notably after six. Drink inflames the passions. It is after dark that the loose and dissolute women, hovering so often about public houses, gain, tempt, win, and ruin. Dr. Worrall said that he believed that 6 o'clock closing would greatly lessen the red plague."

Archdeacon Boyce therefore implies that the hotel is the resort of immoral persons, and that it is in the hotel that the immorality takes place. That is the only deduction to be drawn from such a statement. If that sort of behaviour does occur in licensed hotels—an absurd inference—it would be an easy matter for the police to locate and have the licensee punished accordingly. Dissolute women are not permitted in licensed hotels; and the licensee can be prosecuted for allowing such people about the premises—another case for the police. If men desire drink to "inflame their passions," dissolute women take care to have a stock on the premises they use for immoral practices. As to the "red plague," that disease is rampant among the teetotal Asiatic nations. To imagine that the closing of hotels at 6 o'clock is to remedy all the ills of erring humanity, with which the licensed victualler absolutely has nothing to do, is a process of fanatical reasoning, surprising to contemplate even in the latter day theological exponent.

(5) "It would help to purify and sweeten the congested and slum areas of the city, in which bars are so very plentiful. Drink there is an important cause of poverty and other most regrettable conditions. It is after dark in them that most of the drinking takes place."

This wildly exaggerated view of the results due to hotel bars not being closed at 6 o'clock is answered in the reply to statement 4.

(6) "The short time that 6 o'clock was tried here by Senator Pearce was productive of great good. The fewer convictions in the courts are a proof. One policeman said that he might lose his billet for the want of something to do if it continued."

The permanent result of any departure from the ordinary routine of citizenship cannot be determined in a few days. The convictions for drunkenness may be less, but that does not prove that there has been less drinking after 6 o'clock. In restricted places in England, matters at first seemed more quiescent as regards drunkenness in the streets, but the police soon found that drinking in private homes became more pronounced than drinking at the bars. As to the contention of the facetious policeman, the comparatively few prosecutions indicate that the duties of the police in this regard have not been inordinately arduous.

Archdeacon Boyce as an addendum to his six reasons says that "it will be said that home drinking and sly grog-selling will result. They are mostly brewers' bogies. But any trouble in that way would be only trivial compared with the good that would be done."

Evidently a ray of logic shone in the Venerable Archdeacon's mind when he anticipated that it would be urged that the evils of home drinking and sly-grog selling would result on the earlier closing of the legitimate channels for supplying the people's needs for alcoholic stimulants. As to the "brewers' bogie," it is a recognised fact that where the legitimate sale of alcoholic liquor is prohibited, home drinking and sly grog-selling, with all their attendant evils are prevalent. Closing hotels at such an early hour in the evening will not encourage temperance. On the contrary, the experience in other countries shows that undue restrictions as regards the means of obtaining liquor, while perhaps decreasing the convictions for drunkenness, have intensified the desire (as above stated), for excessive drinking in the homes. Thus the trade fights against a propaganda that aims at the accentuation of any evils that may be allied to the abuse of alcoholic liquors, disorganises a lawfully constituted industry, and ruins those who have invested their money in business concerns, with the connivance of the State laws. To precipitate such an economic disaster to gratify a whimsical illusion, and to ask the people to subscribe to the doctrine of teetotal faddists—people who just now may be more susceptible to the germ of hysteria flung far and wide by Archdeacon Boyce and his followers—is one of those inconsistent attempts at reform incomprehensible to the ordinary logician. I am, etc.,

EDWIN STOOKE,

Secretary the Liquor Trades' Defence Union of N.S.W.

LANGER OWEN.

THE STRIKES.

MR. KAVANAGH TALKS TO THE UNIONS.

Plain speaking with reference to members of unions individually determining upon strikes was indulged in by Mr. Kavanagh, secretary of the Sydney Labour Council, at a meeting of that body last evening. He instanced the case of a strike which occurred among members of a union without consulting the executive of the union or the council. The men, by a coincidence, he said, somehow or other got together and discussed their grievances, and then decided to strike, and remain out until their demands were conceded. They thought that as their executive was not consulted in the matter it was not a strike. "That is not the correct way of doing things," continued Mr. Kavanagh. "They should, in the first case, put their case before the council, as provided for by its constitution, and in all probability much trouble would be averted if they did so. If the council considers that a strike is necessary there will be a strike but we do not want the men to get the silly idea into their heads that by individually ceasing work they are doing the right thing. The men should go about the strike business straightforwardly. Much of the recent industrial trouble would have been avoided if the men had gone about things in the proper way. The council will spare neither expense nor the time of the members of the executive in getting to the bottom of the troubles if they are put before them as the constitution provides."

BARRIER ORES.

LOCAL TREATMENT SCHEME.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

A further conference concerning Australian metals took place to-day between representatives of the Broken Hill companies and the Federal Government. As a sequel to the prohibition of the export of lead ores by mining companies, it is understood that a scheme has been drawn up by which the idea of having all the Barrier ores treated in Australia can be furthered. Certain of the mines at Broken Hill are still unable to resume operations, as no outlet for their products has yet been found to replace the German market for concentrates. Included in the number are Broken Hill Block 10, Broken Hill Block 14, and Junction North Broken Hill, which in the latest plans for dealing with the metal problem have been afforded an opportunity of participating in the Port Pirie Smelting Company (Broken Hill Associated Smelters). In the event of the companies taking advantage of the opportunity arrangements would probably be made for the smelting of ore from their mines on a co-operative basis.

SOLDIER POLITICIAN.

LABOUR TO CONTEST HIS SEAT.

PERTH, Thursday.

Mr. R. D. M'Kenzie, M.L.A., who was an honorary Minister in the Wilson Government, has written from the Red Cross base, Boulogne, France, intimating that he will not seek re-election for the North-east Province, a constituency which he represented for 12 years. When he left last year to undertake ambulance work, with his own car, in France, it was understood that neither he nor other members of Parliament serving at the front would be opposed at any election during their absence. Apparently this compact, implied or expressed, has been revised, a Labour candidate having been selected for the North-east Province, and this position is understood to explain Mr. M'Kenzie's decision, which, it is stated, will involve contests in other electorates whose present members are with the colours.

BREAD MONOPOLY.

At the last meeting of the New South Wales Federated Baking Trades Employees' Council, which embraces the Operative Bakers' Society, the Breadcarters' Union, the Federated Millers and Mill Employees' Union, and the Pastrycooks' Union, the following resolution was carried:—"That this federation reaffirms its previous resolution with reference to advising all members to refuse employment under the Bread Monopoly Bill, and if Mr. Hall persists with the bill the federation advise all members to help to defeat Mr. Hall at the forthcoming election."

FATAL MILL ACCIDENT.

Charles Bales, aged 39 years, a married man, residing in Petersham-road, Petersham, fell between the cylinders of one of the machines at the Australian Woollen Mills, Marrickville, yesterday, and sustained dreadful injuries, which proved fatal.

His mate, Jack Raistrick, saw the unfortunate man fall. His head, arms, and back were dragged into the machine before the mechanism could be stopped.

Dr. Daley pronounced life extinct.

IF GERMANY WON.

A SOLDIER TALKS TO THE SHIRKERS.

Trooper H. W. Crouch, of the 6th Light Horse, recently in the Australian and New Zealand Base Depot, Monte Video camp, Weymouth, England, writing, after his experiences in Gallipoli, to his mother, Mrs. F. G. Crouch, of Randwick, says:—"The war cannot last much longer—not till next winter—and we all have equal chances of coming through. It is much better to go under fighting for one's King and country, and, coming nearer, for one's mother and sisters, than have the knowledge after the war is over that one did not participate in it and did not do one's duty side by side with all those who did.

"The position is now so serious that I think young married men can best do their duty to their wives by going to the front to fight for them. It is hard on the wives and on the mothers, but, honestly, all who have gone to the front when going under do not think about it nor care at all for themselves. They know they are doing their duty, which, after all, is not hard to do, and they know now how Belgium, Servia, and Montenegro have fared. If the Germans got to England, which they never will, we know how poor England would fare, and if they win—which they won't—nothing would matter. Better not be alive. Germany is making a great advertisement out of the Berlin to Constantinople express, the through train. The 'Daily Mail's' correspondent, who made the journey, states that the coaches forming the train are new and elaborate, and have three-foot lettering painted on them, 'Berlin to Constantinople.' Meals on the dining car are cheap, and the food splendid. The idea is, of course, to impress and keep in with the Turks—Constantinople itself being on the verge of starvation."

Since this letter was posted in January Trooper Crouch has passed his examinations at Bisley, and received a commission as a machine-gun officer attached to the 12th Brigade.

MUNITIONS.

LLOYD GEORGE'S CIRCULAR.

INVENTORS ENCOURAGED.

The Premier has received a copy of a circular letter issued by the Ministry of Munitions respecting the inventions department recently instituted for the purpose of dealing with ideas, suggestions, and inventions for appliances in connection with war. The Minister of Munitions considers it important that the new department should be brought into close touch with the scientific departments of the universities and technical institutions throughout the Empire, and asks for particulars of what is being done.

In regard to experimental work not directly authorised by the various Governments, the Minister of Munitions (Mr. Lloyd George) says that it would be of great advantage if his department were informed in some detail as to the nature of the work. He undertakes to regard all communications as confidential, and declares that such communications will not prevent the inventor taking out patents subsequently.

The Minister for Munitions expresses the hope that, by getting into communication with the scientific teaching institutions throughout the Empire, his department may lay the foundation for closer co-operation wherever it offers a prospect of results which will aid in the successful prosecution of the war.

LOCAL EXHIBITION.

A display of the manufacture of munitions, as carried out at the Walsh Island Government works, is now being exhibited in Challis House window, processes from the block of steel to the making of the shell being indicated.

COOPERS' STRIKE ENDED.

The coopers in the employ of the Colonial Sugar Refining Company, the Vacuum Oil Company, Messrs. Kitchen and Sons, and Lever Brothers, Limited, who have been out on strike for the past 13 weeks, have gone back to work.

FINANCIAL.

YIELD ON STOCKS.

J. M'Crabb writes:—

Sir,—In your list of stocks, New South Wales, 1919, 4 per cent., selling at about £94, you state return thereon as 6 per cent. Please let me know how you get this return.

In addition to interest, allowance is made for the return of £6 above the selling price of £94, when three years hence the loan is redeemed by the Government. The question is what sum paid yearly for three years, at, say, 5 per cent. interest, would amount to £6, and having ascertained this sum, what rate of interest does this amount to on £94. This rate added to 3½ per cent. gives the yield to investor.

HOWARD SMITH, LTD., AND CALEDONIAN COLLIERIES, LTD.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The annual meetings of the Howard Smith, Ltd., and the Caledonian Collieries, Ltd., were held to-day. Mr. H. B. Howard Smith, chairman of directors, presided over both meetings. In reviewing the progress of Howard Smith, Ltd., for the first year of its operations, the chairman stated that the directors felt that, all circumstances considered, the result could be regarded as satisfactory. The war had necessarily prompted a conservative policy, and with the exception of some small additions to existing interests the company had not materially extended its business or embarked on any new ventures. The prospects for the current year were satisfactory, but in existing circumstances it was of course impossible to forecast the future. The directors' statement and balance-sheet were adopted.

In moving the adoption of the report and balance-sheet for the third year's operations of Caledonian Collieries, Ltd., the chairman remarked that the position disclosed was not as satisfactory as that for the two previous years. It was forecasted in last year's report that there would be a shrinkage in the volume of business. The result had been further accentuated by the additional taxation imposed by the Federal and New South Wales Governments, the total amount for the year being no less than £11,766. Unfortunately the shortage of ships and unprecedentedly high freights ruling on account of the war precluded the prospect of a revival of the foreign trade for some time, which seriously affected the output from the West Wallsend and West Wallsend Extended collieries. Furthermore, coastal tonnage, already reduced by Government requisitions, had been rendered less efficient by the refusal of the Victorian coal lumpers to continue the practice of the last 40 years of working overtime. As a consequence an improvement in the company's business for the current term could not be expected. The motion was agreed to.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Charles Anderson and Co., Ltd., has been placed on the official list of the Sydney Stock Exchange. The authorised capital is £200,000 in 200,000 shares of £1 each, the subscribed capital, £150,007 shares fully paid, leaving 49,993 shares held in reserve.

Mr. F. Rhoades, formerly managing director of Lever Bros., Ltd., Balmain, has accepted a seat on the board of J. C. Ludowici and Son, Ltd.

At the wool sales yesterday, 6041 bales were offered, and, including private transactions, sales amounted to 6295 bales.

Super wools and good lines of new clip had keen inquiry at prices fully equal to the best point of the season.

WHY FREIGHT IS SHORT.

THE PART WAR PLAYS.

FEAR OF REQUISITION.

HOW WHEAT MAY FARE.

The want of sufficient shipping is causing a shortage of many necessary articles, and is increasing the cost of those articles which do reach us. Much of this shortage of shipping is due to the requirements of the war, but no inconsiderable part is also due to the action of the Commonwealth Government in regard to its wheat shipments. Shipowners fear, as was indicated by "Fairplay," the shipping journal, that if they send their vessels to Australia they will be requisitioned to carry wheat cargoes by the Commonwealth Government. The requisition would be at what are known as bluebook rates—that is, the rate which the British Government pays for the transport of troops and for the transport of munitions to the army. That rate is considerably below the market rate. Those few vessels which do come here fearing the requisition are making the outward cargo, the cargo to Australia, bear the burden. For instance, for rock salt, which always pays the lowest rate, £5/10/ a ton is asked for freight alone, and the offer is not firm at that. That is to say, the shipowner would not necessarily accept such freight; he would consider it. So the people of the Commonwealth are penalised in order that wheat may be carried below market rates from our shores. It is all very well to say that the shipowner in sticking out for the highest price he can get, regardless of the Empire's needs, is unpatriotic. He probably is. And that is what a lot of people in England are saying about the Australian farmer, forgetting that it is the Australian Government which has formed a corner in Australian wheat, and that on the English market there is only one seller of that wheat.

The Australian Government is out to obtain the highest possible price it can for the wheat of the Australian farmer. If anything was needed to intensify that argument it is the sale of a cargo to Spain, mentioned in the House of Commons on Wednesday, at a time when it was urgently wanted by the United Kingdom. And that cargo, according to the same statement, was carried in a requisitioned ship, a ship whose price was fixed by the Commonwealth Government for the benefit of the Australian farmers and the people of Spain, while the British people wanted wheat for bread. It may have been good business on the part of the Australian Government, but there are few people who would say it was patriotic, and if the Australian Government is out to do the best it can for the farmer for whom it has made itself the selling agent, regardless of patriotic considerations, why should it talk so much about the unpatriotic action of shipowners in wanting as much as they can obtain for the commodity—freight—which they sell.

If the shipowner relaxes his prices, will the English worker get his bread any cheaper? Not a bit. The Australian farmer will get a little more for his wheat. That is the view of a great many English people. Will the Australian farmer benefit by this attempt to squeeze the utmost possible out of the market? He will get a high rate for a small portion of his wheat. Will he get it for the major portion? Let it be at once said that the Government in taking over the selling of wheat has done an immense benefit to the farmer. Had ordinary conditions of sale ruled there would have been the fear that all the crop would not be got away before the next crop would be ready, and shippers, afraid of having a lot left on their hands, would have offered very low prices. If the Government had adopted a reasonable attitude probably all the freight wanted would have been given. New South Wales has an exportable surplus of at least 40,000,000 bushels of wheat. In wheat and flour we have exported four and a half million bushels. Although four months have elapsed since the harvest, we may say that these exports have been made in three months. In December the exports were negligible. If 4,500,000 bushels is exported in three months, at the same rate 40,000,000 bushels will be exported in 26 months, so that we shall have the harvest of 1917-18 on top of us before the harvest of 1915-16 is cleared off the boards. Does that make for high prices for wheat?

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Business was quiet in groceries yesterday, and rates were without alteration. Some changes were made in Eastern produce. Tapiocas were 1/ dearer, medium pearl selling at 29/ and seed at 28/ in distributing lots. There was no tapioca available for market business. Peppers were up a halfpenny per lb, white in 7lb bags selling at 1/2¾ and black at 1/0½. Nutmegs were dearer at 1/6. Blue boiling peas were slightly easier at 18/ per bushel in sacks. The wholesale price was 13/9. On the other hand, split peas distributed 1/ dearer at 24/6 per cwt. Pearl barley was worth 17/3. Fixed prices for 2lb tins of jam were:—Wholesale, per dozen tins, nominal 2lb, strawberry 15/4, retail per tin 1/5; fig, raspberry, black currant, wholesale 10/8 per dozen, retail 1/ per tin; raspberry and apple jelly, blackberry, pineapple, apricot, pear, conserve, wholesale 10/2, retail 11½d; blackberry and apple, quince jelly, peach, peach and pineapple, pear and preserved ginger, wholesale 9/8, retail 11d; apple jelly, greengage, golden-drop plum, gooseberry, wholesale 9/2, retail 10½d; plum, quince, marmalade, damson, melon and lemon, apple conserve, wholesale 8/8, retail 10d.

The oil market was steady, and had more confidence. Linseed oil was cabled a penny up from London, this being the second rise of a penny in the last couple of days, and making Blundell, Spences 3/3½ f.o.b. There was a fair demand for whitelead and turpentine.

Business in heavy metals was slow. The country was buying little. Development work had practically stopped, and both farmers and pastoralists seemed to be conserving their resources. Prices were without alteration. Rabbit-traps and sheepshears were in request—rabbit-traps, I.X.L., at 14/ and special at 15/, sheepshears at 45/.

There was no change in jute prices. Cornsacks were quoted at 10/9 net, branbags at 8/2, and woolpacks on spot at 4/1. April-May-June shipments of woolpacks were worth from 4/8 to 4/8 net.

The amount of wool which was manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour and suburban stations yesterday was 421 bales.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 4129 tons of wheat and 153 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the Queen Victoria Market to-day apples sold at 1/6 to 3/6 per case; almonds and walnuts, /10 to 1/ per lb; figs, 2/ to 3/6 half-case; grapes, 6/ to 8/ case; lemons, 16/ to 18/ case; peaches, 4/ to 7/6 case; pears, dessert, 2/6 to 4/6 case; plums, 2/6 to 4/ case; strawberries, /5 to 1/ box; quinces, 2/ to 3/6 case.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

CHEESE MAY ADVANCE.

Prescott, Ltd., have decided to ask the Necessary Commodities Commission for permission to advance the price of cheese. For some time past stocks have been very light, and as already reported, some agents have been unable to accept all the orders offering. In these circumstances, Prescott, Ltd., believe that the Commission would be perfectly justified were it to allow an increase in quotations. At the moment, the price of prime loaf cheese is 9¼d per lb.

Butter production in New South Wales is steadily declining, but there is still ample supplies to fill all requirements. The value of best brands is firm at 126/ per cwt. delivered in boxes. In Melbourne choicest makes are worth 140/, and in Brisbane 136/8 per cwt.

There was no movement in the egg market. New-laid sold at 1/10, and case eggs at from 1/7 to 1/8.

CHINESE EGGS.

Bowden Brothers and Co., Ltd., write:—

Sir,—With reference to the paragraph in your paper, and the packers' remarks quoted, we would say that arrangement was made some time ago with packers to show (stamped) on each egg the date of packing and country of origin.

Bowden Brothers' assurance that "arrangements were made some time ago with packers to stamp on each egg the date of packing and country of origin" does not altogether square with the suggestion put forward in the circular that "the eggs could be taken out of the cask and repacked in boxes or baskets, as the local trade calls for, and sold as fresh eggs in competition with the local product. How could an egg stamped "product of China," and bearing a date five or six weeks old, be "sold as a fresh egg?"

Quotations were:—

RAILWAY MARKET.

STEADY SALES.

A moderate yarding was available at the Redfern sales yesterday. Buyers were in large attendance, and a steady demand existed throughout for most lines. Generally the market was on a firm basis. Improved prices were recorded for wheaten chaff, and oaten chaff was firm. A good sample of wheaten chaff realised 4/9, while other lots were worth 3/11 to 4/7 per cwt. Oaten chaff sold from 2/11 to 4/6.

Lucerne chaff sold well at prices from 6/3 to 6/9 per cwt, while dust made to 9/ per bag. Lucerne hay made 4/9 to 5/3 for fair quality at auction, and to 6/9 for prime hay privately. Oaten hay also sold well, making 4/ to 5/ per cwt.

A large supply of potatoes was offered, and were of fine quality throughout, some being very fresh. A large attendance patronised this section, but no high rates could be obtained. The best potatoes sold at 9/ per cwt.

Trucks in position comprised 51 of hay, straw, and chaff, and 9 of potatoes and onions; while outstandings were manifested at 99 of forage, 3 of grain, and 60 vegetables.

Grapes.—Local: Black and white muscats, 3/6 to 10/; black Hamburg, 2/6 to 4/6; white Sherry, 3/6 to 6/ a half-case.

VEGETABLE MARKET.

BUSINESS DULL.

Large supplies of bunch vegetables were floored at the vegetable markets yesterday. Trade in this section was restricted, and very little demand existed. Many bunch vegetables are going out of season for a short period until the new season's good come in, and their quality is not as good as of late.

Beans and peas were heavily stocked. Peas moved out rather briskly to a good demand, and were quoted to 6/, but beans were hard to sell, and weaker rates prevailed. Tomatoes, cucumbers, and watermelons were unchanged at late rates.

A few new season's cauliflowers have been on the market lately, but no steady supplies were available, and quotes were not fixed, and the prices were 7/ to 11/ per dozen. Larger supplies of cabbage were available, and trade in these was not so brisk.

Potatoes and onions were also very slow, and Swedes practically dead, even at reduced rates.

Quotations were:—

Cabbages, local, very choice to 4/, prime 2/6 to 3/, medium 1/6 to 2/, small 1/. Lettuce /9 to 1/4 per dozen.

Carrots, /9 to 1/3; celery, choice 3/6, good 1/6 to 2/6; beetroot, /9 to 1/3; eschalots, 1/ to 2/; herbs, 1/ to 1/6; mint, 1/ to 1/6; parsley, 1/ to 2/; parsnips, 1/6 to 2/3; radishes, /9 to 1/; rhubarb 1/6 to 2/6; spinach to 1/; white turnips, 1/ to 2/; leeks, 1/ to 2/ per dozen bunches.

French beans, local, choice 2/, good 1/6, medium /6 to 1/; peas, local, choice 6/, good 4/ to 5/, medium 2/6 to 3/6, Tasmanian, 3/6 to 4/6 per bushel.

Chillies to 6/ per bushel, to 2/ per half-bushel case; garlic, 1/ per lb.

Tomatoes, choice 3/ to 4/, coloured 1/ to 2/6, green, 1/ to 3/; egg tomatoes, 1/6 to 2/6; pickling tomatoes, 1/ to 2/ per half-bushel case.

Pumpkins, very large, 24/ to 30/ per dozen, local 4/ to 12/ per dozen, /1 to /1½ per lb, 4/ to 9/ per cwt; Queensland 10/ to 12/ per bag. Vegetable marrows, 1/ to 2/6; watermelons, large 8/, good 6/ to 4/, medium 4/ to 5/, small from 2/; jam melons, 6/ to 12/ per dozen; cucumbers, /6 to /9 per dozen, local, 1/ per half-bushel case, 2/6 per gin case, and 3/ per bag; prickly South African, 1/ to 1/6 per half-bushel case; rockmelons, 2/6 to 4/ per case; grammas, 6/ to 12/ per dozen; squashes 1/ to 2/ per dozen.

Potatoes, Tasmanian Bismarcks, 10/6 to 11/; Tasmanian Redskins, 11/6; Victorian Pinkeyes, 10/6 to 11/; Browells, 11/; Melbourne Carmens, 11/; sweet potatoes, 10/ to 12/; Manhattans, 11/.

Onions, local Silverskins, good 4/ to 4/6 per cwt, inferior from 2/; brown Spanish, 6/ to 6/6 per cwt; Swede turnips, local 6/ to 7/, Tasmanian 5/6 to 6/6 per cwt.

The Sydney Wool-selling Brokers' Association report:—The market closed very firm. Super wools and good lines of new clip enjoyed a keen inquiry at prices fully equal to the best point of the season. All good wools were in strong request at late rates, and prices for faulty wools were more regular than a week ago, without, however, any appreciable raising of the level of values. Scoured also sold well. Greasy sold to /19¾, and scoured to /29.

Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited offered a catalogue including mostly station oddments, and a small selection of scoured. Among the sales were:—JR/Wollongough (West Wyalong), 14 C h e at /13½, good quality and length, nice condition, free; Meryula (Nyngan), 8 e at /12½, good length and quality, generous condition; Wilgar Downs (Hermidale), 23 A com e at /16, 7 com e at /9½, 13 pcs at /10½, fine, rather short, dusty; Sarsfield/N (Wallabadah), 13 A at /12, good quality, short, burry; Arthursleigh/HCK (Marulan), 12 xbd lambs at /15¾, 11 xbd lambs at /12½, good staple, light, free; JP/P (Moree), 13 1st w e at /11¼, 10 1st xbd at /12½, good length, sound, very burry; JDS (Willow Tree), 7 e at /10¾, good quality, fair to good length, burry skirts; D. Coteles (Rowena), 13 AA w e at /11½, 7 A w e at /11¼, good sound staple, little dusty and burry; W and H/Garthowen (Attunga), 9 1st com xbd e at /12¼, medium staple, rather burry; EW/Mayfield (Warren), 13 AA at /12, good length and quality, little heavy and burry; Ottley/Inverell, 21 2nd com at /13, fine, fair length, touched with burr and scoured; Goobung (Bourke), 19 sup com at /24¾, fine, fairly bulky, dry; C. and G/Dunoble (Brewarrina), 6 1st pcs at /22¼, bright, little seedy.

The Pastoral Finance Association, Ltd., brought forward a catalogue including some good wools, with some autumn-shorn lines and a fair number of wools carrying burr. In the grease the highest price was /19¾, paid for 14 1st com w e of OI/Springmount/New England (Black Mountain), 15 2nd com making /19¼, this being a wool of good quality and condition, bright, sound, and free. Other sales were:—GW/Bannaby, 6 f at /12¾, good quality, fair length, skirty; RR/Mudgee (Upper Pyramul), 8 w h e at /15¼, bright, fair length, skirty; WF/Timor (Blandford), 12 h w at /16, good quality and condition, fair length, free; EW/DV (Wandsworth), 26 com w at /17¼, 20 com e at /17½, 6 com h at /17½, 13 clo at /15¾, 19 pcs at /14, good quality and length, free, fair condition, sound; D and D/C/Rosevale (Millie), 19 A e at /13¾, 10 B e at /11, 9 pcs at /9¼, good quality and condition, fair length, burry; WHK/Almerta (Warialda), 14 w e at /16¼, good quality, fair length, free; JD/Samol (Burren), 15 e at /11, good quality, little short, burry; HM/Oregon (Warialda), new clip, 14 A com at /18¼, 23 com w e at /16¼, 7 com w at /16¼, good quality and staple, bright, sound, attractive condition; HG/Grogin (Warialda), 8 1st lbs at /10¼, 10 1st lbs at /8¼, fine, bright, burry; W (Kars Springs), 21 1st at /18, 6 2nd w at /14, good quality, bright, free, soft; SL/Mudville/Yass, 16 h at /14¾, 29 w e at /14¼, good quality, fair length, little dull, free; DC/East Glen (Warialda), 10 h at /14¼, 10 e at /12¾, bright, good length and condition, some burr; ATM/Gillenbine (Trundle), 20 1st e at /11¼, 38 w at /12¼, 15 e at /12, good quality and length, reddish tip, fair condition; JBL/Scone (Kars Springs), 23 A at /17¼, 12 AA at /17¼, good quality and length, free, fair condition; ALK/M (Pallamallawa), 13 AA w e at /17, fine, good condition, fair length; Dreamland (Cryon), 10 w e at /12, good quality, fair length, little dusty tip; AET/Ellaleigh/Gurley, 7 AAA h at /17, bright, good length and quality, soft, sound. Scoured: DR/Y/NSW (Warialda), 6 B com at /24¼, good colour and condition, bulky, some burrs.

Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Ltd., submitted a mixed catalogue with very few super lots and a big proportion of the season's oddments. Greasy sold to /15¼, paid for 10 1st com of JL/Caswell (Brewarrina), a wool of fair length, good colour and quality, dusty. Other sales were:—P/Fenton (Mungindi), 19 AA e at /14½, fair length, good colour and quality, seedy skirts; ROD/MNL (Manilla), 9 w at /16, 8 e at /9¼, good length and colour, nice quality, not free; PH/Bullio (Mittagong), 7 w e at /14¼, 8 xbd at /13, fair length and colour, nice quality, medium condition; SB/Burren (new clip), 12 AA e at /13¾, 8 A at /9¼, 12 broken at /10¼, 6 xbd lambs at /10¼, good length and colour, nice quality, sound, burry; CA conj (Megalong), 6 xbd at /13¾, good length, fair colour, useful quality; PH (Tamworth), 8 xbd at /13¼, good length and colour, useful quality, burry; Roma (Wee Waa), 9 1st xbd lambs at /10¼, 10 2nd lambs at /7¾, good length and colour, useful quality, very burry; Burraga/EM, 6 mer and xbd at /12, fair length and colour, free; MR/Byra (Brewarrina), 42 1st com at /12¼, fair staple, good colour and quality, dusty. Scoured:—AH/U/Queensland, 9 sup com at /29.

MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The regular wool selling season in Victoria was brought to a close to-day in Geelong, when 1200 bales were offered. For the most part the selection was very poor. Good, well-grown wools were again in keen request, and sold at fully late rates; but faulty sorts were neglected, and the bulk of the withdrawals were in this section.

HOMEBUSH STOCK MARKET.

SHEEP.

A light supply of sheep for a Thursday's market was in view yesterday. Upwards of 25,258 sheep and lambs were listed from 103 consignors. The pennings included drafts of 500 to 1100 head, the bulk being in lots of 100 to 300. The weather was good, and the attendance of buyers was quite up to the usual standard. The pennings comprised all descriptions. Merinos preponderated. There were a number of pens of late shorn, but the bulk carried skins of fair to good length of staple, and largely free from burr. In fact, there was a good useful penning in both sections. The competition was more brisk, the market more buoyant, and there was a part recovery of last Monday's rates.

The market remained much the same until the close of the day's proceedings, the sales finishing firm. The number of sheep sold during the day was 22,960.

Included in the principal sales was a line of 32 xbd w from D. Clark, of Lue, at 34/3, 24 xbd w from Croaker and Son, Edgeroi, at 34/6, 34 xbd w from S. E. White, Bethungra, at 32/3, 16 xbd w from W. T. Langworth, sen., of Manilla, at 30/8, 44 xbd w from T. Quinn, George's Plains, at 33/9, 32 xbd w from H. B. Blyth, Cooma, at 34/3, and 46 at 30/; 56 xbd w from W. J. Carroll, Manildra, at 31/3; from Western Agents, xbd w to 41/6, avg 40/4; from W. G. Uphill, Forbes, m w to 28/, pen of xbd h from E. Armstrong, realised to 35/10; from A. H. Grant, Canowindra, xbd w to 33/; from Varcoe Bros., of Hillstone, xbd w to 31/; from A. J. Pankhurst, Currabubula, w to 29/; from C. A. Turner, Forbes, a parcel of 31 xbd h realised 34/2; Mrs. C. G. Edmonds, of Molong, forwarded 49 w, which brought to 38/3; and G. Tait, of Millthorpe, consigned xbd h, which realised to 33/3.

Quotations: Prime short-wool merino w and h 27/6 to 30/, good short-wool merino w and h 20/6 to 24/, medium short-wool merino w and h 16/ to 17/6, inferior lower; prime short-wool merino e to 25/, extra prime short-wool merino e to 29/9, good short-wool merino e 18/6 to 21/, medium short-wool merino e 16/6 to 18/, inferior 14/ to 15/; prime xb w and h to 23/, extra prime short-wool xb w and h to 36/3, extra medium length wool to 41/6, good short-wool xb w and h to 26/, medium short-wool xb w and h to 20/, extra prime short-wool xb e to 33/, good short-wool xb e to 24/, medium short-wool xb e to 20/.

LAMBS.

There was a moderate supply of lambs, but all descriptions were on view. The bulk comprised woolly lambs and suckers, with odd pens of shorn and short-wool lambs. Merinos were plentiful, but crossbreds considerably preponderated. The pennings ranged from a sprinkling of medium and light sorts to occasional pens of extra prime, the bulk being of useful trade quality. Prices remained much about the same as last day's rates, excepting for heavy lambs, which, in most instances, were slightly cheaper.

A line of six crossbred lambs, from E. Armstrong, sold for 35/10, down to 25/6. Another line, from T. Quin, George's Plains, realised from 23/9 to 25/9. Lambs from Mrs. C. G. Edmonds, Molong, brought 30/ to 23/11; those from W. V. Robertson, Raglan, 27/10.

Quotations.—Prime woolly lambs and suckers 21/ to 23/, extra to 26/; good woolly lambs and suckers 16/ to 18/6, medium lambs and suckers 13/6 to 14/6, young and light 11/ to 12/.

CATTLE.

A larger supply was forwarded than usual, there being 1767 listed from 83 consignors, as against 1515 head from 76 consignors on the previous Thursday. The consignments, while coming mainly from the north and Hunter River districts, included a good representation from the west and south. All descriptions were forwarded, including odd yards of calves and yearlings and several yards of extra prime heavy bullocks. The yarding generally comprised a good proportion of prime handy-weight bullocks and steers, as well as prime medium-weight bullocks, with a fair number of plain sorts. The cows and heifers, while including a very fair sprinkling of extra prime, were generally composed of medium to useful trade descriptions. The quality of the yarding was a fair average one. There was a good attendance of buyers, all sections being well represented. The market opened to an irregular competition, and was generally weaker for all but choice young beef, and with a weaker tendency more pronounced on prime heavy cattle. There was little change in the afternoon, and the market closed with rates about the same as those prevailing at the earlier sale.

Included in the sales was a draft of 9 bullocks from W. Robinson, Singleton, at £21/3/; from D. C. McWilliam, Bangaroo, bullocks brought to £21/18/; from J. K. Fleming, Aberdeen, 11 bullocks to £23/9/, averaging £22/8/; from J. N. Laurie, Gloucester, 30 steers to £17/10/, averaging £16/4/4; from J. Rawsthorne, Condobolin, 13 bullocks to £27, avg. £23/15/; from J. and T. Varcoe, Hillstone, bullocks to £27/10/; from A. C. Thuell, Baan Baa, 2 cows to £12/19/; from J. K. Fleming, Aberdeen, 18 bullocks to £23/9/, averaging £20/8/7, and 1 cow £18/12/6; from Cultowa Station, 47 steers to £23/13/; from H. Te Kloot, Warren, 5 bullocks to £20/11/; from T. The unassociated brokers also held sales.

WHEAT SHIPMENT.

SUGGESTION FROM NEWCASTLE.

NEWCASTLE, Thursday.

The Newcastle Chamber of Commerce has written to Mr. W. C. Grahame (Minister for Agriculture) pointing out that the two electric cranes on the western side of the basin are now ready, but owing to the embargo which has been placed on the export of coal to foreign ports it is unlikely that they will be required for some time. The opinion is expressed that the cranes could be put to good use in the shipment of wheat, and at the same time be earning money.

MINING.

GOLD AND TIN STRONG.

BARRIERS SLACK. COPPER DULL.

The opening hours of the Sydney Stock Exchange yesterday morning disclosed a remarkable variety in the spirit pervading the different sections. Thus, copper stocks were practically neglected; Barriers were relegated to a back seat, whilst tin and gold were, to use a broker's phrase, "as strong as mustard."

The call for Edna May Deep, based on solid movements in Adelaide and Melbourne, led to the opening sales starting at 42/6 (2/ over the closing rate of the previous evening). After reaching 42/9, they suddenly dropped to 41/6, owing to a slack movement this time, in Adelaide. Edna May Consols, paid, started with sales at 18/ on the strength of Edna May Deep, but afterwards came back to 17/6. Black Range West (cont.) suddenly reappeared on the sales board at 1/2. The previous day a big parcel was taken at 9d. The cause of the movement was not explained.

The firm sales booked in Kampongs on top of a rising market for several days past is said to be in anticipation of an exceptionally good return for the past months. Two dredges are reported to have had a full run on good ground, and if the output is good, so will be the price realised, as the metal market values are satisfactory. Trongs were also in favour, whilst there was nothing to cavil at regarding the feeling generally expressed for tin propositions in the East.

The position of silver and copper stocks was not at all encouraging. Barrier and copper companies have been and are still making such large profits, owing to the increased price of metals, that the opinion prevails in some quarters that the easier tone of the market may be due partly to the apprehension of a Federal tax on those profits. Moreover, there is a possibility that the economic conference sitting in Paris may fix the price of metals, so as to stop an undue inflation of prices.

It is recalled that during the Crimean War the price of lead went to £56 per ton. The consumption of lead to-day for war purposes is on such an enormously larger scale, as compared with the Crimean War days, that it would be a serious matter for the Allies if values were permitted to rise unrestrictedly.

"But," remarked a leading operator, "supposing the Americans chose to buy up the metals, and hold them for a few months, the Allies would be compelled to purchase them at the prices demanded by the Americans? That would pan out against the Allies." Whatever is the true cause of the present slackness in speculation in Australian copper and silver mining shares, the fact remains that the price of their products were never better, whilst, notwithstanding, the drain on their ores has, in some cases, been going on for many years.

The afternoon proceedings were about equal in activity to those of the morning. The sole representative of the Barrier—B.H. Propy.—finished up steady. In gold stocks, Edna May Deep finished up on the up-grade; Golden Point, paid, and Black Range West made a further upward movement, whilst Edna May Consols, paid, sold at a steady figure. In tin stocks, which were quoted firmly, Larut was noticeable for a further rise.

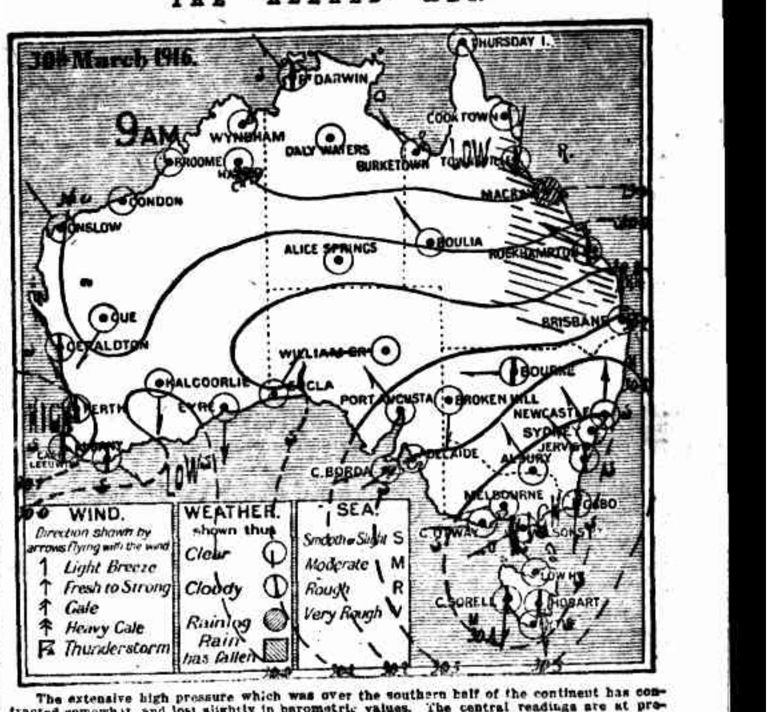
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The extensive high pressure which was over the southern half of the continent has contracted somewhat, and lost slightly in barometric values. The central readings are at present situated between Sydney and Tasmania.

There are still evidences of monsoonal activity over Queensland, where considerable cloud areas have formed, as well as in the north-western parts of New South Wales.

There are also slight indications of another Antarctic disturbance to the south of Albany, and a new high pressure to the west of Perth. The one over New Zealand has lost a little in energy, but is still centred about the Bluff.

The prospects at present are for fine and warmer weather generally, with the exception of the northern border districts, where thunder-showers are likely.

Ocean Forecast.—South-east gales on the Queensland coast.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The A.J.C. Committee, at its monthly meeting yesterday, voted £250 per month for the months of April, May, June, and July, for the War Chest Fund, and also gave a donation of £250 to the Y.M.C.A. Field Service Fund.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that F. Musgrave yesterday sent Amata, Corstep, Pilbarra, and Grand Alliance to Sydney, to fulfil their engagements at the A.J.C. Autumn meeting, and Eurobin went by the same train.

The next fixture of the Kembla Grange Racing Club is for the 11th prox, and for the half-dozen events on the card, which carry in the aggregate 290 sovs, entries will be received by the secretary, Mr. A. H. Hart, up to 4 p.m. on Monday next.

The board of management of the Associated Racing Clubs met yesterday, when affiliation was granted to the Cudal, Portland, and Temora pony clubs. The board of appeal considered the appeal of H. Leslie against the decision of the Richmond stipendiary stewards in disqualifying himself, trainer (W. Burton), and the b g Macthos, for 12 months, and in suspending the jockey (W. Cameron) for a similar period. The appeal was dismissed.

The racing career of that useful Playbill mare, Understudy (wires our Adelaide correspondent), came to a close in a peculiar way yesterday morning. While galloping with Winaple, her track companion, she struck herself on the hind leg, and smashed a bone. Every effort will be made to save Understudy for stud purposes.

In connection with the Jumpers' Flat Race, to be run at Kembla Grange on the 11th prox, jockeys, other than those who have ridden over hurdles or steeplechase fences, may ride without penalty, and apprentices will be entitled to the scale allowance.

RANDWICK TRAINING NOTES.

CETIGNE AGAIN GALLOPS WELL.

The outer half of the Randwick racecourse was at the disposal of trainers yesterday morning for the first time since Christmas. The going was somewhat dead owing to its previous moist conditions, supplemented by a very heavy dew. C. Wheeler was one of the early birds, with Patrobas and Green Cap, who were working separately over the full round of the course (1m 3f): Patrobas accomplished the distance in 2m 31¼s, but Green Cap beat that by 1¼s, a very excellent time gallop, in view of the hurdles being so far out. Carlita went at half pace, and nine furlongs in 2m 4s was left astern by Chid and Half-a-Glass. Dear Laddie was too good for Ballaway at the end of a mile, run in 1m 49s, and Two Blues traversed a mile in 1m 48½s. Over this course Cetigne was again the star performer, for, with the assistance of a pace-maker, he cut out the distance in 1m 45½s.

Frasca accounted for nine furlongs in 2m 2¼s; and the Western Australian gelding, Fantarie, carried a lightweight over a mile in 1m 47s. It was Kenzil's turn this time to beat Gai and Lineage over a mile in 1m 46s; and Kolapore travelled seven furlongs with Lovely Night in 1m 35s. Limelight and King Mostyn each worked usefully: First Principle sported, while The Christian Brother, Westcourt, and Little all went steadily. Rocus ran six furlongs in 1m 20s, a distance over which Gilliliambi and The Mogul were sent, but they eased up down the running. San Thome put in a working gallop, and Quairneta had the call over Cross-lia at the close of a similar distance, run in 1m 19½s, a performance which Starland just equalled.

Early in the proceedings Ulva's Isle and Kandos set a morning's record, for seven furlongs—to wit, 1m 31½s; and later Royal Rufus and Common Law ran the distance in 1m 32s; while Spadella and Clydeside (separately) covered that course in 1m 32½s, which is a second better than either Reputation or Canzone made. The six furlongs course was patronised by Woorak, who traversed it without an effort, in 1m 19¾s, while his mate, Sydian, spurted, and 1m 22s was the best Orra and Mountain Black could do over that track. Bandolier ran five furlongs in 1m 6s, a distance which Alasco and Closerie cast behind in 1m 7s, and Mythic did it slightly better than 1m 6s. Hopoast and Nombi got over five furlongs in 1m 5¾s, and Three Star ran it in a shade under 1m 6s. The Fortune Hunter, who looks well, was treated to a mile and a quarter gallop, in 2m 16s.

Treadwell did a useful gallop, carrying W. H. M'Lachlan, who has just returned from a visit to New Zealand. Bunbury and Briarberry ran a mile and a quarter in 2m 24¼s, and old Don Q. jumped the big fences perfectly. Brilliants showed a rare dash of speed in a four furlongs' sprint, which occupied her 50¼s. P. T. Heywood's team of Victorians did steady work on the tan, Marcellus and Wishing Cap going together, while Gold Brew, who was anxious, went alone, followed by Traquette. On this rink, Taunter did a steady round, Lady Minnie galloped a short course, Sequarious went steadily, and Giru got over six furlongs in 1m 22s; while The Spire beat Gazorus over a mile and a quarter in 2m 17s.

The first two-year-old out on the grass was Indicator, who, accompanied by Ladur Queen, ran five furlongs in 1m 7s; later, Heatherbrae badly beat Alcornet over five furlongs in 1m 5s. Colbert and Certes spent 1m 24s over six furlongs. Irish Comedy was bracketed with Royal Laddie for half a mile in 51¼s, but neither Tintometer, Silk Tress, O'Leary, nor Glenbrae was asked to go against the watch. Burradoo went with Irish Colleen for five furlongs in 1m 5s, and useful sprints went down to El Badir, King Alfred, Pro Tem, and Earldom. March On did a gallop, but pulled off in the running, and Ettefred did some half pacing. Welcome Queen, a smart two-year-old last season in Western Australia, and who is now trained by F. McGrath, was out for useful work, as was another ex-Westerner, Artesian; and, after breakfast, Golden Shoe went a strong working gallop over five furlongs.

AUSTRALIAN JOCKEY CLUB.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the A.J.C. committee was held yesterday afternoon, when the following business was transacted:—

The appeal of W. H. Logan against the decision of the Western District Racing Association in upholding the appeal of W. E. Taylor against the decision of the stipendiary stewards at the Narromine H.A.C.B. Society's meeting on January 1, in the Ornot-British Colours case, was upheld; the decision of the stipendiary steward was restored, and the disqualifications were adopted.

The appeal of James M'Lachlan against his disqualification by the stipendiary steward acting for the Yamba Race Club on February 17 was dismissed.

Menangle Racing Club was granted permission to alter its racing fixture of April 27 to May 4.

Registration was granted to the Hawkesbury Agricultural Society to hold a race meeting on the Clarendon Racecourse in May.

The appointment of Mr. A. J. Hobson to act as steward at the Gongolgon Amateur Turf Club's meeting was approved.

Permission was granted to amend the entry of Indicator for the "young" races on payment of £1.

The programme for the A.J.C. Winter Meeting was adopted, the prize-money to be similar to that of last year.

Disqualifications incurred for having taken part at unregistered race meetings were removed from L. A. Wise and br g Anzac, W. J. Brown and mare Saddlebrook, H. H. Garrick and horse Sko, H. Windle and mare Selina and ch g Canebrake.

FOOTBALL.

RUGBY UNION.

The forty-second annual report of the New South Wales Rugby Union shows that last season that body devoted itself almost entirely to recruiting. No representative matches were played; interstate tours were cancelled, and negotiations for a team to visit California for the Panama Exposition were broken off. A special feature of the work was the initiation of a drill club, which proved a success. The game in the schools and High Schools was well maintained; but very few matches were played in the country. The annual meeting will be held on Monday night.

RUGBY LEAGUE.

The Rugby League has appointed its various committees and sub-committees, grounds have been secured, but details have not been arranged regarding the coming season. A management committee and a general meeting will be held on Monday night.

GLEBE DISTRICT CLUB.

The annual report of the above club showed that one-third of its first-grade players had enlisted, and also that a big percentage of the second and third grade players had gone to the front.

METROPOLITAN ASSOCIATION.

At the annual meeting of the Metropolitan Association, when the president (Mr. Frank West) occupied the chair, the report showed that last season was a profitable one for the association. Reference was made to the large number of players who had enlisted, 60 per cent. having gone to the front. The whole of the active members of the Victoria Park and United Slaters' Clubs had gone on active service, and these clubs will, therefore, not be represented this season.

The Metropolitan Junior Association's annual report recorded a large enlistment from its ranks.

BOWLS.

SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP.

RESULT OF YESTERDAY'S PLAY.

The demi-semi-final round of the singles championship of New South Wales was played on the City Green yesterday afternoon with the following results:—

Colquhoun (Mosman) won by forfeit from Myers (Hamilton).

Moses (Ashfield) won by forfeit from western district champion.

Pettigrew (Ashfield) beat Williams (Wonona) by 31 points to 8.

Spendilove (Ashfield) beat Cronin (Goulburn) by 31 points to 27.

DRAW FOR TO-DAY.

To be played on City Green this afternoon at 2.30:—

Moses (Ashfield) v Pettigrew (Ashfield).
Colquhoun (Mosman) v Spendilove (Ashfield).

The final will be played on Saturday at 2.30 on the City Green.

As the whole of the entry fees of these matches are to be devoted to patriotic funds, it is quite possible that the onlookers to-day and to-morrow will have the opportunity of throwing a coin into the collecting hat if such be passed round.

Consolation Handicap.—C. Haney, 1.

DRY WEATHER.

Except for a little coastal cloud, fine, bright weather prevails in every State except Queensland, where monsoonal activity has resulted in light to moderate rain over a vast area situated between lines joining Cairns, Windorah, and Cape Moreton. 310 points fell at Bustard Head, and 305 points at Yeppoon.

In the other States remarkably dry weather is being experienced. New South Wales received only light falls at scattered places on the Central and North Coast, and also at Moruya and Braidwood; only a few light showers occurring in Tasmania; and Victoria and South Australia received no rain whatever during the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday.

The most hopeful feature of the current weather is the renewed monsoonal activity in Queensland, and there is some probability of this disturbing influence extending southward, and causing useful rains in New South Wales. The immediate outlook favours the occurrence of rain with thunder in the northern border districts within the next 24 hours.

In Sydney yesterday was fine, but cloudy and cool. The 1 p.m. temperature reading was 66.2 degrees, and the humidity only 44 per cent.

DOMESTIC TRAINING HOME.

The Government has purchased for £5750 Mr. C. J. Lowenthal's residence, known as Scarba, at Bondi, as a training home for young domestic servants and for the temporary use of female immigrants. The house, which is built of stone and brick, contains 16 rooms, stands in 2¼ acres of ground, and has three frontages—350ft to Wellington-street, 250ft to Dickson Park, and 50ft to Ocean-street. The situation of Scarba is ideal, as far as elevation and view are concerned. It presents an uninterrupted outlook of the harbour, including Rose Bay, Mosman, and Manly.

The grounds are tastefully laid out with statuary, tennis court, croquet lawn, and bowling green.

Mr. Lowenthal's son, Athol, is now fighting with the Army Service Corps, and his daughter Olga, is a nurse at Rose Hall, Darlinghurst.

FRIENDLY SOCIETY VALUATIONS.

The Government Statistician has issued his quinquennial valuation report of the Independent Order of Rechabites' Friendly Society. The sick fund shows a surplus of £11,602, the funeral fund a surplus of £15,012. Total surplus £26,614. The mortality rate is 27 per cent. below standard. The interest on all funds is at the rate of 5.2 per cent.

AMUSEMENTS.

"SO LONG LETTY" 100TH NIGHT.

The 100th performance of "So Long Letty" was celebrated at Her Majesty's Theatre last night by a big military attendance, and by the introduction of a new song of farewell to the departing reinforcements, entitled "Good-bye and Good Luck." Mr. Andrew MacCunn composed the spirited music of the new song, the words of which were written by Mr. Claude M'Kay. Miss Dorothy Brunton, the first Australian actress to record the century in a leading musical comedy role, was the singer, and helped it on to such success that it was encored over and over again. Indeed, the audience seemed tireless in their demands for the new song from their favourite, and enthusiasm ran high.

PATRIOTIC FUNDS.

RED CROSS.

The following statement was made by the committee of the Red Cross Society yesterday:—"We have 383 registered branches, and of these 212 have sent in their membership lists, which total 11,114 members. The other branches should make an effort to send in their membership lists as soon as possible.

Three hundred and twenty-five bales of Red Cross goods, valued at £7766, have been sent to the High Commissioner for Australia for presentation to the French Red Cross Society.

LORD MAYOR'S FUND.

Another 72 applications for assistance from the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund were dealt with at the meeting of the executive committee yesterday afternoon. Approval was given to the payment of debts and grants totalling £385, and of allowances from the emergency fund in 46 cases, amounting to £85. It was decided that 22 of the applicants—chiefly persons who had been assisted previously—had no claim, and 17 others were granted weekly allowances up to 10/6 to enable them to provide for families larger than the average. Provision was made for seven widows whose husbands had fallen, the assistance to cover the period between stoppage of military pay and receipt of pension, as well as augmenting the amount of the latter when received.

BELGIAN FUND.

Amount previously acknowledged, £376,935/1/2; Darling Empire League, monthly, £20; Moama N.B.R.F., further contribution, £20; M. Cromar and Co., twelfth monthly, £4; students of Stott and Underwood's Business College, £3/15/6; Barraba N.B.R.F., further contribution, £10; Mosman N.B.R.F., February contribution, £300; some members of the Women's Club, March contribution, £4/18/; Account Department of Public Instruction, contributions from various schools, £15/5/1; staff of the Commonwealth Bank of Australia, contributions from staff throughout Australia for December, January, and February, £95; Ryde Municipality, March contribution, £20; employees of Mount Kembla Colliery, and residents of Mount Kembla, 28th fortnightly contribution, £15/12/; employees of Charles Anderson and Company, Limited, Surry Hills, 47th weekly contribution, £8/15/10; Alfred V. Milford, monthly, £2/2/; per Employers' Federation of New South Wales, Grimley, Limited, February and March contributions, £40; P. Teague, February and March contributions, £5; employees of P. Teague, February and March contributions, £3; Mackay Brothers, February and March contributions, £46; William Brooks and Co., Limited, contribution for February, £5; W. S. Friend and Company, contribution for March, £10/10/; Williamson, Croft and Company, contribution for January, and February, £5; Sargents, Limited, contribution for February, £15/15/; and small sums. Total, £377,536/14/7.

SERVIAN AND MONTENEGRIN FUND.

The Premier has received a cable message from Mr. Wise, in which he states that he has handed £6300 to the Servian Relief Fund, and £1500 to the Montenegrin Red Cross and Relief Fund. Mr. Wise adds that the chairman of the latter fund, on behalf of the King of Montenegro, expresses grateful thanks to the Allies Day Fund Committee, and to the citizens of New South Wales. Clothing and other relief is being sent to refugees at Corfu and elsewhere.

ALLIES' DAY.

Previously acknowledged, £116,243/6/5; Tam, further proceeds Allies' Day, £400; Rockley, proceeds of sports held at Rockley (Abercrombie shire), £147/11/6; South Grafton (proceeds of race meeting held on Boxing Day), £39/15/7; accountants, Department of Public Instruction, contributions from various schools, £34/10/7; Misses Sampson, Mangindi, £4/2/; A. Hewitt, further proceeds saddle raffle, £8/19/; staff Mental Hospital, Newcastle, £6/2/1; Gulgong, proceeds of entertainment held by Gulgong Literary and Debating Society, £16/10/2; Bangalow, £37/2/1; Bendemeer, proceeds of Jockey Club's Patriotic Day's Meeting, held June 4, 1915, £8/17/4; total, £116,946/17/2.

COMFORTS FUNDS.

The 7th Field Company Engineers Comforts Fund committee will hold a general meeting at the depot, I.O.O.F. Temple, Elizabeth-street, on Tuesday, April 4, at 3 o'clock. The business of the meeting is to discuss a letter just received from Mr. Budden regarding personal parcels.

The monthly general meeting of the No. 2 Army Service Corps Comforts Fund will be held at Bull's-chambers, Moore-street, on Monday next, at 2.30 p.m.

The depot in connection with the No. 1 pack wireless signal troop, New South Wales division, is at the Union Bank-chambers, Hunter-street. Messrs. Minter and Simpson have lent their boardroom as a depot. Comforts are being sent on Saturday. Tobacco, cigarettes, chocolate, etc., are needed.

From Monday, April 3, the Australian Mining Corps Comforts Depot will be open from 10 till 5 o'clock on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays only. This corps has been doubled in strength, and has become so large that a depot has been opened in every State, and each State now has to supply its own men only with comforts; but New South Wales, the mother State, is anxious to help Western Australia, which gives twice the number of men as any other State; therefore the Sydney depot needs much help and interest to enable its committee to do this, and warmly invites workers, help, and donations, especially tobacco, cigarettes, and tinned convalescent foodstuffs. The next general committee meeting will be held at the rooms, Robson's, Canberra House, on Wednesday, April 5, at 4 o'clock. Entries are invited for the sock competition, which will close on April 10.

NEW CITY HOTEL.

The Hotel Carlton, which has just been completed at a cost of £107,000 in Castlereagh-street, was formally opened last evening, when the management entertained 200 guests at dinner.

THE TOTALISATOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—For a long time past an overwhelming majority of the general public who take an interest in the national sport of horseracing have strongly favoured the introduction of the totalisator.

It has been felt that the present system of betting has not given the public a fair deal, but has encouraged the credit system, with all its ruinous evils, and has so corrupted horseracing that many have turned with disgust from the sport. Endless swindles have been worked by bets and bribing jockeys to pull their horses and by other equally villainous methods. Although colossal sums of money have been spent annually on the racecourse by those who have plenty to throw about, comparatively little revenue has been received from this source.

The man who has bought land, machinery, and plant in order to become a producer is taxed and rated at every turn, while the idle wealthy who spend their thousands on the racecourse escape with trifling exactions. Now that war and extravagant State expenditure call for vast sums of revenue, one would think this source would have been the first the Government would fly to. No: members of the Government and a few misguided citizens have viewed with holy horror the very mention of a system of betting which would be free from corrupt practice, give a fair deal, and enormous revenue. It would, they say, encourage the immoral lust for gain by chance without industrial effort. With these professions on their lips, the same gentlemen, with incredible inconsistency allow without a word of protest a system to remain in force which is a flagrant breach of the principle they profess to hold so dear; a system which enables a host of idle men by chance gains to live in luxury, and a system which has been the father of all the evils that have dogged the sport of horseracing.

Time after time the Government has been urged to introduce the totalisator, suppress the bookmaker, and tap a source of revenue that will yield a million pounds a year or thereabouts, but as often idle caucus meetings have been held and nothing done.

In reply to requests in the Assembly, members have been told they could introduce a bill, and this in face of the fact that the Premier well knew that the rules of the House make it absolutely impossible for a private member to introduce a bill providing for the Government operating the totalisator and collecting revenue therefrom. Months and years have gone by, and the matter treated as of little importance and no urgency. At last a growing discontent on the part of the public and the talk of an approaching election has galvanised the caucus into action, and the subterfuge is adopted of entrusting the work to a private member, who in this matter is to relieve the Government of the responsibility of testing the feeling of the House on the question.

Last night, or in the early hours of this morning, the member for Paddington moved a resolution, as follows:—"That it is a matter of urgent necessity that the House should consider forthwith," etc.

After paltering with the question for months and years it is suddenly discovered that the matter is so urgent that the House must be asked after midnight, when exhausted by a long sitting, to deal with the matter.

The effort was so manifestly a sham that the House voted it down. Had honourable members known the contents of the bill, as published this morning, their indignation would have been tenfold greater. In that precious measure not a word is said authorising the Government to collect any revenue from this source—from which about a million could be obtained. No, the caucus would sooner get this million pounds from the producer and manufacturer than from the wealthy bookmaker and his constituents.

Not a word either is said about the suppression of the pernicious system of bookmaking and the purification of the sport of horseracing.

The bill is a skeleton. What should be its contents are left to be provided for by regulation behind the back of Parliament. A more puerile and transparently hollow attempt to deal with an important question has seldom, if ever, been made.

The Government and its supporters will yet find that the people will not stand to be humbugged with sham legislation of this kind, which could only benefit a few racing clubs and companies, but that they will demand that the Government shall take the responsibility of running the machine, and thereby ensuring the public getting a fair deal and the State an enormous revenue.

I am, etc.,
T. WADDELL.

March 30.

IN THE DAYS WHEN THE WORLD WAS WIDE.

In ancient days, or the time of the Cave Men, there was distinction in clothes, no matter how primitive. And, as time went on, the particular dressers of the Stone Age were attracted by finer robing that set off the contour and personality of the wearer in clothes that made for originality, and the very poetry of dressing well. And then arrived the designing art that has been brought to such perfection as to never make the wearer of good clothes stand out as being one of the badly dressed.

ENGLISH AND CO.

ARE GOOD TAILORS
FOR THE MAN AND THE WOMAN.

We specialise in WOMEN'S COSTUMES, as well as MEN'S SUITS OF GOOD CLOTHES.

You want a nice, neat, original Costume, with a great lot of taste in design, for the coming winter. You want to look nicely and neatly attired in a costume that is altogether different from an ordinary production of the Tailor's Art. You can get it, Madam, at

100/ TO-DAY.

And you can be assured that your friends will want to know where you got that nice-looking tailor-made costume.

THE SWAGGER DRESSED MAN knows that we are tailors with a good reputation for making up honest suits of clothes that make for individual success.

Order a suit from us at

80/ TO-DAY.

You'll be quite satisfied with the result of the investment. If you cannot call and chat your SUIT or COSTUME over with us, write for Patterns and Self-measurement Forms at once. We have a big assortment of the latest materials in quiet Greys and other tony coloured worsteds, also fast dye serges in every variety of twill. A postcard will get you right in touch with us.

VERY LOW PRICED
CAMP RUGS AND CAMP BLANKETS AT NOCK AND KIRBY'S.

"Scarce as Sovereigns" is no exaggeration of speech when speaking of these grand
CAMP RUGS AND BLANKETS.

But, although they are so scarce, our prices for them are by no means in sympathy with the scarcity.

Our prices, indeed, are rather more suggestive of periods of Plenty—thanks to a smart bit of bidding by our Drapery buyer two months ago.

But remember, friends, that what is low priced now may 'ere long be prohibitively priced—so be well advised, do your Easter
Rug and Blanket buying right away at

NOCK AND KIRBY'S
NOTED LOW PRICES.

FLANNELETTE RUGS.—Real dandy camp companions, for campers who ask for warmth without a ton weight on top of them.
48 x 68 inches, 2/6 each.
54 x 74 inches, 4/6 each.

FANCY STRIPED BUSH RUGS.—A firm favourite with campers, and sleepers-out. Steady sales all the year round, are a reliable criterion of how really satisfactory they always are.
48 x 68 inches, 4/6 each.
54 x 74 inches, 5/6 each.
54 x 74 inches, 6/11 each.

FANCY BUSH RUGS.—A nicely balanced combination of wool and cotton, affording the maximum of comfort and warmth, with the minimum of weight.
54 x 74 inches, 8/11 each.
54 x 74 inches, 10/6 each.
54 x 74 inches, 12/6 each.

SINGLE BED CAMP BLANKETS.—The fawn and grey sort that give jolly good service. 12/6 pair.

RED CAMP BLANKETS for stretchers and single beds. People say there's virtue in the colour—that Red Blankets are warmer than white. It's not a point for us to decide—we're here to sell the red to anyone who wants them at 13/6 a pair.

ALL WOOL BUSH RUGS, fawn colour. 'Twill keep you warm as toast these chilly nights and mornings—especially if you're "sleeping out," camping, touring, or "on the wallaby." PRICE, 11/6 each.

AT all seasons
There are reasons
why you should eat
ARNOTT'S
"SAO"
BISCUITS.

They are fresh and crisp with a palatable flavour that is simply delicious.

Pure and tempting—so easy to prepare—their goodness is most pleasing.

For the dear folks at home—for visitors—no matter what the hour may be, a pleasant repast is always assured if you have a tin of "Saos."

Try them with Butter, Cheese, Jam, Anchovies, Potted Meats, Pastes, etc.—they are sure of your appreciation.

"ALL THOSE IN FAVOUR SA-O."

DENTISTRY WITHOUT PAIN.

The Moses Methods of Painless Dentistry are a standing protection from the anguish formerly inseparable from Dental Treatment. Teeth under civilised conditions—WILL decay. To either retain them—by means of fillings—or to lose them—by extraction, meant enduring great agony. But now my humane systems permit me to achieve the best results without a semblance of pain.

I have an apparatus—the only one in Sydney—for the painless drilling and filling of tender teeth. No matter how sensitive the tooth—my treatment entails no pain. I give written guarantees with my work. If a filling should fail, or a tooth should break off a plate during five years after treatment, I cheerfully repair the mishap. The work is good and lasting. It is most rare that a defect appears.

If you should feel any pain during an extraction I will hand you £5. Furthermore, I will hand you £10 if you can find a patient whom I have hurt. And there will be no painful pricking, no swollen gums, no broken teeth. I can extract even abscessed teeth painlessly. My method will not affect you if your heart be weak.

OPEN TILL 6 P.M. DAILY (Sats. included), UNTIL 9 P.M. FRIDAYS.

LANE'S EMULSION FOR CHILDREN AND ADULTS.

Children who are sick and ailing should be given Lane's Emulsion. It soon brightens them up and makes them well again.

It is just as good for grown-ups, too. When suffering from cough or cold, weakness, or a generally run-down system—try it yourself.

Improves the appetite, builds up weak lungs, puts flesh on the thin, and is the purest and most health-giving Emulsion ever devised. Never be without it in the house—a few doses taken in time may save much sickness and expense.

Get a bottle to-day. Sold by all chemists and stores at 2/6 and 4/6. The large bottle is the most economical, as it contains more than two of the smaller ones.

BRING OUT YOUR SOILED DRESSES AND BLOUSES.

Also your Skirts, Gloves, Laces, etc., that are lying in your wardrobe and drawers.
Why keep on wearing articles of wearing apparel that are of no service in their present state?

Send them along to be cleaned by the Rogers process, which, after sterilising every article, will turn it out as fresh and clean as a May morning.

We are specialists in this line, and can promise satisfaction in all work we do.
We can please you, as our prices are moderate.
Our free booklet on "Dyeing and Cleaning" will interest you. Write for it.

WINN'S SHOPPERS' GUIDE.

Here is news to interest the thrifty housewife.
We purchased some time ago a big quantity of

WHITE HONEYCOMB QUILTS.

In three sizes. They are rather a thin make, but good looking, and, being light, are easily washed, which is a big consideration with every woman.
Here is a chance for Boarding-house Keepers, etc., to replenish their stocks at a very low cost.

The Single Bed Size, worth 2/11 each, we are able to sell at 1/11; the three-quarter bed size, worth 3/11 for 2/11; and a small Double Bed Size, worth 4/11, is going for 3/11 each.
Don't run away with the idea that because these are cheap they can't be any good. Come and see at once; we have a window display of them.

MILLINERY SECTION.

Three Windows display an unusually fine showing of AUTUMN and WINTER MILLINERY at our usual very moderate prices.
Beauty and Distinction characterise our display of Children's Millinery, styles suitable for Infants to Misses.

Our New Illustrated Winter Catalogue will be ready to issue in a few days, so send along your name and address. We will be pleased to Mail you a copy FREE.

NONE NAME IT BUT TO PRAISE SNOW'S.

"I don't know where you bought them, but you are certainly giving your customers remarkable values in these FLANNELS and FLANNELETTES." He was a Manufacturer's representative of the same class of goods, and he, therefore, had no interest in praising another maker's article. From the which you may reasonably infer that are doing something unusual. For has it not been written that a man must be a pretty decent sort when even his relatives speak well of him.

A SPECIAL "GUINEA" TRIMMED VELVET HAT.

Our experience is that many ladies like to pay not more than 21/ for their "utility hats." One style for a Guinea is a Close Fitting Hat in Navy Mirror Velvet. The crown is inlet with White Glace Silk, softly corded. The main theme in the trimming is a very clever Wing Effect of Silk and Velvet at back. This hat may be seen in the Millinery Salon, Third Floor. PRICE 21/.

TO FURNISH THE MAN

IN STYLE AND COMFORT, AND YET WITH ECONOMY, IS THE IDEA AT THE BACK OF

PITT-STREET HORDERN'S

MERCERY SECTIONS.

THE MAN IS USUALLY IN A HURRY:—
That is why our Men's Counters are right at the doors in both Pitt-street and George-street; no time wasted.
IF YOU, MADAM, DO HIS SHOPPING,
you like plenty of light and space to make your selection. Therefore, we have two big departments, entering from either street.

AUTUMN STYLES IN MEN'S FASHION SHIRTS are exceedingly smart.
A Special New Range is in White Cambric, with neat Black, Blue, or Brown Stripes. White neckbands, stiff or double soft cuffs.
4/6 each; or 3 for 13/.
5/6 each; or 3 for 16/.
A Fine Selection in New Designs and Colourings in Oxford and Zephyr Fashion Shirts.
6/6 each; or 3 for 18/9.
7/6 each; or 3 for 21/9.

Our Fine New Stock is BIG ENOUGH AND GOOD ENOUGH TO PYJAMA ALL SYDNEY.
The Pitt-street Hordern Pyjamas will bear any possible comparison for Variety, Quality, and Minimum Price, and above all, they always FIT! FIT! FIT!

FLANNELETTE PYJAMAS .... [illegible]
Better qualities .... 7/6, [illegible]
CEYLONESE, Cotton, with all the appearance of Ceylon Flannel, very durable and pleasant to wear, [illegible]
CEYLON FLANNEL, very comfortable, and practically unshrinkable .... 12/6, 14/6, [illegible]
CRIMEAN FLANNEL PYJAMAS, the name of warmth and comfort for cold weather .... 12/6, 14/6, [illegible]
And a Splendid Selection of PYJAMAS in Oxfords, Zephyrs, Crepes, and Cashmeres.

UNDERWEAR OF COMFORT AND ECONOMY, NOT YET—for the high Prices that are threatening in all Woollen Wear! We have had to do a lot of sniffing around the factories to keep our ECONOMY BANNER FLYING, but up to the present, at all events, you will find that PITT-STREET HORDERN VALUES ARE RIGHT—ALL RIGHT.

Light-weight Wool and Cotton Shirts and Underpants,
4/6, 5/6, 6/6 each.
All-wool ditto.
5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, to 10/6 each.

TRY US FOR BOX!

And now for the smaller man,
HAVE YOU YET GOT THAT BOY IN A

COTSWOLD?

The sharp boys, the smart boys, the bright boys, and the manly boys are all in COTSWOLD SUITS nowadays, because that is the sort of suit that suits that sort of a boy. And it is the sort of suit that a boy takes care of, for he admires the cut and the shape, the pockets and the half belt, just as much as you admire the Quality of the material and the SPLENDID VALUE FOR THE MONEY.
Bring him in, and investigate our COTSWOLDS, in sound English and Scotch Tweeds at 14/6, 16/6, 18/6, to 45/.
And in Genuine Indigo Serges at 18/6 TO 35/.

WE PAY CARRIAGE

AN OPPORTUNITY
TO SAVE 5/
ON YOUR WINTER COAT.

As a method of advertising, each day we make it a practice to select a daily necessity from standard new stock, and substantially reduce and offer it as

OUR DAILY SPECIAL LINE.

This reduction is not made because of any damage or fault, but solely that you may be able to get a reduced cost—to make a personal test of our values. To-day's special is an inducement for you to visit the display in Mantle Showroom.

A 32/6 TWEED COAT FOR 27/6.

This Coat is made in good, substantial Tweed that will withstand rough weather and keep its shape. Full flaring skirt held in by waist belt. Turn-back collar and revers. Fastening with horn buttons. ¾ length. Sizes 36 to 40 inches bust measurement. In brown and grey mixtures.
Usually 32/6.
TO-DAY ONLY 27/6.
See display in Barrack-street Window, also Mantle Showroom, 1st floor. Country residents may have the benefit of the reduced price if orders are mailed by return. We pay the carriage.

TO-MORROW WE OFFER
TWO CHILDREN'S SPECIALS.

Boys' 25/ Chesterfield Overcoats for [illegible].
Maids' 35/ Serge Coat and Skirt for [illegible].
Both these are available at the reduced prices on Saturday only.
